The Egyptian Book of the Dead Ani, Guido Montelupo, 2014-09-05. The Book of the Dead is an ancient Egyptian funerary text used from the beginning of the New Kingdom (1550 BC) to 50 BC, consisting of a number of magic spells intended to assist a dead person's journey through the Duat or underworld and written by many priests over a period of about 1000 years. The corpus includes the earlier Pyramid Texts and Coffin Texts which were painted onto objects. Some of the spells were drawn from these older works and date to the 3rd millennium BC. The Book of the Dead was placed in the coffin or burial chamber of the deceased and was most commonly written in hieroglyphic or hieratic script on a papyrus scroll and often illustrated with vignettes depicting the deceased in their journey into the afterlife. The earliest known occurrence of the spells included in the Book of the Dead is from the coffin of Queen Mentuhotep of the 13th dynasty. The Papyrus of Ani is a manuscript with cursive hieroglyphs and color illustrations created circa 1250 BC in the 19th dynasty of the New Kingdom of ancient Egypt, which was acquired by the British Museum in the year 1888 and is the largest, the most perfect, the best preserved and the best illuminated of all the papyri from the second half of the XVIIIth dynasty (1500 to 1400 BC). His rare vignettes and hymns and chapters and its descriptive and introductory rubrics render it of unique importance for the study of the Book of the Dead and it takes a high place among the authoritative texts of the Theban version of that remarkable work. Ani's exalted official position as Chancellor of the ecclesiastical revenues and endowments of Abydos and Thebes would have provided him this large selection of the finest materials.

The Egyptian Book of the Dead, 2016-07-12. This papyrus is long known as the standard version of The Egyptian Book of the Dead. The Egyptians believed in an afterlife and this book served these beliefs for more than 3000 years. It provides instructions for the souls that pass on and enter into the Land of the Gods while also covering detailed rituals to be performed for the dead. The Papyrus of Ani was purchased for the British Museum in 1888 by E. A. Wallis Budge, who also became its translator. It was discovered near Luxor in an 18th Dynasty tomb written as a copy in about 1500 BC for the Royal Scribe of Thebes, Ani. Chapters have been found carved on the walls of the pyramid from the earlier 5th Dynasty, on the walls of ancient tombs, painted on mummy cases and written on papyrus throughout Egypt's long history. Budge described this particular text as being the largest roll of papyrus I had ever seen, tied with a thick band of papyrus and in a perfect state of
