Families Applications Of Social Learning To Family Life:

Families: Applications of Social Learning to Family Life Gerald R. Patterson, 1971 Social Learning and Social Structure Ronald L. Akers, 2011-12-31 The social learning theory of crime integrates Edwin H Sutherland's differential association theory with behavioral learning theory. It is a widely accepted and applied approach to criminal and deviant behavior. However, it is also widely misinterpreted, misstated, and misapplied. This is the first single volume in depth authoritative discussion of the background, concepts, development, modifications, and empirical tests of social learning theory. Akers begins with a personal account of Sutherland's involvement in criminology and the origins of his influential perspective. He then traces the intellectual history of Sutherland's theory as well as social learning theory, providing a comprehensive explanation of how each theory approaches illegal behavior. Akers reviews research on various correlates and predictors of crime and delinquency that may be used as operational measures of differential association, reinforcement, and other social learning concepts. Akers proposes a new integrated theory of social learning and social structure that links group differences in crime to individual conduct. He concludes with a cogent discussion of the implications of social learning theory for criminology and public policy. Now available in paperback with a new introduction by the author, this volume will be invaluable to professionals and for use in courses in criminology and deviance. Families G. B. Assessing Family Relationships Theresa Beeton, Ronald Clark, 2019-05-28 Assessing Family Relationships shows mental health professionals how to utilize the Family Life Space Drawing the FLSD, a family assessment tool that incorporates information from multiple family members while building connections between the clinician and the client. In this manual, Theresa A. Beeton and Ronald A. Clark demonstrate the usefulness of the FLSD in both family and couple counseling. As a task-centered assessment tool, the FLSD enables an interactive and personalized process of counseling which helps individuals to express concerns and information about themselves in an indirect and nonthreatening manner. Chapters are illustrated throughout with case studies and drawings adapted from the authors' own clinical experience, and the manual offers an overview of the history of the FLSD as well as where future research is headed. Providing a practical explanation of how to complete the FLSD process, Assessing Family Relationships will be highly relevant to couple and family therapists as well as clinical social workers who are interested in updating their practice with innovative family assessment research and techniques. Social Workers' Desk Reference, 2015-01-13 People all over the world are confronted by issues such as poverty a lack of access to quality education unaffordable and or inadequate housing and a lack of needed health and mental services on a daily basis. Due to these issues there is a need for social workers who have access to relevant and timely scholarly materials in order to meet the needs of those facing these issues. The social psychological and biological factors resulting from these issues determine the level of a person's mental health at any given point in time and it is necessary for social workers to continue to evolve and develop to the new faces and challenges of the times in order to adequately understand the effects of these issues. In the first and second editions of the Social Workers Desk Reference the changes that were occurring in social work practice education and research were highlighted and focused upon. This third edition continues in the same tradition and continues to respond to the changes occurring in society and how they are impacting the education research and practice of social work as a whole. Treating Child-Abusive Families Jeffrey A. Kelly, 2013-11-21 During the past ten years the problem of child abuse has been the subject of increased attention both in the professional community and among the general public. The reasons for this widespread recognition are clear. First professionals of many disciplines deal with child abusive families and do so in a variety of ways. Physicians hospital staff and teachers are often the first to assess a child as the victim of abuse. Social workers and child protective personnel investigate cases of suspected abuse. Court and legal authorities make determinations concerning the needs of an abused child and mental health professionals including psychologists social workers and family counselors often have responsibility for treating abusive families Few clinical problems have received this kind of widespread interdisciplinary recognition and given the nature and seriousness of child abusive behavior few problems receive such intensive attention within each profession's literature A second factor responsible for increased study of child abuse is the fact that violence directed toward children is probably the most extreme form of family dysfunction seen by counselors therapists and other practitioners While other types of child management and anger control problems occur far more frequently the consequences of child abusive behavior are much more serious than the consequences of other problems seen in child or family clinics It has been estimated that as many as 550 000 children are the targets of parental abuse in the country each year Helfer Kemper 1976

Handbook of Behavioural Family Therapy Ian R.H. Falloon, 2015-07-30 First published in 1988 behavioural family therapists worked in an area that had greatly changed since its inception over 20 years before Growing out of the pioneering work of Gerald Patterson Robert Paul Liberman and Richard Stuart whose backgrounds vary from psychology to psychiatry to social work behavioural family therapy BFT had evolved to encompass systems theory considerations of the therapeutic alliance as well as approaches to accounting for and restructuring family members subjective experiences through cognitive strategies As BFT had not been the brain child of any one charismatic innovator but rather of a wide array of clinicians and researchers developing and rigorously testing hypotheses it is fitting that this much needed summation of the field was a collaborative product of an array of well established practitioners of the time They discuss in Part 1 of the book the theoretical parameters of BFT focusing on modular behavioural strategies the indications for therapy assessment of family problems pertinent issues arising in clinical practice and approaches to the problem of resistance to change Contributors to Part 2 then apply theory to such clinical situations as parent training and helping families cope with patients suffering from developmental disabilities alcoholism schizophrenia senile dementia as well as anxiety obsessive compulsive and depressive disorders Specific attention is also given to acute inpatient and primary health care settings While BFT had already proved quite effective in treating a great number of family problems it was only in its infancy at the time of writing As Falloon says in his overview all exponents of the method are constantly involved with the process of refinement each clinician is a researcher each family member is a research subject and each researcher is contributing to clinical advancement This openness in combination with a willingness to modify sacred tenets of behaviourism while adapting proven techniques from other family therapies made this title a landmark in its field As such it was not only of interest to all clinicians and researchers with a behavioural slant but also to all family therapists who wished to challenge themselves to develop an integrative approach What Works with Children and Adolescents? Alan Carr, 2013-07-23 What Works with Children and Adolescents fulfils the need for a concise empirically based study of the types of psychological treatments that may be effective for common psychological problems in childhood and adolescence Providing a solid foundation for evidence based practice in the treatment of children and adolescents the book offers evidence from over 150 rigorously conducted research trials Examining problems which are of central concern to practising clinicians including child abuse enuresis and encopresis ADHD childhood conduct problems adolescent violence drug abuse anxiety and depression anorexia and bulimia nervosa paediatric pain and post divorce adjustment problems it also highlights priority areas for future research on the treatment of children and adolescents psychological problems What Works with Children and Adolescents complements The Handbook of Child and Adolescent Clinical Psychology Carr 2006 and will be valuable to professionals in training
