

Food Safety Management

Food safety management is a systematic approach to ensuring the safety and quality of food products throughout the supply chain, from production to consumption.

It involves identifying potential hazards, assessing risks, and implementing control measures to prevent foodborne illness and contamination.

Key components of food safety management include:

1. Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP): A systematic approach to identifying and controlling potential hazards in food production.

2. Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP): Standards for food production that focus on hygiene, sanitation, and quality control.

3. Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS): The U.S. Department of Agriculture agency responsible for ensuring the safety and inspection of meat, poultry, and egg products.
