Carl K. Eicher, John M. Staatz, 1990 Conditions of Agricultural Growth Ester Boserup, 2013-11-05 Investigating the process of agrarian change this book analyzes costs and productivity under the main systems of primitive agriculture The conclusion is that technical economic and social changes are unlikely to take place within primitive agriculture unless the rural community concerned is exposed to the pressure of population growth a conclusion that is in sharp contrast to generally accepted ideas The themes in the book are central to the discussion of the problems of population explosion and the world's undernourished peoples Institutional Economics Perspectives on African Agricultural Development

Johann Kirsten, 2009-01-01 Millions of Africans spend their entire lives poor hungry and malnourished and most depend on agriculture for their livelihoods either directly or indirectly Despite its potential to drive economic growth and poverty reduction however African agricultural development has remained disappointing whether because of underinvestment or poor returns to investments This book Institutional Economics Perspectives on African Agricultural Development is inspired by the conviction that effective African agricultural development requires building better institutions It provides an accessible synthesis of new institutional economics theory and research into understanding and improving African agriculture particularly smallholder agriculture Interspersing theory with case studies from a wide range of countries the book addresses such policy issues as how markets for different commodities and services function in different political cultural and economic contexts It not only makes an important contribution to the existing literature but also provides development practitioners policymakers and graduate students working or intending to work in these fields with essential knowledge and tools for addressing these challenges OVERVIEW Theoretical and Conceptual Framework Exchange in Goods and Services Natural Resources Management and An Institutional Perspective on the State Its Role and Challenges The role of agriculture in economic development. Focusing on linkages beyond agriculture Veena Soni,2020-06-19 Academic Paper from the year 2020 in the subject Economics Economic Cycle and Growth language English abstract Those of us who preach the gospel of agriculture with evangelical zeal find the text compelling and convincing We are regularly possessed by the spirit only to look around and see out colleagues in other sectors in country management or even our senior management doubting yawning or subtly edging towards the door We face the implicit query If agriculture can do such great things why have they not yet happened The past decade has been one of agro pessimism The promises that agricultural development seem to hold did not materialise This pessimism seemed to coincide with pessimism about Sub Saharan Africa Especially for Sub Saharan Africa the hope was that economic development would be brought about by agricultural development After the success of the green revolution in Asia the hope was that a similar agricultural miracle would transform African economies But this hope never materialised agricultural productivity did not increase much in SSA and worse the negative effects of the green revolution in Asia became more apparent such as pesticide overuse and subsequent pollution Also in Asia the yield increases tapered off The sceptics put forward several arguments why agriculture is no longer an engine of growth For instance the liberalisation of the 1990s and greater openness to trade has lead to a reduction in the economic potential of the rural sector cheap imported Chinese plastic buckets out compete the locally produced pottery On the other hand it does mean cheaper imported supplies With rapid global technical change and increasingly integrated markets prices fall faster than yields rise So rural incomes fall despite increased productivity if they are net producers The integration of rural with urban areas means that healthy young people move out of agriculture head to town leaving behind the old the sick and the dependent It is often also the men who move to urban areas leaving women in charge of the farm This has resulted in the increased sophistication of agricultural markets and value chains which excludes traditional smallholders who are poorly equipped to meet the demanding product specifications and timeliness of delivery required by expanding supermarkets The natural resource base on which agriculture depends is poor and deteriorating Agricultural Development Policy Roger D. Norton,2005-08-05 Prepared under the aegis of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO this text presents a fresh and comprehensive look at agricultural development policy It provides a clear systematic review of important classes of policy issues in developing countries and discusses the emerging international consensus on viable approaches to the issues The text is unique in its coverage and depth and it Summarises hundreds of references on agricultural development policies Cites policy experiences and applied studies in more than 70 countries Provides guidance for policy makers giving examples of successes and failures Reviews issues related to the formulation of strategies and the requirements for making them successful Develops the conceptual foundations and illustrates policies that have worked and some that have not with explanations Topics covered include agriculture s role in economic development the objectives and strategies of agricultural policy linkages between macroeconomic and agricultural policy policies for the agricultural financial system and agricultural technology development Upper level undergraduates taking courses in Economic Development and International Development and graduates taking courses in Agricultural Development International and Economic Development Natural Resource Management and specialised topics in agriculture will find this text of great interest It also serves as a reference for professionals and researchers in the field of International Development
