

Table. Principles of Geriatrics Applied to Dermatology

Geriatrics Principle	Relevance to Dermatology	Example
Life expectancy is more than age	Treatment of low-risk basal cell carcinoma (BCC)	A healthy 80-year-old may have a life expectancy of over 10 years, making treatment of low-risk BCC appropriate to prevent future growth. Meanwhile, a frail 80-year-old with many comorbidities may not live long enough to benefit from treatment of a low-risk BCC.
Lag time to benefit	Screening total body skin examination	A patient in the last year of life may not benefit from routine screening total body skin examination.
Polypharmacy and medication adverse effects	Sedating antihistamines	A patient with itch who is prescribed a sedating antihistamine may experience dizziness and fall due to this medication.
Cognition	Ability to tolerate minor procedures	A patient with dementia may not understand why they are having a biopsy procedure performed, and what seems like a simple procedure can induce anxiety and fear. In a patient prone to behavioral symptoms, this risks precipitating agitation, significantly complicating the caregiver's management during and after the procedure. Also a patient with dementia may not keep a bandage on, and may have hard time keeping the wound clean.
Function and mobility	Wound healing, office visits, bandage changes	Pressure ulcers may develop due to immobility, and wound healing may be complicated by difficulties bathing and moving.
Caregivers, social support	Office visits, bandage changes	A clinic visit may be logistically challenging for the family of a patient who needs support during and after visits. Caregiver availability may determine if follow-up visits and bandage changes are possible.
Patient preferences matter	Treatment of actinic keratoses (AK)	Regarding a painless but cosmetically visible AK, treatment may not be necessary for a patient who is not bothered by it, but may be necessary for a patient who is bothered by its appearance.

Geriatric Dermatology:

Geriatric Dermatology R.A. Norman, 2020-08-26 Over the past few years the world's population has continued on its remarkable transition from a state of high birth and death rates to one characterized by low birth and death rates. Consequently primary care physicians and dermatologists will see more elderly patients presenting age related dermatological conditions. There has never been a better time for a book devoted entirely to skin care in the elderly. Geriatric Dermatology draws together a panel of experts who provide an overview of the diagnosis and treatment of geriatric skin diseases. It begins with a general review of the aging of the world's population and the major dermatological problems that often arise in elderly patients. An added benefit is the book's coverage of geriatric skin care in nursing homes, adult congregate living and subacute and home health settings, a subject not always found in conventional dermatology texts. The book includes a summary of the dermatological disorders frequently encountered in the elderly including eczematous dermatitis, skin infections and neoplasias. A description of the most common geriatric hair and scalp disorders including graying, alopecia and scalp psoriasis. Comprehensive coverage of the diagnosis and treatment of leg, foot and nail diseases. Detailed discussion of the treatment of superficial mycoses, scabies and pediculosis. Less common geriatric conditions such as blistering diseases. Major adverse drug reactions on the skin. Leg ulcers due to venous insufficiency, arterial diseases and diabetic nephropathy. Diagnosis and treatment of diabetic complications of dermatology such as scleroderma and dermatopathy. The study of diseases that impact the elderly population is a crucial and growing area of interest in medicine. Geriatricians, primary care physicians, dermatologists and others involved in the care of the elderly will inevitably see an increase in skin diseases specific to aging. The comprehensive coverage provided by Geriatric Dermatology facilitates the diagnosis and management of these geriatric skin diseases from the common to the rare and unusual. Advances in Geriatric Dermatology Anne Lynn S. Chang, 2015-07-24 This concise, easy to read book summarizes the current clinical evidence and basic science relating to aging and the skin, assisting the clinician in addressing skin problems in older dermatologic patients. Each chapter focuses on a particular area in which new knowledge has rapidly emerged over the past 5 years, ensuring that the book is completely up to date. Recent insights into aging skin from basic and translational science are first discussed, covering the underlying genetics and the potential role of topical agents and procedures in reversing the aging process. Evidence based prescribing in older patients is then explained, and the evidence relating to treatments for psoriasis reviewed. Further chapters in Geriatric Dermatology address non surgical treatment options for basal cell carcinoma, the increase in and management of sexually transmitted diseases in older dermatology patients and cutaneous signs of elder mistreatment. Case vignettes and informative illustrations assist the reader in quickly grasping the connection between an age related process and its clinical impact. Geriatric Dermatology is written for dermatologists, research scientists with translational interest, geriatricians and gerontologists. Clinical Cases in Geriatric Dermatology Robert A.
