Twenty years after the release of the first edition of egg-tripping, Nikki Giovanni has added ten new poems and George Ford new illustrations to this provocative collection of poetry, which captures the essence of the African American experience in ways that have special relevance and appeal for young people.

"In Giovanni's egg-tripping, young people are taught how to fly, to know, and to remember who they are. There is deliverance for them in these poems of struggle and liberation. . . . Good that there is Giovanni here for them, best that she be among us all, writing the images and sounding the notes and verse of a better world."

—Virginia Hamilton, from the foreword

Gender and the Poetics of Excess Karen Jackson Ford, 2011-02-25 The argument posed in this analysis is that the poetic excesses of several major female poets' excesses that have been typically regarded as flaws in their work are strategies for escaping the inhibiting and sometimes inimical conventions too often imposed on women writers The forms of excess vary with each poet but by conceiving of poetic excess in relation to literary decorum this study establishes a shared motivation for such a strategy Literary decorum is one instrument a culture employs to constrain its writers Perhaps it is the most effective because it is the least definable The excesses discussed here like the criteria of decorum against which they are perceived cannot be itemized as an immutable set of traits Though decorum and excess shift over time and in different cultures their relationship to one another remains strikingly stable Thus nineteenth century standards for women's writing and late twentieth century standards bear almost no relation Emily Dickinson's do not anticipate Gertrude Stein's or Sylvia Plath's or Ntozake Shange's Yet the charges of indecorousness leveled at these women poets repeat a fixed set of abstract grievances Dickinson Stein Plath Jayne Cortez and Shange all engage in a poetics of excess as a means of rejecting the limitations and conventions of female writing that the larger culture imposes on them In resisting conventions for feminine writing these poets developed radical new poetics yet their work was typically criticized or dismissed as excessive Thus Dickinson's form is classified as hysterical and her figures tortured Stein's works are called repetitive and nonsensical Plath's tone is accused of being at once virulent and confessional Cortez's poems violent and vulgar Shange's work vengeful and self-righteous The publishing history of these poets demonstrates both the opposition to such an aesthetic and the necessity for it Connecting Cultures Rebecca L.
