Economic Growth Structure:

Economic Growth of Nations Simon Kuznets, 1971 Comparison of the economic growth process in developed countries with particular reference to the measurement of the components of the gross national product examines long term trends in growth rates productivity growth and nonconventional costs sectoral changes in shares of the labour force force the capital worker ratio the impact of technological change shifts in the production and demand structure etc and includes comparisons of developed and developing countries References and statistical tables Economic growth, structure of the economy and distribution of income Jiří Skolka, 1983 Economic Growth in an Open Developing Economy A. P. Thirlwall, 2013-01-01 This concise yet insightful sequel to the highly acclaimed The Nature of Economic Growth provides a comprehensive critique of both old and new growth theory highlighting the importance of economic growth for reducing poverty A P Thirlwall illustrates that orthodox growth theory continues to work with one good models and to treat factor supplies as exogenously given independent of demand Orthodox trade theory still ignores the balance of payments consequences of different patterns of trade specialisation when assessing the welfare effects of trade The author goes on to present theory underpinned by up to date empirical evidence that factors of production and productivity growth are endogenous to demand and that the structure of production and trade matter for the long run growth performance of countries because of their impact on the balance of payments He concludes that trade liberalisation has proved disappointing in improving the trade off between growth and the balance of payments This book will provide a challenging read for students and academics in the fields of economics heterodox economics and development Policymakers focussing on the relationship between growth trade and the balance of payments will also find the book to be of great interest Economic Growth and Structure Simon Kuznets, 1966 International An analysis of economic growth Historical aspects economic theory the relationship of population dynamics to increase in production standard of living trends the economy of developing countries the requirements of modern industrialization the role of agriculture in the national level economy inequality of income distribution economic implications of population growth resulting from the influx of immigrants into the USA References New Structural Economics Justin Yifu Lin, 2012-01-06 Economic development is a process of continuous technological innovation and structural transformation Development thinking is inherently tied to the quest for sustainable growth strategies This book provides a neoclassical approach for studying the determinants of economic structure and its transformation and draws new insights for development policy The market is the basic mechanism for effective resource allocation at each level of development However economic development as a dynamic process entails structural changes including industrial upgrading and diversification and corresponding improvements in hard and soft infrastructure Such upgrading and improvements require coordination and go hand in hand with large externalities to firms transaction costs and returns to capital investment Thus in addition to an effective market mechanism the government should play an active role in facilitating structural changes The book provides empirical evidence in support of this framework as well as concrete advice to development practitioners

Financial Structures and Economic Outcomes Mr. Tom Gole, Tao Sun, 2013-05-22 This paper investigates the potential relationships between financial structures and economic outcomes. The empirical results that withstand a battery of methods suggest that some financial intermediation structures are likely to be more closely related to positive economic outcomes than others. For instance, protective financial buffers within institutions have been associated with better economic performance and a domestic financial system that is dominated by some types of nontraditional bank intermediation or that has a high proportion of foreign banks has in some cases been associated with adverse economic outcomes especially during the financial crisis. The results also suggest that there may be trade offs between beneficial effects on growth and stability of some financial structures. For example, the positive association of financial buffers with growth can diminish above a certain relatively high threshold; a too safe system may limit the available funds for credit and hence growth.

The Supply-side Revolution with Chinese Characteristics Fang Fuqian, 2023-02-24 Focusing on the supply side structural reform in China, this book investigates the impetus, implementation strategy, initial results, and theoretical underpinnings of the revolution, assessing its significance in perfecting China's socialist market economic system. The supply side structural reform launched in China in 2015 aims to thoroughly resolve the cyclical excess capacity and the habitual imbalance of economic structure and form a long term mechanism for economic stability different from the supply side policies under the Reagan Administration in the 1980s. Based on the analysis framework of aggregate demand and supply combined with institutional and structural analysis, the title elucidates the reason, theory, measures, and results that ground the reform. It explicates the three step strategy to ensure the successful outcome: countermeasures against current supply side problems, upgrading the economic structure, and most importantly, the institutional reform and innovation. The author emphasizes the importance of reforming both market and government and advances a double effect model combining the effective market and government. This title will appeal to scholars, students, and policymakers interested in economics, macroeconomic control, and the Chinese economy and economic system reform.

Economics and Policies in Formulating Renewable Power Development Plans Bai-Chen Xie, Karim Anaya

Stucchi, Hong-zhou Li, 2023-11-06 Renewable energy has been considered as an effective way to deal with challenges caused by energy security and climate change. In the past decades the share of renewable energy in the energy mix has been increasing with a proportion of around 25% globally benefitting from the steady maturity of economical technological and political issues. However the gap between expectations of fast renewables driven energy transitions and the reality of today's energy systems which rely heavily on fossil fuels remains stubbornly large. The development of renewable energy still faces uncertainties among them are cost changes driven by the potential technology breakthroughs renewable power market oriented progress and various challenges related to grid interconnection of such intermittent renewable energy resources and some other factors. Many countries and regions have issued their plans in boosting the development of renewable power. However not one renewable power exploitation plan is acceptable universally due to the varied developing level of economies and societies. It is of great significance to explore the economic technological and political influences of related factors in achieving the development target for renewable energy.

Structural Change, Competitiveness and Industrial Policy

Aurora Teixeira, Ester Silva, Ricardo Mamede, 2014-06-20 The onset of the global crisis has emphasised the persistence of substantial differences in development and social progress within the euro area. The specific case of countries located in the southern periphery region has come to the centre stage due to the harsh economic conditions that all these countries have experienced in the recent past. In the aftermath of the American subprime credit bubble these countries' high indebtedness raised doubts as to their ability to sustain public finances with the financial crisis developing and gaining momentum due to the fragilities presented in the economy. To varying degrees of severity all of these economies have since been forced to introduce strong fiscal tightening programmes in order to achieve fiscal consolidation which have translated into recession and rising unemployment. This book undertakes a comprehensive analysis of the causes of the crisis in southern European countries showing that the Achilles heel of these economies is rooted in the dismal evolution of productivity and in a specialisation pattern excessively based on the so called traditional low and low medium tech industries which yield low margins declining export shares and ultimately withering international competitiveness. Such evidence suggests that the southern European periphery industrial growth model has reached its limits demanding a multidimensional policy approach capable of overcoming the magnitude and complexity of the present crisis. Without denying the need to adjust public and private balance sheets it is argued that finding a sustainable path out of the present problems requires addressing the challenges of productivity growth and competitiveness in the long term.

finance and Chinese economic studies will be attracted by this book Also it will appeal to readers interested in modern Chinese economic history Structural Transformation of Bangladesh Economy Mustafa K. Mujeri, Neaz Mujeri, 2021-03-18

This book examines the theory and global evidence on structural transformation along with stylised facts and implications using among others a dynamic panel model for South Asia The characteristics of the structural transformation process in Bangladesh bring out the relevance of a comprehensive and inclusive South Asian brand in view of the challenges of large population size high burden of poverty rising inequalities and its compulsion to achieve rapid and sustained inclusive development The analysis highlights several distinct characteristics of Bangladesh s structural transformation including changes in value added trade employment productivity formal informal jobs and opportunities for low skilled workers The book suggests that the manufacturing sector could not create the required number of jobs and generate rapid absolute and relative productivity gains in the Bangladesh economy Although the services sector has largely led output and employment growth services subsectors with strong labour absorptive capacity have low average productivity Hence growth enhancing structural transformation led by these subsectors is likely to be less dynamic than required for rapid employment creating growth in the economy The book s analysis on COVID 19 and cyclone Amphan shows that an integrated disaster and development paradigm is needed for Bangladesh An inclusive and health and well being focused structural transformation presents the pathway to advance the people centred approach to development in Bangladesh through both vulnerability reduction and investments in sustainable development that would offset both known and unknown disaster threats The key for Bangladesh is to skillfully manage the developer s dilemma of achieving both structural transformation in terms of large productivity gains and inclusive growth for reducing poverty and rising inequalities This book is relevant to students academicians and development practitioners and others interested in contemporary development
