A Flannel Shirt and Liberty Susan Jackel, 1982-01-01 This collection of articles and extracts from books and periodicals describes in detail the opportunities in Western Canada for British women emigrants By 1900 there was a great demand both for wives and for workers in a variety of occupations Women Wanted was the message conveyed by Canadian officials journalists and public spirited women who travelled across Canada and reported on their findings Sisters Or Strangers Franca Iacovetta, Frances Swyripa, Marlene Epp, 2004-01-01 Spanning two hundred years of history from the nineteenth century to the 1990s Sisters or Strangers explores the complex lives of immigrant ethnic and racialized women in Canada The volume deals with a cross section of peoples including Japanese Chinese Black Aboriginal Irish Finnish Ukrainian Jewish Mennonite Armenian and South Asian Hindu women and diverse groups of women including white settlers refugees domestic servants consumer activists nurses wives and mothers The central themes of Sisters or Strangers include discourses of race in the context of nation building encounters with the state and public institutions symbolic and media representations of women familial relations domestic violence and racism and analyses of history and memory In different ways the authors question whether the historical experience of women in Canada represents a sisterhood of challenge and opportunity or if the racial class or marginalized identity of the immigrant and minority women made them in fact strangers in a country where privilege and opportunity fall according to criteria of exclusion Using a variety of theoretical approaches this collaborative work reminds us that victimization and agency are never mutually exclusive and encourages us to reflect critically on the categories of race gender and the nation Hired Hands Cecilia Danysk, 1995-12-15 Farm workers were central to the development of Canada's prairie West From 1878 when the first shipment of prairie grain went to international markets to 1929 when the Great Depression signalled the end of the wheat boom the role of hired hands changed dramatically Prior to World War One hired hands viewed themselves and were treated in the rural community as equals to their farmer employers Many were farmers in training informal apprentices who worked for wages so they could accumulate the capital and experience needed to secure their own free 160 acre parcels of land In later years as free lands were taken hired hands increasingly faced the likelihood of remaining waged labourers on the farms of others They became agricultural proletarians In this first full length study of labour in Canadian prairie agriculture during the period of settlement and expansion Cecilia Danysk examines the changing work and the growing rural community of the West through the eyes of the workers themselves World War One was a catalyst in bringing into focus the conflicting nature of labour capital relations and the divergent aims of workers and their employers Yet attempts at union organization were unsuccessful because most hired hands worked alone and because governments assisted farmers by stifling such attempts The workers greatest form of workplace control was to walk off one job and find another Previously published by McClelland Stewart Scots in the North American West, 1790-1917 Ferenc Morton Szasz, 2000 Scots trappers dominated the fur trade often proving more loyal to clan than to trading company or nation Relying on centuries of experience raising livestock for British markets Scottish investors and managers became highly visible in the post Civil War western cattle industry with thriving outfits such as the Swan Land and Cattle Company in Wyoming They introduced new breeds to western ranching such as the Aberdeen Angus that remain popular today Similarly Scots herders dominated the western sheep industry running herds of over 100 000 animals Andrew Little s sheep ranch in Idaho was so famous that a letter addressed simply Andy Little USA found its intended recipient

I'm Not Myself at All Kristina Huneault,2018-07-16 Notions of identity have long structured women s art Dynamics of race class and gender have shaped the production of artworks and oriented their subsequent reassessments Arguably this is especially true of art by women and of the socially engaged criticism that addresses it If identity has been a problem in women s art however is more identity the solution In this study of nineteenth and early twentieth century art in Canada Kristina Huneault offers a meditation on the strictures of identity and an exploration of forces that unsettle and realign the self Looking closely at individual artists and works Huneault combines formal analysis with archival research and philosophical inquiry building nuanced readings of objects that range from the canonical to the largely unknown Whether in miniature portraits or genre paintings botanical drawings or baskets women artists reckoned with constraints that limited understandings of themselves and others They also forged creative alternatives At times identity features in women s artistic work as a failed project at other times it marks a boundary beyond which they were able to expand explore and exult Bringing together settler and indigenous forms of cultural expression and foregrounding the importance of colonialism within the development of art in Canada I m Not Myself at All observes and reactivates historical art by women and prompts readers to consider what a less restrictive conceptualization of selfhood might bring to current patterns of cultural analysis

Working Girls in the West Lindsey McMaster,2008-07-01 As the twentieth century got under way in Canada young women who entered the paid workforce became the focus of intense public debate Young wage earning women working girls embodied all that was unnerving and unnatural about modern times the disintegration of the family the independence of women and the unwholesomeness of city life These anxieties were amplified in the West Long after eastern Canada was considered settled and urbanized the West continued to be represented as a frontier where the idea of the region as a society in the making added resonance to the idea of the working girl as social pioneer Using an innovative interpretive approach that centres on literary representation Lindsey McMaster takes a fresh look at the working heroine of western Canadian literature alongside social documents and newspaper accounts of her real life counterparts Working Girls in the West heightens our understanding of a figure that fired the imagination of writers and observers at the turn of the last century

The British World Carl Bridge,Kent Fedorowich,2004-11-23 This collection of essays is based upon the assumption that the British Empire was held together not merely by ties of trade and defence but by a shared sense of British identity that linked British communities around the globe Focusing on the themes of migration identity and the media this book is an exploration of these and other interconnected themes that help define the British World of the late 19th and 20th centuries

Core Of My Heart, My Country Maggie MacKellar, 2016-05-18 When Georgiana Molloy gave birth on the beach at Augusta in 1830 with boxes of her possessions lying where they'd landed she was one of the many women who literally had to remake their homes out of the broken bones of their past In this passionate book Maggie MacKellar tells the stories of women on the frontier in Canada and Australia who ventured out in bonnets and petticoats to collect seeds who abandoned sidesaddles to ride in the mountains who risked their reputations to climb mountains and beyond this it tells of the risky business of women who put their lives on the page to claim the importance of their experience Core of My Heart My Country weaves together experience and insight from women who lived and wrote in different landscapes in different climates and in different eras It is a provocative and remarkable encounter with buried stories and persistent myths

In Due Season Christine van der Mark, 2016-05-28 First published in 1947 In Due Season broke new ground with its fictional representation of women and of Indigenous people Set during the dustbowl 1930s this tersely narrated prize winning novel follows Lina Ashley a determined solo female homesteader who takes her family from drought ridden southern Alberta to a new life in the Peace River region Here her daughter Poppy grows up in a community characterized by harmonious interactions between the local Métis and newly arrived European settlers Still there is tension between mother and daughter when Poppy becomes involved with a Métis lover This novel expands the patriarchal canon of Canadian prairie fiction by depicting the agency of a successful female settler and as noted by Dorothy Livesay was one of the first if not the first Canadian novel wherein the plight of the Native Indian and the Métis is honestly and painfully recorded The afterword by Carole Gerson and Janice Dowson provides substantial information about author Christine van der Mark and situates her under acknowledged book within the contexts of Canadian social literary and publishing history

Game Plan Karen L. Wall, 2012-10-19 How deep is the importance and influence of organized sports in Alberta Discover key episodes and players in the history of Alberta's organized sports and read how sport shaped the lives of individuals as well as of communities of indigenous people settlers and immigrants Read new perspectives on well known sports stories along with tales of lesser known games that remained on the margins of most histories for reasons of race class and gender Whether a spectator supporter scholar or fan readers will be informed and delighted by the research contained in this sport history

Bananas, Beaches and Bases Cynthia Enloe, 2014-05-16 In this brand new radical analysis of globalization Cynthia Enloe examines recent events Bangladeshi garment factory deaths domestic workers in the Persian Gulf Chinese global tourists and the UN gender politics of guns to reveal the crucial role of women in international politics today With all new and updated chapters Enloe describes how many women's seemingly personal strategies in their marriages in their housework in their coping with ideals of beauty are in reality the stuff of global politics Enloe offers a feminist gender analysis of the global politics of both masculinities and femininities dismantles an apparently overwhelming world system and reveals that system to be much more fragile and open to change than we think      Women's Work, Markets and Economic Development in Nineteenth-Century Ontario Marjorie Griffin Cohen, 1988-12-15 Cohen focuses on the productive relations in the family and the significance of women's labour to the process of capital accumulation in both the capitalist sphere and independent commodity production In this study Marjorie Griffin Cohen argues that in research into Ontario's economic history the emphasis on market activity has obscured the most prevalent type of productive relations in the staple exporting economy the patriarchal relations of production within the family economy Cohen focuses on the productive relations in the family and the significance of women's labour to the process of capital accumulation in both the capitalist sphere and independent commodity production She shows that while the family economy was based on the mutual dependence of male and female labour there was not equality in productive relations The male ownership of capital in the context of the family economy had significant implications for the control over female labour Among countries which experience industrial development there are common patterns in the impact of change on women's work there are also significant differences One of the most important of these is the fact that economic development did not result in women's labour being withdrawn from the social sphere of production Rather economic growth has steadily brought women's productive efforts more directly into the market sphere In exploring the roots of this development Cohen adds a new dimension to the study of women's labour history      Creating Societies Dirk

Hoerder, 2000-01-01 Dirk Hoerder shows us that it is not shining railroad tracks or statesmen in Ottawa that make up the story of Canada but rather individual stories of life and labour Caribbean women who care for children born in Canada lonely prairie homesteaders miners in Alberta and British Columbia women labouring in factories Chinese and Japanese immigrants carving out new lives in the face of hostility Hoerder examines these individual experiences in Creating Societies the first systematic overview of the total Canadian immigrant experience Using letters travel accounts diaries memoirs and reminiscences he brings the immigrant's experiences to life Their writings often recorded for grandchildren neighbours and sometimes a larger public show how immigrant lives were entwined with the emerging Canadian society Hoerder presents an important new picture of the emerging Canadian identity dispelling the Canadian myth of a dichotomy between national unity and ethnic diversity and emphasizing the long standing interaction between the members of a different ethnic groups

Changing Women, Changing History Diana Pederson, 1996-10-15 Changing Women Changing History is a bibliographic guide to the scholarship both English and French on Canadian's women's history Organized under broad subject headings and accompanied by author and subject indices it is accessible and comprehensive      Writing Women's History Karen M. Offen, Ruth Roach Pierson, Jane Rendall, 1991-08-23 Five essays address such themes as the relationship between feminist history and women's history the use of the concept of experience the development of the history of gender demographic history and women's history and the importance of post structuralism to women's history      Burlesque West Becki Ross, 2009-07-25 After the Second World War Vancouver emerged as a hotbed of striptease talent In Burlesque West the first critical history of this notorious striptease scene Becki Ross delves into the erotic entertainment industry at the northern end of the dancers west coast tour the North South route from Los Angeles to Vancouver that provided rotating work for dancers and variety for club clientele Drawing on extensive archival materials and fifty first person accounts of former dancers strip club owners booking agents choreographers and musicians Ross reveals stories that are deeply flavoured with an era before striptease fell from grace because the world stopped dreaming in the words of ex dancer Lindalee Tracey Though jobs in this particular industry are often perceived as having little in common with other sorts of work retired dancers accounts resonate surprisingly with those of contemporary service workers including perceptions of unionization and workplace benefits and hazards Ross also traces the sanitization and subsequent integration of striptease style and neo burlesque trends into mass culture examining continuity and change to ultimately demonstrate that Vancouver s glitzy nightclub scene often condemned as a quasi legal strain of urban blight in fact greased the economic engine of the post war city Provocative and challenging Burlesque West combines the economic the social the sexual and the personal and is sure to intellectually tantalize

On the Edge of Empire Adele Perry,2001-05-19 On the Edge of Empire is a well written carefully researched and persuasively argued book that delineates the centrality of race and gender in the making of colonial and national identities and in the re writing of Canadian history as colonial history Utilising feminist and post colonial filters Perry designs a case study of British Columbia She draws on current work which aims to close the distance between home and away in order to make her case about the commonalities and differences between circumstances in British Columbia and the kind of Anglo American culture that was increasingly dominant in North America parts of the British Isles and other white settler colonies On the Edge of Empire examines how a loosely connected group of reformers worked to transform an environment that lent itself to two social phenomena white male homosocial culture and conjugal relationships between First Nations women and settler men The reformers worked to replace British Columbia s homosocial culture with the practices of respectable middle class European masculinity Others encouraged mixed race couples to conform to European standards of marriage and discouraged white Aboriginal unions through moral suasion or the more radical tactic of racially segregated space Another reform impetus laboured through immigration and land policy to both build and shape the settler population A more successful reform effort involved four assisted female immigration efforts yet the experience of white women in British Columbia only made more pronounced the gap between colonial discourse and colonial experience In its failure to live up to British expectations remaining a racially plural resource colony with a unique culture British Columbia revealed much about the politics of gender race and the making of colonial society on this edge of empire Winner of the Clio Award British Columbia Region presented by the Canadian Historical Association and co winner of the Pacific Coast Branch Book Award presented by the American Historical Association

Women, Gender and Labour Migration Pamela Sharpe,2002-01-31 Approximately half of all migrants are today are female The contributors to this volume consider the ways in which attention to gender is moving debates away from old theories that have long dominated the field of migration studies

Pioneer Woman Elizabeth Thompson, 1991-03-01 Elizabeth Thompson develops the idea of the pioneer woman as an archetypal character firmly entrenched in Canadian fiction and the Canadian consciousness Thompson's broad definition of the concept of pioneer can be seen to reflect the history of Canadian women starting with the pioneers of settlement and continuing through the pioneers of spiritual perfection and psychological liberation Various versions of the pioneer woman have appeared in English Canadian fiction since Traill's development of the character type Sara Jeannette Duncan's The Imperialist and Ralph Connor's The Man From Glengarry and Glengarry School Days feature pioneer women who cope not only with physical frontiers but also with those grounded in social and personal concerns More recently Margaret Laurence used this character type in The Stone Angel A Jest of God and The Diviners with characters who inhabit internal personal frontiers Thompson argues that the longevity of this character type in English Canadian fiction reveals an affinity between the pioneer woman and a common conception of the role of women in Canadian society She suggests that the role for women proposed by the early immigrants was an appropriate choice for the Canadian frontier regardless of the location and nature of that frontier

Walk Towards the Gallows Tom Mitchell, Reinhold Kramer, 2004-02-11 On 5 July 1899 Hilda Blake a 21 year old maidservant in Brandon Manitoba who had come to Canada from England ten years earlier as an orphan immigrant shot and killed her mistress Two days after Christmas she was hanged one of the few women in Canadian history to die for her crime Blake unintentionally left a remarkable documentary record ranging from Poorhouse records courts dockets of custody and criminal cases in which she was the central figure popular journalistic and professional assessments of her character and a poem My Downfall that she penned in Brandon Gaol while awaiting execution To explain why Hilda bought a gun and why she fired it Kramer and Mitchell employ both historical and literary techniques The result is a richly textured story of late Victorian social cultural and political life This remarkable book part mystery part historical detective story uncovers Hilda Blake's life from her origins in Norfolk England to her tragic death It also examines the lives of other principals in the story successful Brandon businessman Robert Lane and his wife Mary the murdered woman Lane's business partner Alexander McIlvride Police Chief James Kircaldy A P Stewart and his wife Letitia Singer Stewart the family for whom the 12 year old orphaned Hilda first worked as a domestic servant Rev C C McLaurin the Baptist minister who knew Hilda and counselled the condemned woman in her final days social purity activist Dr Amelia Yeomans who petitioned for clemency Governor General Minto who urged the Laurier government to stay the execution even Clifford Sifton the MP from Brandon federal minister of Immigration and the most powerful western Liberal in the Laurier cabinet for whom the case was a potential minefield As the authors write We tell a story because only a story can expose the real workings of a culture and only a story can express our protest against time
