Ecologists And Environmental Politics A History Of Contemporary Ecology:

Ecologists and Environmental Politics Stephen Bocking, Professor Stephen Bocking, 1997-01-01 Looks at the history of US environmental policy The Oxford Handbook of Environmental History Andrew C. Isenberg, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Environmental History draws on a wealth of new scholarship to offer diverse perspectives on the state of the field

National Park Science Jane Carruthers, 2017-08-17 South Africa is renowned for its wildlife and environmental conservation in iconic national parks such as the Kruger one of the world's first formal protected areas However this is the first book to thoroughly analyse and explain the interesting and changing scientific research that has been accomplished in South Africa's national parks during the twentieth century Providing a fascinating and thorough historical narrative based on an extensive range of sources this text details the evolution of traditional natural history pursuits to modern conservation science in South Africa covering all research areas of conservation biology and all the national parks around the country It reveals the interaction between the international context government learning institutions and the public that has shaped the present conservation arena A complex story that will interest and inform not only those involved in conservation science of South Africa but worldwide From Swamp to Wetland Chris Wilhelm, 2022-08 Shaping Biology Toby A.

Appel, 2003-04-30 Historians of the postwar transformation of science have focused largely on the physical sciences especially the relation of science to the military funding agencies In Shaping Biology Toby A Appel brings attention to the National Science Foundation and federal patronage of the biological sciences Scientists by training NSF biologists hoped in the 1950s that the new agency would become the federal government's chief patron for basic research in biology the only agency to fund the entire range of biology from molecules to natural history museums for its own sake Appel traces how this vision emerged and developed over the next two and a half decades from the activities of NSF's Division of Biological and Medical Sciences founded in 1952 through the cold war expansion of the 1950s and 1960s and the constraints of the Vietnam War era to its reorganization out of existence in 1975 This history of NSF highlights fundamental tensions in science policy that remain relevant today the pull between basic and applied science funding individuals versus funding departments or institutions elitism versus distributive policies of funding issues of red tape and accountability In this NSF funded study Appel explores how the agency developed how it worked and what difference it made in shaping modern biology in the United States Based on formerly untapped archival sources as well as on interviews of participants and building upon prior historical literature Shaping Biology covers new ground and raises significant issues for further research on postwar biology and on federal funding of science in general Cultural Landscapes and Environmental Change Lesley Head, 2017-09-25 Cultural landscapes are usually understood within physical geography as those transformed by human action As human influence on the earth increases advances in palaeocological reconstruction have also allowed for new interpretations of the evidence for the earliest human impacts on the environment It is essential that such evidence is examined in the context of modern trends in social sciences and humanities This stimulating new book argues that convergence of the two approaches can provide a more holistic understanding of long term physical and human processes Split into two major sections this book attempts to bridge the gap between the sciences and humanities The first section provides an analysis of the methodological tools employed in examining processes of environmental change Empirical research in the fields of palaeology and Quaternary studies is combined with the latest theoretical views of nature and landscape occurring in cultural geography archaeology and anthropology The author examines the way in which environmental management decisions are made The book then moves on to discuss the relevance of this perspective to contemporary issues through a wide variety of international case studies including World Heritage protection landscape preservation indigenous people and cultural tourism

Cold Science Stephen Bocking, Daniel Heidt, 2019-03-07 Science during the Cold War has become a matter of lively interest within the historical research community attracting the attention of scholars concerned with the history of science the Cold War and environmental history The Arctic recognized as a frontier of confrontation between the superpowers and consequently central to the Cold War has also attracted much attention This edited collection speaks to this dual interest by providing innovative and authoritative analyses of the history of Arctic science during the Cold War

The Future of Nature Libby Robin, Sverker Sorlin, Paul Warde, 2013-10-22 DIVAn innovative anthology that offers a global perspective on how people think about predicting the future of life on Earth

Planning for the Planet Simone Schleper, 2019-07-12 During the 1960s and 1970s rapidly growing environmental awareness and concern created unprecedented demand for ecological expertise and novel challenges for ecological advocacy groups such as the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources IUCN This book reveals how despite their vast scientific knowledge and their attempts to incorporate socially relevant themes IUCN experts inevitably struggled to make global schemes for nature conservation a central concern for UNESCO UNEP and other intergovernmental organizations

Crafting Immunity Jennifer Keelan, 2017-03-02 Immunity is as old as illness itself yet historians have only just begun to take up the challenge of reconstructing the modern transformation of attempts to protect against disease Crafting Immunity assembles in one volume the most recent efforts of an international group of scholars to place the diverse practices of immunity in their historical contexts It is this diversity that provides the book with its greatest source of strength Collectively the papers in this volume suggest that it was the craft like small scale and local conditions of clinical medicine that turned the immunity of individuals and populations into biomedical objects That is to say the modern conception of immunity was at least as much the product of the work of healing as it was the systematic result of discoveries about the immune system Working outside the narrow confines of laboratory histories Crafting Immunity is the first attempt to set the problems of immunity into a variety of social technological institutional and intellectual contexts It will appeal not only to historians and sociologists of health but also to social and cultural historians interested in the biomedical creation of modern health regimens Collaboration in the New Life Sciences John N. Parker, Niki Vermeulen, Bart Penders, 2016-05-23 In recent years the organisation and practice of collaboration in the life sciences has undergone radical transformations owing to the advent of big science enterprises newly developed data gathering and storage technologies increasing levels of interdisciplinarity and changing societal expectations for science Collaboration in the New Life Sciences examines the causes and consequences of changing patterns of scientific collaboration in the life sciences This book presents an understanding of how and why collaboration in the life sciences is changing and the effects of these changes on scientific knowledge the work lives and experiences of scientists social policy and society Through a series of thematically arranged chapters it considers the social technical and organizational facets of collaboration addressing not only the rise of new forms of collaboration in the life sciences but also examining recent developments in two broad research areas ecology and environment and the molecular life sciences With an international team of experts presenting case studies and analyses drawn from the US UK Asia and Europe Collaboration in the New Life Sciences will appeal not only to scholars and students of science and technology studies but also to those interested in science and social policy and the sociology of work and organisations

Nature of the Miracle Years Sandra Chaney, 2008 After 1945 those responsible for conservation in Germany resumed their work with a relatively high degree of continuity as far as laws and personnel were concerned Yet conservationists soon found they had little choice but to modernize their views and practices in the challenging postwar context Forced to change by necessity those involved in state sponsored conservation institutionalized and professionalized their efforts while several private groups became more confrontational in their message and tactics Through their steady and often conservative presence within the mainstream of West German society conservationists ensured that by 1970 the map of the country was dotted with hundreds of reserves dozens of nature parks and one national park In doing so they assured themselves a strong position to participate in rather than be excluded from the left leaning environmental movement of the 1970s Global Transformations in the Life Sciences, 1945–1980 Patrick Manning, Mat Savelli, 2018-06-07 The second half of the twentieth century brought extraordinary transformations in knowledge and practice of the life sciences In an era of decolonization mass social welfare policies and the formation of new international institutions such as UNESCO and the WHO monumental advances were made in both theoretical and practical applications of the life sciences including the discovery of life s molecular processes and substantive improvements in global public health and medicine Combining perspectives from the history of science and world history this volume examines the impact of major world historical processes of the postwar period on the evolution of the life sciences Contributors consider the long term evolution of scientific practice research and innovation across a range of fields and subfields in the life sciences and in the context of Cold War anxieties and ambitions Together they examine how the formation of international organizations and global research programs allowed for transnational exchange and cooperation but in a period rife with competition and nationalist interests which influenced dramatic changes in the field as the postcolonial world order unfolded Histories of Technology, the Environment and Modern Britain Jon Agar, Jacob Ward, 2018-04-09 Histories of Technology the Environment and Modern Britain brings together historians with a wide range of interests to take a uniquely wide lens view of how technology and the environment have been intimately and irreversibly entangled in Britain over the last 300 years It combines for the first time two perspectives with much to say about Britain since the industrial revolution the history of technology and environmental history Technologies are modified environments just as nature is to varying extents engineered Furthermore technologies and our living and non living environment are both predominant material forms of organisation and self organisation that surround and make us Both have changed over time in intersecting ways Technologies discussed in the collection include bulldozers submarine cables automobiles flood barriers medical devices museum displays and biotechnologies Environments investigated include bogs cities farms places of natural beauty and pollution land and sea The book explores this diversity but also offers an integrated framework for understanding these intersections A Centennial History of the Ecological Society of America Frank N. Egerton, 2015-05-20 Celebrating its 100th anniversary in 2015 the Ecological Society of America ESA is the largest professional society devoted to the science of ecology A Centennial History of the Ecological Society of America tells the story of ESA s humble beginnings growing from approximately 100 founding members and a modest publication of a few pages to a m The Oxford Companion to the History of Modern Science John L. scholarship in the field Lastly as a contribution to the visual appeal of the Companion over 100 black and white illustrations and an eight page color section capture the eye and spark the imagination Orca Jason M. Colby, 2018-05-01 Since the release of the documentary Blackfish in 2013 millions around the world have focused on the plight of the orca the most profitable and controversial display animal in history Yet until now no historical account has explained how we came to care about killer whales in the first place Drawing on interviews official records private archives and his own family history Jason M Colby tells the exhilarating and often heartbreaking story of how people came to love the ocean's greatest predator Historically reviled as dangerous pests killer whales were dying by the hundreds even thousands by the 1950s the victims of whalers fishermen and even the US military In the Pacific Northwest fishermen shot them scientists harpooned them and the Canadian government mounted a machine gun to eliminate them But that all changed in 1965 when Seattle entrepreneur Ted Griffin became the first person to swim and perform with a captive killer whale The show proved wildly popular and he began capturing and selling others including Sea World's first Shamu Over the following decade live display transformed views of Orcinus orca The public embraced killer whales as charismatic and friendly while scientists enjoyed their first access to live orcas In the Pacific Northwest these captive encounters reshaped regional values and helped drive environmental activism including Greenpeace's anti whaling campaigns Yet even as Northwesterners taught the world to love whales they came to oppose their captivity and to fight for the freedom of a marine predator that had become a regional icon This is the definitive history of how the feared and despised killer became the beloved orca and what that has meant for our relationship with the ocean and its creatures The ^AGreening of Antarctica Alessandro Antonello, 2019-05-03 The Greening of Antarctica reveals how the geopolitical intellectual conceptual and legal foundations of contemporary Antarctic environmental protection and imagination were formed in the crucial period between the signing of the Antarctic Treaty in 1959 and the signing of the Convention on the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources in 1980 Millennial Biology: The National Science Foundation and American Biology, 1975-2005 Donald J. McGraw, 2021-01-25 National Science Foundation NSF is a unique federal agency because it supports scientific research financially but does not engage in scientific work itself Its history is known only in part because the NSF is a vibrant expanding and living entity that makes the final telling of its story impossible Much can be learned from its beginning as well as its component parts If the founding of the NSF in 1950 was couched in an era of physics especially atomic physics certainly by the end of the 20th century and the beginning of the 21st biology was and remains the queen of sciences for the predictable future This book highlights the elite status of America's biological sciences as they were funded affected and to a very real degree interactively guided by the NSF It examines important events in the earlier history of the Foundation because they play strongly upon the development of the various biology directorates Issues such as education applied research medical science the National Institutes of Health the beginnings of biotechnology and other matters are also discussed Groovy Science David Kaiser, W. Patrick

McCray, 2016-05-31 Did the Woodstock generation reject science or re create it An enthralling study of a unique period in scientific history New Scientist Our general image of the youth of the late 1960s and early 1970s is one of hostility to things like missiles and mainframes and plastics and an enthusiasm for alternative spirituality and getting back to nature But this enlightening collection reveals that the stereotype is overly simplistic In fact there were diverse ways in which the era s countercultures expressed enthusiasm for and involved themselves in science of a certain type Boomers and hippies sought a science that was both small scale and big picture as exemplified by the annual workshops on quantum physics at the Esalen Institute in Big Sur or Timothy Leary s championing of space exploration as the ultimate high Groovy Science explores the experimentation and eclecticism that marked countercultural science and technology during one of the most colorful periods of American history Demonstrate s that people and groups strongly ensconced in the counterculture also embraced science albeit in untraditional and creative ways Science Each essay is a case history on how the hippies repurposed science and made it cool For the academic historian Groovy Science establishes the deep mark on American culture made by the countercultural innovators For the non historian the book reads as if it were infected by the hippies democratic intent no jargon few convoluted sentences clear arguments and a sense of delight Nature In the late 1960s and 1970s the mind expanding modus operandi of the counterculture spread into the realm of science and sh t got wonderfully weird Neurophysiologist John Lilly tried to talk with dolphins Physicist Peter Phillips launched a parapsychology lab at Washington University Princeton physicist Gerard O Neill became an evangelist for space colonies Groovy Science is a new book of essays about this heady time Boing Boing
