The Limits of Auteurism Nicholas Godfrey, 2018-05-10 The New Hollywood era of the late 1960s and early 1970s has become one of the most romanticized periods in motion picture history celebrated for its stylistic boldness thematic complexity and the unshackling of directorial ambition The Limits of Auteurism aims to challenge many of these assumptions Beginning with the commercial success of Easy Rider in 1969 and ending two years later with the critical and commercial failure of that film's twin progeny The Last Movie and The Hire Hand Nicholas Godfrey surveys a key moment that defined the subsequent aesthetic parameters of American commercial art cinema The book explores the role that contemporary critics played in determining how the movies of this period were understood and how in turn strategies of distribution influenced critical responses and dictated the conditions of entry into the rapidly codifying New Hollywood canon Focusing on a small number of industrially significant films this new history advances our understanding of this important moment of transition from Classical to contemporary modes of production

Hollywood's Last Golden Age Jonathan Kirshner, 2012-10-05 Between 1967 and 1976 a number of extraordinary factors converged to produce an uncommonly adventurous era in the history of American film The end of censorship the decline of the studio system economic changes in the industry and demographic shifts among audiences filmmakers and critics created an unprecedented opportunity for a new type of Hollywood movie one that Jonathan Kirshner identifies as the seventies film In Hollywood's Last Golden Age Kirshner shows the ways in which key films from this period including Chinatown Five Easy Pieces The Graduate and Nashville as well as underappreciated films such as The Friends of Eddie Coyle Kluge and Night Moves were important works of art in continuous dialogue with the political social personal and philosophical issues of their times These seventies films reflected the era's social and political upheavals the civil rights movement the domestic consequences of the Vietnam war the sexual revolution women's liberation the end of the long postwar economic boom the Shakespearean saga of the Nixon Administration and Watergate Hollywood films in this brief exceptional moment embraced a new aesthetic and a new approach to storytelling creating self consciously gritty character driven explorations of moral and narrative ambiguity Although the rise of the blockbuster in the second half of the 1970s largely ended Hollywood's embrace of more challenging films Kirshner argues that seventies filmmakers showed that it was possible to combine commercial entertainment with serious explorations of politics society and characters interior lives

Other Hollywood Renaissance Dominic Lennard, 2020-09-09 In the late 1960s the collapse of the classic Hollywood studio system led in part and for less than a decade to a production trend heavily influenced by the international art cinema

Reflecting a new self consciousness in the US about the national film patrimony this period is known as the Hollywood Renaissance However critical study of the period is generally associated with its so called principal auteurs slighting a number of established and emerging directors who were responsible for many of the era s most innovative and artistically successful releases With contributions from leading film scholars this book provides a revisionist account of this creative resurgence by discussing and memorializing twenty four directors of note who have not yet been given a proper place in the larger history of the period Including filmmakers such as Hal Ashby John Frankenheimer Mike Nichols and Joan Micklin Silver this more expansive approach to the auteurism of the late 1960s and 1970s seems not only appropriate but pressing a necessary element of the re evaluation of Hollywood with which cinema studies has been preoccupied under the challenges posed by the emergence and flourishing of new media

Post-Fordist Cinema Jeff Menne, 2019-02-26 The New Hollywood boom of the late 1960s and 1970s is celebrated as a time when maverick directors bucked the system Against the backdrop of counterculture sensibilities and the prominence of auteur theory New Hollywood directors such as Robert Altman and Francis Ford Coppola seemed to embody creative individualism In Post Fordist Cinema Jeff Menne rewrites the history of this period arguing that auteur theory served to reconcile directors to Hollywood s corporate project Menne traces the surprising affinities between auteur theory and management gurus such as Peter Drucker who envisioned a more open and flexible corporate style In founding production companies New Hollywood filmmakers took part in the creation of new corporate models that emphasized entrepreneurial creativity For firms such as Kirk Douglas s Bryna Productions Altman s Lion s Gate Films the Zanuck Brown Company and BBS Productions the counterculture ethos limbered up the studio system s sclerotic production process with striking parallels to how management theory conceived of the role of the individual within the firm Menne offers insightful readings of how films such as Lonely Are the Brave Brewster McCloud Jaws and The King of Marvin Gardens narrate the conditions in which they were created depicting shifting notions of work and corporate structure While auteur theory allowed directors to cast themselves as independent creators Menne argues that its most consequential impact came as a management doctrine An ambitious rethinking of New Hollywood Post Fordist Cinema sheds new light on the cultural myth of the great director and the birth of the creative economy
