Family and Social Change in Socialist and Post-Socialist Societies, 2014-10-09 In Family and Social Change in Socialist and Post Socialist Societies the authors address the social transformations of eight transitional societies in recent decades: Russia, Ukraine, Poland, Slovakia, Hungary, Romania, China, and Vietnam. Each chapter discusses a different society and reveals their struggles in the reconstruction of the intimate and public spheres amid the post Cold War period. Making use of a semi-structured analytical framework, the respective chapters address the ambiguous relationship between familism and individualisation seen through change and continuity in demographic behaviour, family values, family solidarity, gender relations, state policy, and marketisation. The volume also outlines the possibility of a modified second demographic transition theory as a correction of Western based interpretations of current social trends. Contributors include Zsombor Rajkai, Yulia Gradszkova, Lyudmyla Males, Tymur Sandrovych, Ma gorzata Sikorska, Peter Gur, Jarmila Filadelfiov, Milo Debn r, Csaba Dupcsik, Olga T th, Borb la, Kov cs, Zhou Weihong, Liu Wenrong, Xue Yali, Nguyen Huu Minh, Chang Kyung Sup.

Policy Implications of Changing Family Formation, Linda Hantrais, Dimitŭr Filipov, Francesco C. Billari, 2006-01-01 Modern European societies are witnessing a number of key changes in family structures such as postponed parenthood, low fertility, single parenting, and increased divorce rates. As a consequence of the radical changes taking place in our societies, family policies often result in a complex set of targeted and sometimes contradictory measures and forms of public intervention. The three authors of this volume review the major demographic challenges posed by changing patterns in family and family formation and strive to identify possible policy responses by governments. They stress the need for all levels of government and the private sector to adopt an integrated and balanced approach to policy in order to create cohesive and family friendly societies. This volume is a thematic compilation of the background papers on the policy implications of changing family formations prepared for the European Population Conference, Strasbourg, 7-8 April 2005.

Divorce, Families and Emotion Work, Elena Moore, 2017-01-20 This book is a carefully researched, clearly written, very important contribution to our understanding of divorce. Arlie Hochschild, University of California, USA. This rich evidence informed narrative provides a frank, up close and personal portrait of the aftermath of marriage dissolution. Mary Corcoran, Maynooth University, Ireland. Moore throws a welcome light on the moral identities and gendered inequalities of parenting after separation. Rosalind Edwards, University of Southampton, UK. This book focuses on parental commitment to family life after divorce, in contrast to its common perception as an irrevocable breaking up of the family unit, which is often perpetuated by representations from popular culture and the media. In the first detailed review of emotions and emotion work undertaken by divorced parents the author sheds light on how parents manage feelings of guilt fear on going anger and everyday unhappiness in the course of family life post divorce Moore demonstrates how the emotional dimension of divorce is shaped by societal and structural factors and requires parents to undertake considerable emotion work in the creation of new moral identities The book points to the often gendered responsibilities for sustaining family lives post separation and how these reflect extensive inequalities in family practices The author concludes that divorce is not dangerous for society it is not a social evil or a demonstration of the rise of selfish individualism and that divorcees remain committed to former partners and children long after divorce This book will be of interest to scholars and students in the areas of Sociology Psychology Family Studies Social Policy Social Work and Law      Politics and Post-Structuralism

Ann Porter,2003-01-01 In the period since the Second World War there has been both a massive influx of women into the Canadian job market and substantive changes to the welfare state as early expansion gave way by the 1970s to a prolonged period of retrenchment and restructuring Through a detailed historical account of the Unemployment Insurance UI program from 1945 to 1997 Ann Porter demonstrates how gender was central both to the construction of the post war welfare state as well as to its subsequent crisis and restructuring Drawing on a wide range of sources including archival material UI administrative tribunal decisions and documents from the government labour and women s groups she examines the implications of restructuring for women s equality as well as how women s groups labour and the state interacted in efforts to shape the policy agenda Porter argues that while the post war welfare state model was based on a family with a single male breadwinner the new model is one that assumes multiple family earners and encourages employability for both men and women The result has been greater formal equality for women but at the same time the restructuring and reduction of benefits have undermined these gains and made women s lives increasingly difficult Using concepts from political economy feminism and public policy this study will be of interest across a range of disciplines      Family Law Sonia
