Current Federal Reserve Policy Under the Lens of Economic History Owen F. Humpage, 2015-03-05 A retrospective on the Federal Reserve these essays by leading historians and economists investigate how financial infrastructure shapes economic outcomes

Growth Trends in the Developing World Elena Ianchovichina, Pooja Kacker, 2005 The authors present real per capita GDP growth forecasts for all developing countries for the period 2005-14. For 55 of these countries representing major world regions and accounting for close to 80 percent of the developing world's GDP they forecast the growth effects of the main forces underpinning growth assuming that these evolve following past trends. The authors find that for the average developing country the largest growth dividend comes from continued improvement in public infrastructure followed by the growth contributions of rising secondary school enrollment, trade openness and financial deepening. The joint contribution of these four growth determinants to average annual per capita GDP growth in the next decade is estimated to be 1 percentage point. Failure to keep improving public infrastructure alone could reduce this growth dividend by 50 percent. The forecasted growth contributions differ by country qualitatively and quantitatively. Computable, Constructive and Behavioural Economic Dynamics Stefano Zambelli, 2010-02-25 The book contains thirty original articles dealing with important aspects of theoretical as well as applied economic theory. While the principal focus is on the computational and algorithmic nature of economic dynamics, individual as well as collective decision process and rational behavior, some contributions emphasize also the importance of classical recursion theory and constructive mathematics for dynamical systems, business cycles theories, growth theories and others are in the area of history of thought, methodology and behavioural economics. The contributors range from Nobel Laureates to the promising new generation of innovative thinkers. This volume is also a Festschrift in honour of Professor Kumaraswamy Vela Velupillai, the founder of Computable Economics, a growing field of research where important results stemming from classical recursion theory and constructive mathematics are applied to economic theory. The aim and hope is to provide new tools for economic modelling. This book will be of particular appeal to postgraduate students and scholars in one or more of the following fields: computable economics, business cycles, macroeconomics, growth theories, methodology, behavioural economics, financial economics, experimental and agent based economics. It might be also of importance to those interested on the general theme of algorithmic foundations for social sciences.

Central Banks and Coded Language Elke Muchlinski, 2015-12-04 This book explores implications of the modern view of central banks rising from the proposition that words have no meaning beyond their use in a particular context and setting. It studies coded language to explain why a central bank's decisions and communicative interactions can't be devoted to a coded language which is an artificial language.

Institutional Analysis and Praxis Tara Natarajan, Wolfram Elsner, Scott Fullwiler, 2009-09-03 There has never been a better time for the social fabric matrix. As this book is being published, the idea that unregulated market capitalism leads to the best of all possible worlds has been thoroughly discredited A series of economic and social problems have come to the forefront of national discussion and policy debates There is now widespread acceptance that human activity particularly the consumption of nonrenewable energy resources has contributed to global warming The lack of oversight of the financial industry encouraged reckless practices that endangered the stability of the entire financial system prompting bailout efforts based on the fragile interdependence of the financial and economic systems The shortcomings of our health care system are increasingly evident including the growing number of uninsured citizens the difficulties for businesses in offering health insurance and the effects of health and health care on the ability of individuals and families to maintain a decent standard of living Perhaps the best illustration of a complex system that cries out for coordinated policy making is in the critical area of energy where public and private decisions on energy policy not only have direct effects on consumer costs but also have effects on global warming local ecosystems international relations the health of our citizens and the sustainability of companies and communities In short there is growing recognition of the interdependence of the economic system with the environment and the broader institutions of society

Neoliberalism, Critical Pedagogy and Education Ravi Kumar, 2015-12-22 This volume examines the role of neoliberalism and its impact on education in South Asia It contends that education is in a state of crisis across the world This is reflected not only in the way the state has withdrawn to pave way for private capital but also in the manner in which knowledge and ways of understanding the world are being challenged by manipulation and adverse influences A process of factoryisation is underway as disciplining of human minds and redefinition of the purpose of human existence are being geared to fall in line with the needs of private capital The book brings together incisive contributions from India Sri Lanka Pakistan and Nepal to explore newer possibilities to deal with the educational crisis and looks at a range of critical themes in education pedagogy teacher learner relationship teacher education the state of the university and policy Rich in content critical and insightful this book will be a valuable addition for scholars and researchers of education and education policy sociology public policy and South Asian Studies

Heritage and the Legacy of the Past in Contemporary Britain Ryan Trimm, 2017-08-24 Bringing together heritage studies and literary studies this book examines heritage as a ubiquitous trope in contemporary Britain a seemingly inescapable figure for relations to the past Inheritance has been an important metaphor for characterizing cultural and political traditions since the 1970s but one criticized for its conservatism and apparent disinheritance of new Britons Engaging with contemporary literary and cinematic texts the book interrogates metaphoric resonances that bestowing past receiving present and transmitted bounty are all singular and unified that transmission between past and present is smooth despite heritage depending on death that the past enjoins the present to conserve its legacy into the future However heritage offers an alternative to modern market driven relations transactions stressing connection only through a momentary exchange for bequest resembles gift giving and connects past to present Consequently heritage contains competing impulses subtexts largely unexplored given the trope's lapse into cliché The volume charts how these resonances developed as well as charting more contemporary aspects of heritage as postmodern image tourist industry historic environment and metaculture These dimensions develop the trope moving it from singular focus on continuity with the past to one more oriented around different lines of relation between past present and future Heritage as a trope is explored through a wide range of texts core accounts of political theory Locke and Burke seminal documents within historic conservation phenomenology and poststructuralism film and television Merchant Ivory Downton Abbey and a broad range of contemporary fiction from novelists including Zadie Smith Julian Barnes Hilary Mantel Sarah Waters Alan Hollinghurst Peter Ackroyd and Helen Oyeyemi
