Family Shadow Sources Of Suicide And Schizophrenia:

The Family Shadow David K. Reynolds, Norman L. Farberow, 1981 Family Psychoeducation for Serious Mental Illness Harriet P. Lefley, 2009-07-17 Research shows that many adults with serious mental illness live with or maintain contact with their families But families are rarely given information about their relative s illness and their own needs for support are ignored To be optimally beneficial family members and other caregivers need education about the disorder some knowledge of illness management techniques and personal support Family psychoeducation FPE is a powerful evidence based psychosocial intervention that serves consumers and their families FPE has proven efficacious in reducing relapse and hospitalization reducing symptoms increasing employability of persons with severe and persistent mental illness and in many cases enhancing their families well being Its success rests with a state of the art education model for improving caregivers understanding of their loved one s illness through learning what is known and not known about it and how to assess and cope with its manifestations Here in the first book of its kind Harriet P Lefley traces the history of FPE including the developments in mental health services and systems and theoretical approaches that inform it and the robust empirical evidence it now claims after a quarter century of development and evaluation at major research centers around the world Presenting first the approach s generic components training models and required competencies Lefley then discusses the available variations such as Family Education FE a brief manualized form of FPE offered by professionally trained family members that has some empirical support for knowledge gains and easing family distress The result is a comprehensive practical introduction to family psychoeducation that critically appraises the evidence and examines the model s place in contemporary mental health systems This groundbreaking volume is an ideal training tool for graduate students of social work psychology and psychiatry and a valuable addition to the clinician s armamentarium of evidence based practices for clients with serious mental illness

Schizophrenia Research Trends Konstance V. Almann, 2007 Schizophrenia is a chronic severe and disabling psychosis which is an impairment of thinking in which the interpretation of reality is abnormal Psychosis is a symptom of a disordered brain Approximately One percent of the population worldwide develops schizophrenia during their lifetime Although schizophrenia affects men and women with equal frequency the disorder often appears earlier in men usually in the late teens or early twenties than in women who are generally affected in the twenties to early thirties People with schizophrenia often suffer symptoms such as hearing internal voices not heard by others or believing that other people are reading their minds controlling their thoughts or plotting to harm them The current evidence concerning the causes of schizophrenia are many It is quite clear that multiple factors are involved These include changes in the chemistry of the brain changes in the structure of the brain and genetic factors Viral infections and head injuries may also play a role New molecular tools and modern statistical analyses allow focusing in on particular genes that might make people more susceptible to schizophrenia by affecting for example brain development or neurotransmitter systems governing brain functioning State of the art imaging techniques are being used to study the living brain They have recently revealed specific subtle abnormalities in the structure and function of the brains of patients with schizophrenia In other imaging studies early biochemical changes that may precede the onset of disease symptoms have been noted prompting examination of the neural circuits that are most likely to be involved in producing those symptoms This book presents new and important research in the field Adolescents and Their Families Stuart T. Hauser, Sally Isbell Powers, Gil G. Noam, 1991 This book examines the process of ego development in adolescence It explores the diverse ways in which mothers and fathers subtly direct their teenagers on to one of the four main paths through adolescence and facilitate or impede their development and the equally diverse ways in which teenager s interactions with their parents may affect the parents Throughout choices of real children and parents are presented some happy and successful others troubled The book is aimed at those who work professionally with adolescents and their families

Stephen Lives Anne Puryear, 1997-04 The author discusses the life of her son Stephen who committed suicide at the age of fifteen and relates messages she has received from him since his death telling her why he took his own life and offering hope to other people who may be discouraged with their own lives The Handbook of Social Studies in Health and

Medicine Gary L Albrecht, Ray Fitzpatrick, Susan C Scrimshaw, 2003-04-21 This is the first international and interdisciplinary social science Handbook on health and medicine Five years in the making and building on the insights and advice of an international editorial board the book brings together world class figures to provide an indispensable comprehensive resource book on social science health and medicine Pinpointing the focal issues of research and debate in one volume the material is organized into three sections social and cultural frameworks of analysis the experience of health and illness and health care systems and practices Each section consists of specially commissioned chapters designed to examine the vital conceptual and methodological practice and policy issues Readers receive Families as Allies in Treatment of the Mentally Ill

National Institute of Mental Health (U.S.), National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (U.S.), 1990 This volume promotes changing the clinical education of mental health professionals so that families of mentally ill patients will be viewed as allies rather than adversaries Families as Allies in Treatment of the Mentally Ill provides an overview of issues related to this topic including research directions for new conceptualizations of families and the social context of helping families of mentally ill patients ethical and legal considerations in interviewing families of seriously mentally ill patients an outline of model educational programs American Journal of Psychotherapy , 1947 STEPHEN LIVES: HIS LIFE, SUICIDE AND
