set their posts and planted their colonies On cunningly sealed wedges of wood they sent their royal orders to the wardens of their frontiers and on palm leaves from the Indian coasts they inscribed the lore that gave the illumination of God to settlements on the mountains and in the Central Asian deserts In the shrines or stupas that they raised to Buddha the wise teacher they had dadoes and frescoes painted in tempera by some Titianus or Heliodorus from the Hellenized Levant adventurers of a fine Grecian courage who scattered their harmonious energies and their joy in life over the Indian world Along the trade routes marched merchants caravans burdened with silks and rare spices that found their way from China to the Black Sea or the precarious ports on the Arabian Coast Women wrote the professors of love in that time of peace and enjoyment can be divided into four classes There is she who is a pure lotus and she who is fair as a picture she whom they call hag and witch and she who can be likened only to the female of the elephant Of her who is as a lotus they wrote Her face is pleasant like the full moon her plump body is tender as the mustard flower her skin is fine and soft as the golden lotus fair and undarkened Bright and beautiful are her eyes like those of the antelope clear cut and healthful Her breast is firm and full and uplifted and her neck shapely her nose is straight and delightful The scent of her body is like a lily newly burst She walks delicately like a swan and her voice is low and musical as the note of the cuckoo calling softly in the summer day She is clothed in clean white garments and she delights in rich jewels and adornments She is gracious and clever pious and respectful a lover of God a listener to the virtuous and the wise To be continue in this ebook The Phrenological Journal and Life Illustrated ,1871 The Fortnightly ,1917 The Fortnightly Review ,1917 The War in the East

(Illustrations) Trumbull White, Some striking act in a man s career is necessary to attract general attention to him The one who moves along through his path in life doing nothing out of the ordinary will win few glances from the public and little will the world notice his existence Worthy of the worthiest he may be but if he does nothing to demonstrate it how shall the world know his merit or his strength But with all this true it does not follow that it is man s duty to seek an occasion to advertise these qualities Only when the necessity for action arises then should he act and then will the world know what his ability and character are The same is true as to the nations of the earth Those years during which they move onward in their national life and history in peace and quietness however full of latent strength they may be are not the ones which command the attention of the eyes of the world It is the year of supreme test of struggle moral or physical that furnishes crucial testimony what the nation really is War is always a curse unless it be waged to advance justice and assure more worthy peace But if such a war be necessary the progress of it the results and the lessons they teach are essential to the student of humanity in whatever quarter of the globe the battles are China Japan and Corea are a strange trinity to most of us in the western world Separated from us by long distances and by immense differences in race in language in religion and in customs they have been known here only through the writings of the comparatively few travelers who exchange visits Of late years it is true the hermitages of the Orient have been opening to freer intercourse trade and treaties have multiplied and students have come to us for the knowledge we could give them But there was needed a great movement of some sort to awaken the Orient from its centuries of slumber and to make known to us the truth of eastern affairs Nothing could do this as the War in the East has done We can study its conduct and its results if 6we will in a way to teach us more of the characteristics of the three nations than we could learn in any other way It has been the object of the author in the present volume to record the facts of the war and its preliminaries so clearly that every seeker for knowledge might trace the lessons for himself To justify this effort it is necessary to say no more than that the conflict involves directly nations whose total population includes more than one fourth of the human race And the results will affect the progress of civilization in those countries as well as the commercial and other interests of all the European and American nations Invertebrate China with scorn of western methods and complacent rest in the belief that all but her own people are barbarians had to face an inevitable war with Japan the sprightly absorbent adaptive western spirited whose career in the two score years since her doors were opened to the call of the American Perry has been the marvel of those who knew it And the conflict was to be on the soil of the Hermit Nation Corea the Land of Morning Calm for centuries the land of contention between the Day s Beginning and the Middle Kingdom It is to record the history and description of these realms and peoples in sufficient detail to make plainer the facts of the war that the preliminary chapters are written The work must speak for itself The importance of the subjects included in the volume must be the explanation of any inadequacy of treatment     Studies and Illustrations of the Writings of Shakspeare and of his Life and Times Charl Knight,1850     American Phrenological Journal and Life Illustrated ,1908     A Handbook of Christian Ethics David Stow Adam,1925     Sociology of Family Life David Cheal,2020-06-03 This lucid and accessible introductory text from a highly regarded author provides students who are encountering the sociology of the family for the first time with a systematic and stimulating way of thinking about the subject based on a core set of analytical questions Coherent and persuasive it blends theory with empirical examples drawn from all over the world thus offering valuable insights into the differences and commonalities between families in quite diverse social and cultural contexts     An Illustrated Commentary on the Gospel According to Matthew for Family Use and Reference ... Lyman Abbott,1875
