Geomorphology Human Activity And Global Environmental Change:

Geomorphology, Human Activity and Global Environmental Change Olav Slaymaker, 2000-06-15 Demonstrates that the land based geomorphological evidence of environmental change from late Pleistocene Holocene historical and contemporary time periods remain central to a full understanding of global environmental change both at the global and regional scale Includes case studies from Europe North America and Asia Geomorphology and Global Environmental Change Olav Slaymaker, Tom Spencer, Christine Embleton-Hamann, 2009-07-02 A statement from the world's leading geomorphologists on the state of and potential changes to the environment The Cryosphere and Global Environmental Change Olav Slaymaker, Richard Kelly, 2009-03-12 This is the first textbook to consider all aspects of the cryosphere system in the context of global environmental change driven by human activity and climate Considers all six aspects of the cryosphere ice sheets glacier ice permafrost river and lake ice sea ice and snow in the context of global environmental change driven by human activity and climate Describes a new concept of cryosphere transience and landscape transition which links climate hydrology ecology and geomorphology Looks at the evidence process and patterns of cryosphere change on local and global scales Provides a wealth of data to inform the current global environmental change debate Additional resources for this book can be found at <http://www.bcs.wiley.com/he/bcs/Books/action/index.bcsId/5064/itemId/140512976X> a Fundamentals of Geomorphology Reader in Geography Richard Huggett, 2007-07 This extensively revised and updated edition continues to present an engaging and comprehensive introduction to the subject exploring the world's landforms from a broad systems perspective It reflects on the latest developments in the field and includes new chapters on geomorphic materials and processes hillslopes and changing landscapes Fundamentals of Geomorphology is an engaging and comprehensive introduction Starting with a consideration of the nature of geomorphology and the geomorphic system geomorphic materials and processes and the quest of process and historical geomorphologists it moves on to discuss structure landforms resulting from or influenced by the endogenic agencies of tectonic and volcanic processes geological structures and rock types process and form landforms resulting from or influenced by the exogenic agencies of weathering running water flowing ice and meltwater ground ice and frost the wind and the sea history earth surface history giving a discussion of Quaternary landforms and ancient landforms including the origin of old plains relict exhumed and stagnant landscape features and evolutionary aspects of landscape change Fundamentals of Geomorphology provides a stimulating and innovative perspective on the key topics and debates within the field of geomorphology Written in an accessible and lively manner it includes guides to further reading chapter summaries and an extensive glossary of key terms The book is also illustrated throughout with over 200 informative diagrams and attractive photographs including a colour plate section Fundamentals of Geomorphology Richard Huggett, Emma Shuttleworth, 2022-12-22 This revised and updated edition continues to provide a comprehensive introduction to the subject exploring the world's landforms from a broad systems perspective. It covers the basics of Earth surface forms and processes while reflecting on the latest developments in the field. Fundamentals of Geomorphology begins with a consideration of the nature of geomorphology including its relation to society, process and form, history and geomorphic systems and moves on to discuss Structure, structural landforms associated with plate tectonics and those associated with volcanoes and folds, faults and joints. Process and form landforms resulting from or influenced by the exogenic agencies of weathering, running water, flowing ice and meltwater, ground ice and frost, the wind and the sea, landforms developed on limestone, extraterrestrial landforms and landscape evolution, a discussion of ancient landforms. Fundamentals of Geomorphology provides a stimulating and innovative perspective on the key topics and debates within the field of geomorphology. Written in an accessible and lively manner, it includes guides to further reading, chapter summaries and an extensive glossary of key terms. The book is also illustrated throughout with over 200 informative diagrams and attractive photographs, all in colour. It is supported by online resources for students and instructors. Encyclopedia of Environmental Change John A. Matthews, 2013-12-13

Accessibly written by a team of international authors, the Encyclopedia of Environmental Change provides a gateway to the complex facts, concepts, techniques, methodology and philosophy of environmental change. This three-volume set illustrates and examines topics within this dynamic and rapidly changing interdisciplinary field. The encyclopedia includes all of the following aspects of environmental change: Diverse evidence of environmental change including climate change and changes on land and in the oceans; Underlying natural and anthropogenic causes and mechanisms; Wide-ranging local, regional and global impacts from the polar regions to the tropics; Responses of geo-ecosystems and human environmental systems in the face of past, present and future environmental change; Approaches, methodologies and techniques used for reconstructing, dating, monitoring, modelling, projecting and predicting change; Social, economic and political dimensions of environmental issues; environmental conservation and management and environmental policy. Over 4,000 entries explore the following key themes and more: Conservation; Demographic change; Environmental management; Environmental policy; Environmental security; Food security; Glaciation; Green Revolution; Human impact on environment; Industrialization; Land-use change; Military impacts on environment; Mining and mining impacts; Nuclear energy; Pollution; Renewable resources; Solar energy; Sustainability; Tourism; Trade; Water resources; Water security; Wildlife conservation. The comprehensive coverage of terminology includes layers of entries ranging from one-line definitions to short essays, making this an invaluable companion for any student of physical geography, environmental geography or environmental sciences. Fundamentals of

The History of the Study of Landforms or the Development of Geomorphology, Volume 5 T.P. Burt,A.S. Goudie,H.A. Viles,2022-10-20 Co published with British Society for Geomorphology This volume is the fifth in the definitive series The History of the Study of Landforms or the Development of Geomorphology Volume 1 1964 dealt with contributions to the field up to 1890 Volume 2 1973 with the concepts and contributions of William Morris Davis and Volume 3 1991 covered historical and regional themes during the classic period of geomorphology 1890 1950 Volume 4 2008 concentrated on studies of geomorphological processes and Quaternary geomorphology between 1890 and 1965 by the end of this period process based studies had become dominant Volume 5 builds on this platform covering in detail the revolutionary changes in approach that characterized the study of geomorphology in the second half of the twentieth century It is divided into three sections the first deals with changes in approach and method the second with changes in ideas and the broader scientific context within which geomorphology is studied and the final section details advances in research on processes and landforms The volume s objective is to describe and analyse many of the developments that provide a foundation for the rich and varied subject matter of twenty first century geomorphology

The Apocalyptic Dimensions of Climate Change Jan Alber,2021-09-07 Climate change and the apocalypse are frequently associated in the popular imagination of the twenty first century This collection of essays brings together climatologists theologians historians literary scholars and philosophers to address and critically assess this association The contributing authors are concerned among other things with the relation between cultural and scientific discourses on climate change the role of apocalyptic images and narratives in representing environmental issues and the tension between reality and fiction in apocalyptic representations of catastrophes By focusing on how figures in fictional texts interact with their environment and deal with the consequences of climate change this volume foregrounds the broader social and cultural function of apocalyptic narratives of climate change By evoking a sense of collective human destiny in the face of the ultimate catastrophe apocalyptic narratives have both cautionary and inspirational functions Determining the extent to which such narratives square with scientific knowledge of climate change is one of the main aims of this book

Geomorphological Hazards and Disaster Prevention Irasema

Alcántara-Ayala, Andrew S. Goudie, 2010-03-04 Human activities have had a huge impact on the environment and landscape through industrialisation and land use change leading to climate change deforestation desertification land degradation and air and water pollution These impacts are strongly linked to the occurrence of geomorphological hazards such as floods landslides snow avalanches soil erosion and others Geomorphological work includes not only the understanding but the mapping and modelling of Earth's surface processes many of which directly affect human societies In addition geomorphologists are becoming increasingly involved with the dimensions of societal problem solving through vulnerability analysis hazard and risk assessment and management The work of geomorphologists is therefore of prime importance for disaster prevention An international team of geomorphologists have contributed their expertise to this volume making this a scientifically rigorous work for a wide audience of geomorphologists and other Earth scientists including those involved in environmental science hazard and risk assessment management and policy

Archaeological Landscapes of the Near East Tony J. Wilkinson, 2003-11

Many fundamental studies of the origins of states have built upon landscape data but an overall study of the Near Eastern landscape itself has never been attempted Spanning thousands of years of history the ancient Near East presents a bewildering range of landscapes the understanding of which can greatly enhance our ability to infer past political and social systems Tony Wilkinson now shows that throughout the Holocene humans altered the Near Eastern environment so thoroughly that the land has become a human artifact albeit one that retains the power to shape human societies In this trailblazing book the first to describe and explain the development of the Near Eastern landscape using archaeological data Wilkinson identifies specific landscape signatures for various regions and periods from the early stages of complex societies in the fifth to sixth millennium B C to the close of the Early Islamic period around the tenth century A D From Bronze Age city states to colonized steppes these signature landscapes of irrigation systems tells and other features changed through time along with changes in social economic political and environmental conditions By weaving together the record of the human landscape with evidence of settlement the environment and social and economic conditions Wilkinson provides a holistic view of the ancient Near East that complements archaeological excavations cuneiform texts and other conventional sources Through this overview culled from thirty years research Wilkinson establishes a new framework for understanding the economic and physical infrastructure of the region By describing the basic attributes of the ancient cultural landscape and placing their development within the context of a dynamic environment he breaks new ground in
