steps to enhance the daily living conditions of this population offers opportunities to improve any population's mental health and decrease the risk of mental illnesses or disorders

Mental Health in South Asia: Ethics, Resources, Programs and Legislation Jitendra Kumar Trivedi, Adarsh Tripathi, 2014-11-28 Asia is by far the largest continent in the world in terms of area with population exceeding 3.5 billion and has dozens of cultures, religions, languages and ethnic groups. As a result of its highly varied political systems, Asia also spawns a wide variety of health care systems including mental health care systems often based on historical roots and at times colonial heritages. The people who suffer from mental or neurological disorders in the continent form a vulnerable section of society and often face stigma, discrimination and marginalization in all societies and this increases the likelihood that their human rights will be violated. This book tackles the issue of mental health legislation in South Asia. The first of its kind, it addresses an issue that is necessary for protecting the rights of people with mental disorders and serves as an essential text for reinforcing mental health policy in South Asia. It is a timely addition to our global understanding of mental health and how different regions address it

Handbook of Race and Development in Mental Health Edward Chang, Christina A. Downey, 2011-10-02 This project is unique in the field for a number of reasons both in structure and in content Specifically it will have leading experts on specific age groups Childhood to Adolescence Young Adulthood to Middle Age and The Elderly within the cultural groups of interest European Americans African Americans Asian Americans Hispanic Americans and Native Americans contribute a chapter covering current research on both positive and negative functioning for each population Each chapter will present basic demographic information strengths that contribute to resilience and three significant challenges each group faces to maintaining mental health Each chapter will then include an integrative section where ideas are advanced about how the strengths of each group can be harnessed to address the challenges that group faces To conclude each chapter will propose future directions for research which addresses integrative approaches to mental health for each group and the implications that such approaches could have for future treatment The main points of each section of each chapter will be visually summarized in a concluding table Child, Adolescent and Family Refugee

Mental Health Suzan J. Song, Peter Ventevogel, 2020-06-15 More than half of the 25.9 million refugees in the world are under the age of 18 and the mental health of these children and adolescents constitutes a growing global public health priority. Refugee children and their families are at increased risk to develop mental health problems but they often face major challenges in accessing adequate treatment and mental health professionals frequently feel ill equipped to assist this group. Refugees are faced with a plethora of issues including the ambiguous loss of loved ones, psychological trauma related to past experiences of violence and atrocities, the complexities of daily life as a refugee and the challenges to adapt to new systems of care and support. Refugees' life circumstances all too often undermine their agency as they face discrimination, stigma and social isolation or exclusion. Refugees are frequently disconnected from the usual family and community supports that they once had which creates additional mental distress. As parents struggle with these changes their children often find it even more difficult to adapt and connect with them. This all leads to increased prevalence of mental health conditions among refugees. Humanitarian policies recommend family centered interventions that are multi sectoral, multi disciplinary and focus on optimizing resource utilization. Over the last decade a considerable body of research has emerged around socio ecological models of mental health, family and community approaches and resilience and strengths based theories but these insights are insufficiently incorporated in the practice of mental health care for refugee children. Clinicians often struggle to grasp the common, unique stressors that families face and are not familiar with working with families as units for intervention. Using culturally and contextually informed assessment methods and family oriented management approaches not only help individual children or adolescents but also their families. This book aims to provide an overview of the latest theoretical insights from research on sociocultural aspects of mental health and connect these with clinical insights from practical mental health care provision. Using strengths based, resiliency oriented and family centered approaches can enrich clinical practice in refugee mental health but clinicians need to translate the emerging evidence into concrete steps and interventions. This requires additional skills for the assessment and management of mental health conditions in refugee children and families. The chapters in this book are written by a diverse group of authors using global multi disciplinary approaches. The chapters provide examples from various contexts including refugees who are displaced to neighboring countries, refugees on the move and refugees and asylum seekers in resettlement settings. This book is therefore a unique resource for clinicians, researchers and policy makers working on mental health issues of refugee children and adolescents around the world.

Medical Family Therapy Jennifer Hodgson, Angela Lamson, Tai Mendenhall, D. Russell Crane, 2014-03-18 High praise to Hodgson, Lamson, Mendenhall and Crane and in creating a seminal work for systemic researchers, educators, supervisors, policy makers and financial experts in health care. The comprehensiveness and innovation explored by every author reflects an in depth understanding that reveals true pioneers of integrated health care. Medical Family Therapy: Advances in Application will lead the way for Medical Family Therapists in areas just now being acknowledged and explored.

Irregular Migration, Refugee Status and the Law Maja Grundler, 2025-08-29 Through an investigation of the protection needs of irregularised migrants this book offers a novel approach to the phenomenon of irregular migration by reframing it as a matter of refugee law Thousands of people have died disappeared and suffered mental and physical harm on their dangerous migratory journeys to Europe This book addresses an issue which so far has been largely omitted from the study of refugee law the fact that harm experienced during irregular migration is often as serious as harm feared by recognised refugees in their countries of origin Grundler argues that harm experienced during dangerous journeys can constitute persecution and that a risk of irregular re migration can form the basis for a claim to refugee status Drawing insights from a comparative content analysis of trafficked persons asylum claims other disciplines such as psychology and sociology and additional case law this book provides readers with new understandings on the scope of the refugee definition adds new concepts to migration theories and challenges states migration control policies This volume will be an important point of reference for scholars practitioners policymakers and students working on refugee and human rights law irregular migration and vulnerability

Non-pharmacological Interventions for Mental Disorders Lara Guedes De Pinho, César Fonseca, Manuel Lopes, Brooke Schneider, Łukasz Gawęda, 2024-04-01 One of the side effects of the COVID 19 pandemic was the worsening of the symptomatology of mental disorders The number of people with mental disorders has increased and pre existing mental disorders have worsened in many cases Psychopharmacology alone is not sufficient for the treatment of conditions such as schizophrenia depression bipolar disorder and generalized anxiety disorder among others and the combined use of psychopharmacology and non pharmacological interventions is recommended by international guidelines Despite this most people around the world do not have access to non pharmacological interventions and when they are diagnosed with a mental disorder only psychopharmacological drugs are prescribed In other cases although non pharmacological interventions for example psychotherapy are also prescribed this response takes a long time
