

THE SCIENCE OF FALLING IN LOVE

Beyond the love songs, romantic poems, passionate novels and sappy movies, love is the result of complex processes in the body. Here is a breakdown of love's biology and the ways humans experience romance with each other.

WHERE DOES THE BRAIN LOVE?

These are a few parts of the brain that help people experience affection.

HOT SPOTS

Erogenous zones are parts of the body that are particularly responsive to stimulation, resulting often in sexual excitement. These are popular hot spots on men and women.

FALLING IN LOVE, STEP BY STEP

1. The hypothalamus releases dopamine into the body, causing feelings of ecstasy and excitement.

2. As dopamine levels increase, serotonin levels decrease.

Serotonin is responsible for a person's mood and appetite, among other things.

The lower levels of serotonin are similar to levels found in people with obsessive compulsive disorders.

This may result in feelings of obsession or infatuation.

3. Along with dopamine, the body also produces a substance called nerve growth factor.

- NGF is more prevalent in people who are newly in love.
- People who are not in love or are in long-term relationships have lower levels of NGF than recent lovers.
- The amount of NGF in the body directly relates to the intensity of romantic feelings.

4. Oxytocin and vasopressin are responsible for feelings of connection and commitment.

- The hypothalamus produces these two hormones.
- They are then stored in the pituitary gland, which secretes hormones into the body.
- In times of extreme passion — such as during orgasm — these hormones enter the bloodstream.
- The presence of the two chemicals is often attributed in part to the success of long-term relationships.

5. These hormones affect different parts of the brain. Because of these sections' nearness, certain responses occur:

- Activity increases in the romantic core of the brain. → The amygdala deactivates.
- A person's standards for judging others grow blurry. → The person in love feels less stress and fear.
- The result is an overall feeling of unity between people in love.

Falling In Love The Psychology Of The Romantic Emotion:

Falling in Love Vernon W. Grant, 1976

Romantic Love and Sexual Behavior Victor C. de Munck, 1998-04-16

Westerners believe that love makes life worth living that sex is a natural desire different in kind from love and that only cynics reduce our love life to a calculation of economic or genetic factors In this volume essays explore these and other assumptions about the relationship between romantic love and sex This represents the first interdisciplinary social science study of love and sex Contributors ask and answer questions such as Is love just sex idealized or is it a transcendent and divine emotion Is love a cultural construct that is shared by members of the same culture or is it a matter of personal taste What keeps promiscuous people from using condoms even when they know they are at risk Are black professional men so rare that their conceptions of love and sex differ from those of white professional men Are brutal sexual fantasies an exclusively male domain and are they always excluded from love fantasies among normal adolescents Is divorce a culturally induced response to evolutionary reproductive strategies that compel individuals to maximize their genetic legacy Are marriages or relationships less satisfying or stable when an actual mate falls short of the fantasy of the ideal mate Is there a universal core to love and sex that is camouflaged by other cultural norms such as modesty and sexual segregation Is rape perceived as more acceptable when the rapist says he was motivated by love What do cult movements and romantic love have in common As they attempt to answer these and other questions the authors extend our understanding of the variety of ways that love and sex are conceptualized connected or separated

The Nature of Love Irving Singer, 1984 In this concluding volume of his impressive study of the history of Western thought about the nature of love Irving Singer reviews the principal efforts that have been made by 20th Century thinkers to analyze the phenomenon of love The bulk of the book is taken up with critical accounts of the modern thinkers who have systematically called into question the possibility itself of love as a union of distinct human selves For the most part these critiques are effectively executed and they bring a high level of critical acumen to bear on skeptical theses about love that are now too often accepted as truisms Frederick A Olafson Los Angeles Times Book Review Irving Singer has developed a method of historical analysis flexible enough to deal with all kinds of love from Greek homosexual love in Plato to the philia and agape of the New Testament to the courtly love of medieval romance to the Romantics for whom love was magic This final volume brings us to the present In The Modern World Singer offers readings of Freud Proust and Sartre among others He shows how their work was formed in reaction to the 19th century ideal of merging of the identities of lover and beloved More often than not the great modern writers portray love as impossible as a field of failure and regret This masterpiece of critical thinking is a timely eloquent and scrupulous account of what after all still makes the world go round Thomas D Evelyn Christian Science Monitor This is the third of a three volume history of the philosophy of love It begins with Kierkegaard Tolstoy and Nietzsche in the nineteenth century and treats Freud Proust Bergson D H Lawrence G B Shaw Santayana Sartre and others in the twentieth Although the author's approach is primarily historical he intersperses critical remarks throughout Most of the major themes which are discussed by philosophers of love make their way into this history including friendship sexual love and the distinction between love that is based on the value of the beloved and love that bestows value on the beloved Singer devotes a number of pages to his own views on falling in love being in love and staying in love Singer's exposition is lucid and organized his criticisms are insightful

Ethics In this third volume of historical overview of the development of the Western conception of love Singer uses writers philosophers and psychologists to provide the reader with an overview of love in the late 19th and 20th century Analyzing authors such as Tolstoy Proust D H Lawrence and Shaw and philosophers such as Nietzsche Kierkegaard Sartre and Santayana as well as Freud Singer links each contributor's thoughts to the influence of previous writers and also provides some psycho-historical insight into their personal lives that might have been either a source or direct result of their views In this final volume Singer proceeds to look at not just the great men influence but also provides a chapter over-viewing scientific contributions to our understanding of love Singer's work is a significant contribution to understanding the social construction of important abstract social and personal values By tracing love through different historical periods through a variety of voices Singer has created a rich history of the struggle between the ideal and the real between the dreams of what love should provide and the reality of what relationships have been in each historical period By personalizing the voice through psycho-historical analysis Singer also provides insight into the shaping of ideas through the intimate struggles of the shapers

Mark V Chaffee Contemporary Psychology The Secret Psychology of How We Fall in Love Paul Dobransky, L. A. Stamford, 2007-05-29 A scientifically proven 9 step program for understanding the dating brain and finding the love of your life Psychiatrist Paul Dobransky presents a patented clinically proven easy to follow nine step program that can lead to lasting love Successful romantic relationships have three phases 1 Attraction 2 Bonding in friendship 3 Commitment Dr Dobransky demonstrates how each of these stages is dealt with by a particular part of the brain By appealing to each of these three brains in order we can build a relationship that will last for a lifetime Drawing on real life case studies and accessible scientific theory Dr Dobransky explains how and why we make the romantic choices we make and shows how we can identify the right person for us and enjoy true love that stands the test of time

The Nature of Love, Volume 3 Irving Singer, 2009-02-27 The final volume of Singer's trilogy discusses ideas about love in the work of writers ranging from Kierkegaard Nietzsche and Tolstoy to Freud Proust D H Lawrence Shaw and others in the contemporary world Irving Singer's trilogy The Nature of Love has been called majestic New York Times Book Review monumental Boston Globe one of the major works of philosophy in our century Nous wise and magisterial Times Literary Supplement and a masterpiece of critical thinking that is a timely eloquent and scrupulous account of what after all still makes the world go round Christian Science Monitor In the third volume Singer examines the pervasive dialectic between optimistic idealism and pessimistic realism in modern thinking about the nature of love He begins by discussing anti Romantic Romantics focusing on Kierkegaard

Nietzsche and Tolstoy influential nineteenth century thinkers whose views illustrate much of the ambiguity and self contradiction that permeate thinking about love in the last hundred years He offers detailed studies of Freud Proust Shaw D H Lawrence and Santayana and he maps the ideas about love in Continental existentialism particularly those of Sartre and de Beauvoir Singer finally envisages a future of cooperation between pluralistic humanists and empirical scientists This last volume of Singer s trilogy does not pretend to offer the final word on the subject any more than do most of the philosophers he discusses but his masterful work can take its place beside their earlier investigations into these vast and complex questions

Weeks, 2013-06-20 The field of sex therapy has experienced tremendous growth in the last 20 years The use of the term sex therapy for most clinicians brings several well known therapists to mind and is associated with the treatment of a fairly limited number of sexual problems The view of sex therapy as a profession has had both positive and negative consequences The editor s state that the purpose in writing and editing this book was to build on the work of individually oriented sex therapy by adding the systems perspective This book then represents an attempt at the integration of sex and marital or systems therapy Love Anthony Walsh, 2017-07-05 Love is a little word with a universe of meanings and has engaged people s interest throughout human history The need to give and receive love lies deep within human nature Philosophers poets theologians sociologists and scientists have all attempted to explain its exact origin but is it an evolutionary adaptation or a social construct Walsh discusses that the nature of and need for love has biological origins He draws upon Darwin s sexual selection theory to define the perceptions of love by infants through the process of experience dependent brain wiring He observes that mother love makes a child capable of loving and that father love makes a child feel worthy of love He appraises the origin and purpose of romantic love in his discussions on sexual reproduction by looking at chemical and neurological responses to love and the influence of love on one s physical and mental health With frequent quotes from literary masters like Shakespeare to orient one s scientific and humanistic understanding of love Walsh goes on to explore various styles of romantic love including monogamy promiscuity bartering love and betrayed love the effects of a skewed sex ratio on dating and mating practices and the age old quest for a perfect society populated by perfect people obeying the biblical command to love one another Many Faces of Love Kaarina Määttä, Satu Uusiautti, 2013-04-19 What do we actually talk about when we talk about love Research on love and emotions has been met with suspicion although people live in a network of relationships from birth to death and the ability to build and maintain relationships is an important strength This book provides a comprehensive research based analysis of love in human life romantic love and its ups and downs and the fascination of love the combination of work and family the secrets of a long lasting marriage senior love and the throes and relief of a divorce Love is also discussed in relation to other phenomena such as friendship play and creativity In addition themes of parental love and pedagogical love and the ability to love as well as dark sides of love are introduced Love is worth cherishing and practicing Other people s experiences may be helpful and information about the nature of love can relieve the pain Thus love in its various forms makes the best health insurance This book is meant for everyone interested in love but also for professionals in various fields such as psychologists educators and couple and family counselors The book is based on authors Prof Kaarina M t t s and Dr Satu Uusiautti s extensive research on love at the University of Lapland Finland The Nature of Love: The modern world Irving Singer, 1984 The Self in the Family Luciano L'Abate, 1997-01-07 In his acclaimed book A Theory of Personality Development Luciano L Abate introduced a revolutionary theory of personality development and functioning that departed radically from traditional theories. In place of hypothetical traits existing in an empirical vacuum, Dr. L. Abate offered an image of observable interpersonal competencies functioning within the basic contexts of home, work, leisure, and the marketplace. Central to his theory was a developmental model that posited the family as the primordial setting in which propensities are formed and behavior patterns set. By defining personality in terms of the growth and interplay of interpersonal competencies, the L. Abate theory provided an epistemologically and empirically sound basis for understanding personality function and dysfunction as corollaries and extensions of one another.

In The Self in the Family, Luciano L. Abate and Margaret Baggett again break new ground by expanding the L. Abate theory of personality development to encompass criminal and psychopathological behavior. Drawing upon mounting empirical evidence that the family paradigm is the major determinant of personality socialization throughout the life span, the authors develop a selfhood model with demonstrable links between the three domains of personality function: criminality and psychopathology. With the help of the model, they show how it is now possible to arrive at a personality-based interpretation of most deviant behaviors, including criminality, psychopathology, addictions, and even psychosomatic illnesses, and they describe various preventive and psychotherapeutic applications for this expanded theory of family-based personality development. The authors further elaborate on the theories developed in Dr. L. Abate's previous books by introducing the core concepts of hurt, the basic feeling underlying much of personality functioning and dysfunctioning, and a continuum of likeness, the fundamental determinant of interpersonal choices and behavior in friendships, parent-child relations, and marital relations. Offering an empirically rigorous, developmentally based unified field theory of personality function, criminality, and psychopathology, The Self in the Family is essential reading for developmental and clinical psychologists, family therapists, personality theorists, and criminality and psychopathology researchers.

CHILD-CENTERED FAMILY THERAPY, Lucille L. Andreozzi. This guide, with its numerous case illustrations, works to build knowledge from within the family by engaging family members in structured activities that help them translate family system principles into practical everyday reality. Child-Centered Family Therapy is an important resource for couples and family therapists, child psychologists, counselors, and social workers.
