

Five Centuries of English Book Illustration

A Voyage to Lilliput.

"Three hundred tailors were employed to make me clothes."

measured the length of the cord with the rule of an inch long. Then they measured my right thumb, and desired no more; for by a mathematical computation, that twice round the thumb is once round the wrist, and so on to the neck and waist, and by the help of my old shirt, which I displayed on the ground before them for a pattern, they fitted me exactly. Three hundred tailors were employed in the same manner to make me clothes; but they had another contrivance for

Five Centuries Of English Illustration:

Five Centuries of English Book Illustration Edward Hodnett, 1988-11-01 Five Centuries of English Book Illustration Edward Hodnett, 1988 This is the first detailed survey of the past five centuries of book illustration in England It is divided into two parts Part One is a comprehensive analysis of specific artists books and illustrations and covers the anonymous work in books by leading printers before 1600 and then the work of over 200 illustrators up to 1976 Part Two a Catalogue of Illustrations and Books lists 2 700 selected entries of English illustrations and includes 200 reproductions chosen to illustrate the discussion Edward Hodnett gives a general impression of each artist s work describes the subject matter of the designs notes their relation to other illustrations and attempts to reach an estimate of the artist s relative achievement as an interpretive illustrator The book also features bibliographies and a comprehensive alphabetical index of illustrators printers booksellers presses and engravers Illustrated Catalogue of Early English and Later Literature Mainly in First Editions Edwin Babcock Holden, 1920 Visualizing Africa in Nineteenth-Century British Travel Accounts Leila Koivunen, 2008-11-19 This study examines and explains how British explorers visualized the African interior in the latter part of the nineteenth century providing the first sustained analysis of the process by which this visual material was transformed into the illustrations in popular travel books At that time central Africa was effectively a blank canvas for Europeans unknown and devoid of visual representations While previous works have concentrated on exploring the stereotyped nature of printed imagery of Africa this study examines the actual production process of images and the books in which they were published in order to demonstrate how why and by whom the images were manipulated Thus the main focus of the work is not on the aesthetic value of pictures but in the activities interaction and situations that gave birth to them in both Africa and Europe The English Illustrated Magazine , 1898 Romanticism and Illustration Ian Haywood, Susan Matthews, Mary L. Shannon, 2019-05-16 Explores a vital aspect of British Romanticism the role of illustration in Romantic era literary texts and visual culture Illustrated Religious Texts in the North of Europe, 1500-1800 Feike Dietz, Adam Morton, Lien Roggen, 2016-12-05 In recent years many historians have argued that the Reformation did not as previously thought hamper the development of Northern European visual culture but rather gave new impetus to the production diffusion and reception of visual materials in both Catholic and Protestant milieus This book investigates the crosscurrents of exchange in the realm of illustrated religious literature within and beyond confessional and national borders and against the background of recent insights into the importance of on the one hand material as well as on the other hand sensual and emotional aspects of early modern culture Each chapter in the volume helps illuminate early modern religious culture from the perspective of the production of illustrated religious texts to see the book as object a point at which various vectors of early modern society met Case studies together with theoretical contributions shed light on the ways in which illustrated religious books functioned in evolving societies by analysing the use re use and sharing of illustrated religious texts in England France the Low Countries the German States and Switzerland Interpretations based on points of material interaction show us how the most basic binaries of the early modern world Catholic and Protestant word and image public and private were disrupted and negotiated in the realm of the illustrated religious book Through this approach the volume expands the historical appreciation of the place of imagery in post Reformation Europe Mirror of the World Meg Roland, 2021-07-28 In the late fifteenth century the production of print editions of Claudius Ptolemy's second century Geography sparked one of the most significant intellectual developments of the era the production of mathematically based north oriented maps The production of world maps in England however was notably absent during this Ptolemaic revival As a result the impact of Ptolemy's text on English geographical thought has been obscured and minimized with scholars speculating a possible English indifference to or isolation from European geographic developments Tracing English geographical thought through the material culture of literary and popular texts this study provides evidence for the reception and transmission of Ptolemaic based geography in England during a critical period of geographic innovation and synthesis one that laid the foundation for modern geographical representation With evidence from prose romance book illustration theatrical performance cosmological ceilings and almanacs Mirror of the World proposes a new interdisciplinary literary and cartographic history of the influence of Ptolemaic geography in England one that reveals the lively integration of geographic concepts through narrative and non cartographic visual forms Reading Victorian Illustration, 1855-1875 Paul Goldman, 2016-04-01 In a reevaluation of that period in Victorian illustration known as The Sixties a distinguished group of international scholars consider the impact of illustration on the act of reading its capacity to reflect construct critique and challenge its audience's values its response to older graphic traditions and its assimilation of foreign influences While focused on the years 1855 to 1875 the essays take up issues related to the earlier part of the nineteenth century and look forward to subsequent developments in illustration The contributors examine significant figures such as Ford Madox Brown Frederick Sandys John Everett Millais George John Pinwell and Hablot Knight Browne in connection with the illustrated magazine the mid Victorian gift book and changing visual responses to the novels of Dickens Engaging with a number of theories and critical debates the collection offers a detailed and provocative analysis of the nature of illustration its production consumption and place within the broader contexts of mid Victorian culture Book Illustration in the Long Eighteenth Century Christina Ionescu, Renata Schellenberg, 2015-01-12 Hitherto relegated to the closets of art history and literary studies book illustration has entered mainstream scholarship The chapters of this collection offer only a glimpse of where a complete reconfiguration of the visual periphery of eighteenth century texts might ultimately take us The use of the gerund of the verb to reconfigure in the subtitle of this collection instead of the corresponding noun underlines the work in progress character of this interdisciplinary endeavour which aims above all to discern new vistas while charting or revisiting landmarks in the rich field of eighteenth century book illustration The specific interpretive lenses through which contributors to this collection re evaluate the visual periphery of the text cover an array of disciplines and areas of interest among these the most prominent are book history and print culture art history and image theory material and visual culture word and image interaction feminist theory and gender studies history of medicine and technology This spectrum could have been even less restrictive and more colourful if it were not for pragmatic and editorial considerations Nonetheless its plurality of vision provides a framework for an inclusive and multifaceted approach to eighteenth century book illustration Perhaps these essays are most valuable in the practical models they provide on how to tackle the interdisciplinary challenge that is the study of the eighteenth century illustrated book The collection as such is the first formal step in an effort to rethink or reconfigure the visual periphery of eighteenth century texts It has become clear that the study of the illustrated book of the Age of Enlightenment has the potential of yielding multiple findings perspectives and discourses about a society immersed in visual culture skilled in visual communication and reflected in the visual legacy it left behind

Illustrating the Past in Early Modern England James A. Knapp, 2017-07-28 Illustrating the Past is a study of the status of visual and verbal media in early modern English representations of the past It focuses on general attitudes towards visual and verbal representations of history as well as specific illustrated books produced during the period Through a close examination of the relationship of image to text in light of contemporary discussions of poetic and aesthetic practice the book demonstrates that the struggle between the image and the word played a profoundly important role in England's emergent historical self awareness The opposition between history and story fact and fiction often tenuous provided a sounding board for deeper conflicts over the form in which representations might best yield truth from history The ensuing schism between poets and historians over the proper venue for the lessons of the past manifested itself on the pages of early modern printed books The discussion focuses on the word and image relationships in several important illustrated books printed during the second half of the sixteenth century including Holinshed's Chronicles 1577 and Foxe's Book of Martyrs 1563 1570 in the context of contemporary works on history and poetics such as Sir Philip Sidney's Apology for Poetry and Thomas Blundeville's The true order and Method of wryting and reading Hystories Illustrating the Past specifically answers two important questions concerning the resultant production of literary and historical texts in the period Why did the use of images in printed histories suddenly become unpopular at the end of the sixteenth century and What impact did this publishing trend have on writers of literary and historical texts

The English Novel, 1700-1740 Robert Letellier,2003-02-28 The English novel written between 1700 and 1740 remains a comparatively neglected area In addition to Daniel Defoe whose Robinson Crusoe and Moll Flanders are landmarks in the history of English fiction many other authors were at work These included such women as Penelope Aubin Jane Barker Mary Davys and Eliza Haywood who made a considerable contribution to widening the range of emotional responses in fiction These authors and many others continued writing in the genres inherited from the previous century such as criminal biographies the Utopian novel the science fictional voyage and the epistolary novel This annotated bibliography includes entries for these works and for critical materials pertinent to them The volume first seeks to establish the existing studies of the era along with anthologies It then provides entries for a wide ranging selection of works which cover fictional theoretical historical political and cultural topics to provide a comprehensive background to the unfolding and understanding of prose fiction in the early 18th century This is followed by an alphabetical listing of novels their editions and any critical material available on each The next section provides a chronological record of significant and enduring works of fiction composed or translated in this period The volume concludes with extensive indexes

Pictorial Victorians Julia Thomas,2004 Pictorial Victorians focuses on two of the most popular mid nineteenth century genres illustration and narrative painting that blurred the line between the visual and the textual Illustration negotiated text and image on the printed page while narrative painting juxtaposed the two media in its formulation of pictorial stories Pictorial Victorians surveys a range of material from representations of the crinoline to the illustrations that accompanied Harriet Beecher Stowe s novel Uncle Tom s Cabin and Tennyson s poetry to paintings of adultery It demonstrates that the space between text and image is one in which values are both constructed and questioned
