Family Foster Care In The Next Century:

Family Foster Care in the Next Century Kathy Barbell, Lois Wright, 2018-01-18 Family foster care is supposed to provide temporary protection and nurturing for children experiencing maltreatment. Although it has long been a critical service for millions of children in the United States, the increased attention given to this service in the last two decades has focused more on its inability to achieve its intended outcomes than on its successes. However, as social and political trends and new legislation reshape child welfare, policymakers and service providers continue to offer innovative policy and practice options for this child welfare service. Though use of the service has changed, family foster care remains important. Responding to a widespread sense of the drifting of children in care, Congress passed the Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980. This legislation became a key factor shaping the current status of family foster care. Its goal was to reduce reliance on out-of-home care and encourage use of preventive and reunification services; it also mandated that agencies engage in planning efforts for permanent solutions for foster children. Yet despite federal mandates and funding, the child welfare system has continued to struggle to provide the level of services needed for children to reduce the amount of time children remain in temporary foster care. The latest response to these problems, the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, established unequivocally that safety, permanency, and well-being were national goals for children in the child welfare system. To comply with the law, public and private agencies are required to initiate significant program and practice changes in the coming years to improve permanency outcomes and child well-being in family foster care. The central theme of the volume is accountability for outcomes, certainly a current driving force in child welfare as well as in other public and private service fields. This volume will be of interest to all concerned with the social welfare of children and families at the end of the twentieth century. Kathy Barbell is director of Foster Care of the Child Welfare League of America, Washington DC. Lois Wright is assistant dean at the College of Social Work, University of South Carolina, Columbia. Child Welfare Child Welfare League of America, 1999 Special Issue: Family Foster Care in the Next Century Kathy Barbell, Lois Wright, 1999 Encyclopedia of Primary Prevention and Health Promotion Thomas P. Gullotta, Martin Bloom, 2003-01-31 Foundational topics such as history, ethics, and principles of primary prevention, as well as specific issues such as consultation, political issues, and financing. The second section addresses such topics as abuse, depression, eating disorders, HIV/AIDS, injuries, and religion and spirituality, often dividing such topics into separate entries addressing childhood, adolescence, and adulthood. Children of Parents with Mental Illness 2 Vicki Cowling, 2004-02-01 Children of Parents with Mental Illness 2 looks at the insights and experiences of children and adults who have lived or grown up with parents with a mental illness. The experiences highlight the need to think of all family members when a parent has a mental illness and identifies the needs of children to belong and have someone to talk to about their experiences. Complementing these personal accounts are clinical chapters written by Australian practitioners with a rich and diverse range of experiences. Some of the issues discussed include The complex and inter related scientific social and ethical issues of the genetics of mental illness How different psychiatric disorders may affect infants How talking with children to both allay anxiety and give age appropriate information is an important component of working with parents with mental illness and their children The need to consider sensitively the roles and responsibilities an adolescent may have while negotiating their own developmental issues Meeting the needs of children placed in long term care their birth parents and their caregiver family along with the consideration of associated legal issues rights issues ethical and social issues The value of peer support programs for children and young people where they can realise they are not alone and feel comfortable speaking with others who share their experiences Maintaining the dimensions of development and a family context in the provision of mental health care rather than abandoning these approaches in favour of those which are behaviourally focused and stripped of meaning and motives This highly recommended text is a comprehensive and relevant resource for psychologists and social workers

Children in Foster Care James Barber, Paul Delfabbro, Robyn Gilbertson, 2004-08-02 Researchers practitioners journalists and politicians increasingly recognise that foster care throughout the world is in a state of crisis There are more and more children needing care and as residential alternatives dry up more of these children are being assigned to foster families This book reports the major findings of a two year longitudinal study of 235 such children who entered the foster care system in Southern Australia between 1998 and 1999 As well as examining the changing policy context of children s services the book documents the psychosocial outcomes for these children their feedback on their experiences of care and the views of their social workers and carers In the process the book examines some cherished beliefs about foster care policy and sheds new light on them The research reveals that while most children do quite well in foster care up to the two year point there is a worrying amount of placement instability at a time when the concentration of emotionally troubled children in care is increasing throughout the western world Although surprisingly placement instability does not appear to produce psychosocial impairment for a period of up to eight months in care it has an extreme effect on children who are moved from placement to placement because no carer will tolerate their behaviour These children are consigned to a life of distribution and emotional upheaval because of the lack of alternative forms of care Another unexpected finding of the research is that increasing the rate of parental contact achieves little or nothing in relation to the likelihood of family reunification As child welfare increasingly enters a world of research based practice Children in Foster Care provides some much needed hard evidence of how foster care policy and practice can be improved Research Methods in Child Welfare Amy J. L.

Baker, Benjamin J. Charvat, 2008 In this text two highly experienced researchers offer the best techniques for conducting sound research in child welfare Covering not only the methodological challenges but also the real life constraints of research in child welfare settings Amy J L Baker and Benjamin S Charvat present a volume that can be used both for general research methods and as a practical guide for conducting research in the field Baker and Charvat devote an entire chapter to ethical issues involved in researching children and their families and the limits of confidentiality within this population Each chapter begins with a scenario that presents a question or problem to work through enabling readers to apply the methods to a specific setting Special sections explore the value of continuous quality improvement activities which enable the collection and analysis of data outside of the strictures of publishable research and the implementation of program evaluations which can be helpful in obtaining further research and programmatic funding Relatively Speaking Paul Nixon, 2007

International Advances in Adoption Research for Practice Gretchen Miller Wrobel, Elsbeth Neil, 2009-01-12 This is a unique compilation of cross cultural and international attitudes towards adoption research and outcomes Whilst informal adoption of children has probably always existed across all human societies this work is timely in that interest in the role of legal adoption as both a child welfare solution and as a means of alternative family formation for adults wanting to become parents has never been higher This book is an edited collection of 13 papers based on invited keynote presentations or paper symposia presentations given at the Second International Conference on Adoption Research ICAR2 2006 It gives a unique Cross cultural look at adoption from worldwide multidisciplinary community of distinguished and emerging adoption researchers International appeal with different countries laws attitudes and outcomes fully explored The Child Welfare Challenge James K. Whittaker, 2017-07-12 Within a historical and contemporary context this book examines major policy practice and research issues as they jointly shape child welfare practice and its future In addition to describing the major problems facing the field the book highlights service innovations that have been developed in recent years The resulting picture is encouraging especially if certain major program reforms are implemented and agencies are able to concentrate resources in a focused manner The volume emphasizes families and children whose primary recourse to services has been through publicly funded child welfare agencies The book considers historical areas of service foster care and adoptions in home family centered services child protective services and residential services where social work has an important role Authors address the many fields of practice in which child and family services are provided or that involve substantial numbers of social work programs such as services to adolescent parents child mental health education and juvenile justice agencies This new edition will continue to serve as a fundamental introduction for new practitioners as well as summary of recent developments for experienced practitioners     The Foster Care Crisis Patrick Almond Curtis,Grady Dale,Joshua C. Kendall,1999-01-01 The inadequacy of the foster care system has long been recognized One of the biggest obstacles to reforming the system is the relative unavailability of research data from the field information that would shed light on key empirical trends and pressing issues This long overdue volume provides a much needed overview of the current state of foster care Leading researchers and practitioners summarize and discuss the results of their current research providing through their data an unparalleled detailed glimpse of the inner workings of the foster care system in its entirety The volume is also valuable for its survey and syntheses of important issues and trends affecting foster care Subjects discussed include welfare reform reporting systems family reunification mental health services and the needs of minority children Wide ranging and detailed in its coverage this collection is destined to become an essential reference and guide to the foster care system

Barber,2006 Since the beginnings of its development in Britain in 1987 the Looking After Children LAC initiative has had a profound influence in Canada as well as in Australia and across Europe in sharpening the developmental focus and improving the quality of services for children and adolescents who because of abuse neglect extreme poverty or other circumstances live in out of home care Promoting Resilience in Child Welfare presents reviews of research new empirical findings and useful practice and policy suggestions derived from the perspectives of LAC and resilience theory by an array of international voices Practitioners out of home care providers youths in care in service trainers students researchers and many others will find much in this book that speaks to more effective ways of improving the lives of young people being looked after in out of home care Midwest
