Restructuring Trade Agreements Juscelino F. Colares, Mustafa T. Durmuş, 2021-07-27 To avoid trade bargain erosion countries involved in large scale bilateral or regional trade arrangements must reconcile preserving close economic ties and supply chains with the need to dynamically adjust to new opportunities with other partners Using the growing deterioration of the European Union Turkey Customs Union as an illustration to a new model of trade agreement restructuring this well researched and deeply insightful book outlines and demonstrates how this trade arrangement can be successfully renegotiated thus providing expert practical guidance in a crucial area of trade law and policy that rarely receives the attention it deserves The book s novel framework features a clearly articulated legal foundation a transactional deployment strategy and a sequential negotiating approach applicable to bilateral and regional trade arrangements whose original terms no longer reflect the changed capabilities and interests of at least one of its parties The authors respond in detail to questions such as When should a country pursue bargain rebalancing How should trade diplomats pursue renegotiation and or new partnerships legally and transactionally Given that free trade agreements keep each country s trade sovereignty mostly intact under which circumstances should a country ever consider entering a customs union How may free trade agreements help countries address trade imbalances while enhancing supply chain resilience What are the limits to WTO litigation as an effective market barrier opening tool How should trade agreement restructuring be deployed as a path to further trade liberalization In depth attention is paid to identifying and investigating trade arrangements that are ripe for renegotiation and assessing sources of domestic and external support for or against renegotiating such bargains This book s model of international trade agreement restructuring fits well with emerging thinking on greater trade diversification and supply chain resilience The authors provide a clear actionable approach for considering and conducting the renegotiation of trade deals For these reasons this book will be welcomed by trade lawyers supply chain executives economists government officials and academics who are grappling with rising economic frictions in the fault lines of national sovereignty economic interdependence and the limits of current trade arrangements      The Interpreter's Resource Mary Phelan,2001-06-12

Oyejide,2012-03-12 There is growing consensus in the literature that trade and trade policy matter for a pro poor growth and development strategy Therefore policies that are consistent with this strategy feature increasingly in many African countries where poverty is endemic and rapid and where sustainable economic growth is viewed as the major vehicle for poverty reduction Key elements of these polices include measures that promote the expansion and diversification of production and trade in Africa This book is aimed at articulating appropriate structural and policy measures for eliminating the constraints that African countries face and thus ensuring that they can derive maximum benefits from all available market access opportunities There is evidence that most African countries face external market access barriers in their major export destinations which are generally less constraining than those confronting countries in other developing country regions Yet they have generally not been able to take full advantage of the special preferential market access opportunities available to them This suggests that improved external market access whether reciprocal or preferential would not by itself be sufficient for strengthening African export performance In this collection export supply response capacity takes external beyond the border factors as given and concentrates primarily on the internal behind the border factors that influence production and distribution costs and thus competitiveness The central working hypothesis of this book is that the inability of domestic producers and exporters in Africa to respond quickly effectively and efficiently to external market access opportunities is caused by various limitations of their internal supply capacity and that this in turn is largely responsible for the lacklustre export performance of many African countries This comprehensive study should be of interest to students and researchers of international trade and development economics as well as African studies      Essential Formulas for successful trading
