No Safe Spaces Angela C. Pao, 2011-02-16 No Safe Spaces opens up a conversation beyond narrow polemics Although cross racial casting has been the topic of heated discussion little sustained scholarship addresses both the historical precedents and theoretical dimensions Pao illustrates the tensions and contradictions inherent not only in stage representations but also in the performance of race in everyday life A wonderful book whose potential readership goes well beyond theater and performance scholars Josephine Lee University of Minnesota Non traditional casting increasingly practiced in American theater is both deeply connected to our country's racial self image's and woefully under theorized Pao takes on the practice in its entirety to disentangle the various strands of this vitally important issue Karen Shimakawa New York University No Safe Spaces looks at one of the most radical and enduring changes introduced during the Civil Rights era multiracial and cross racial casting practices in American theater The move to cast Latino a African American and Asian American actors in classic stage works by and about white Europeans and Americans is viewed as both social and political gesture and artistic innovation Nontraditionally cast productions are shown to have participated in the national dialogue about race relations and ethnic identity and served as a source of renewed creativity for the staging of the canonical repertory Multiracial casting is explored first through its history then through its artistic political and pragmatic dimensions Next the book focuses on case studies from the dominant genres of contemporary American theater classical tragedy and comedy modern domestic drama antirealist drama and the Broadway musical using a broad array of archival source materials to enhance and illuminate its arguments Angela C Pao is Associate Professor of Comparative Literature at Indiana University A volume in the series Theater Theory Text Performance

AIDS Narratives Steven F. Kruger, 2013-10-28 This is the first book length study of the rich fiction that has emerged from the AIDS crisis Examining first the ways in which scientific discourse on AIDS has reflected ideologies of gender and sexuality such as the construction of AIDS as a disease of gay men part of a battle over masculinity and thus largely excluding women with AIDS from public attention the book considers how such discourses have shaped narrative understandings of AIDS On the one hand AIDS is seen as an invariably fatal weakening of an individual's bodily defenses a depiction often used to reconfirm an identification between disease and a weak and vulnerable gayness On the other hand AIDS is understood in terms of an epidemic attributable to gay immorality or unnaturalness The fiction of AIDS depends upon these two narratives with one major subgenre of AIDS novel presenting narratives of personal illness decline and death and a second focusing on epidemic spread These novels also question the narrative structures upon which they depend intervening particularly against the homophobia of those structures though also sometimes reinforcing it
