Parental Alienation Syndrome in Court Referred Custody Cases

Janelle Burrill,2002 This dissertation summarizes the research of 30 court referred custody dispute cases assessing the behaviors of the parents and their children to determine the presence or absence of Parental Alienation Syndrome PAS The criteria to determine the parent and their children s behaviors is Dr Gardner s definition of Parental Alienation Syndrome The parents were placed in three categories mild moderate or severe based on their symptoms and behaviors Their children 59 were then categorized into three groups mild moderate severe This investigation seeks to determine additional information regarding the presence or absence of PAS Reluctance by the courts and mental health community to accept the validity of PAS probably contributes to the perpetuation of the disruption of parent child relations in custody disputes Findings and Conclusions It appears the data from this study corroborates observations and definitions of Parental Alienation Syndrome The data from this study indicates that the parents in the mild PAS category have children who exhibit fewer negative behaviors toward the alienated parents whereas children whose parents are in the severe category exhibit more negative behaviors towards the alienated parents This study found that the more negative behaviors a child exhibits towards an alienated parent the more severe their parent s symptoms and behaviors Consequently there is more severe alienation from the alienated parent and the more disruption to that parent child relation PAS is a distinctive form of child abuse generally found in intractable custody disputes Download 1st chapter ByteSizeSystems Reader FREE and buy ByteSize b book for 5 00 harm In this much needed book senior clinicians consider the principles and practice of parenting assessments and how they guide courts decisions about children s welfare They describe a number of frameworks for assessment and discuss the factors which help predict the risk of future maltreatment or the likelihood of successful rehabilitation Throughout the book the emphasis is on the need to integrate the assessments of all relevant professionals in order to serve the best interests of the child while also addressing the parents potential to improve their caretaking skills Offering guidance in areas of crucial significance for child family and professional alike Assessment of Parenting will be widely welcomed Psychotherapy with Children of Divorce Richard A.
