Family Violence From A Communication Perspective:

Family Violence from a Communication Perspective Dudley D. Cahn, Sally A. Lloyd, 1996-04-16 Going beyond the traditional psychological and sociological approaches this ground breaking volume presents a new theoretical framework for understanding and resolving abusive family interactions it takes a communication perspective to examine the interactional processes at the core of domestic abuse aggression and violence Covering spouse child elderly parent and courtship abuse the contributors explore both commonalities and differences in emotional psychological verbal and sexual abuse They illustrate how these different types of abuse stem from problematic communication patterns integral to the power imbalance inherent in abusive relationships The contributors also suggest ways of modifying these patterns

Family Violence from a Communication Perspective Dudley D. Cahn, Sally A. Lloyd, 1996-04-16 Although an anecdotal association between communication and family violence was noted early in the family violence literature a communication approach to family violence has been underrepresented in the literature This book is a welcome contribution to the literature because it demonstrates that the connection between communication and family violence is much more complex than a skills deficit of one or more members of a violent relationship Gail Whitchurch Department of Communication Studies Indiana University Adding an innovative perspective to traditional psychological and sociological approaches Family Violence from a Communication Perspective lays out a new theoretical framework for understanding and resolving abusive family interactions This exceptional volume features contributions from a variety of disciplines that examine the interactional processes at the core of domestic abuse aggression and violence The contributors explore the development of violence in the family beginning with courtship violence proceeding through marital violence and perpetuated through parent child violence Providing keen insight the chapters examine the commonalities and differences inherent in emotional psychological verbal and sexual abuse and how they all stem from basic communication problems An essential resource for students and scholars in communication family studies relationship studies psychology sociology and women s studies Family Violence from a Communication Perspective also offers a refreshing viewpoint for professionals in the human services

Family Violence Dudley D. Cahn, 2008-01-09 Although the United States has a high level of affluence and education compared to much of the rest of the world neither wealth nor schooling ensures personal safety particularly within the family and home Every ten seconds a child is beaten neglected or molested by his or her own family members and many couples and children can be violent abusive and aggressive towards other family members as well Family Violence focuses on the communication processes that occur before during and after these episodes Contributors to the volume include both established scholars and newcomers to the communication field who use quantitative and qualitative approaches to unravel the complexities of the communication processes that are at the center of violence in families Essays cover a range of topics focusing separately on couples violence and violence between parents and children and through the lens of communication research shed new light on the significant problem of domestic violence in the United States A Typology of Domestic Violence Michael P. Johnson, 2012-12-13 Reassesses thirty years of domestic violence research and demonstrates three forms of partner violence distinctive in their origins effects and treatments Sourcebook of Family Theory and Research Vern L. Bengtson, 2005 Now available in paperback for classroom use This comprehensive text provides a rich source of perspectives on theorising about the family for scholars researchers and students Another of the book's strengths is the emphasis on multimethod approaches in family research The book covers an impressive range of topics and issues marital happiness adjustment of children in divorce marriages gay marriage sibling ties ethnic families of colour stepfamilies aggression culture work and family religion and social policy to name a few In summary this superb volume is highly recommended and amply reflects the many contemporary perspectives on the family Philip Siebler Monash University Victoria Sponsored by the National Council on Family Relations the Sourcebook of Family Theory and Research is the reference work on theory and methods for family scholars and students around the world This volume provides a diverse eclectic and paradoxically mature approach to theorizing and demonstrates how the development of theory is crucial to the future of family research The Sourcebook reflects an interactive approach that focuses on the process of theory building and designing research thereby engaging readers in doing theory rather than simply reading about it An accompanying website offers additional participation and interaction in the process of doing theory and making science Editors Vern L Bengtson Alan C Acock Katherine R Allen Peggye Dilworth Anderson and David M Klein have brought together a prominent group of diverse contributors ranging in race and ethnicity age and seniority and gender and sexual orientation The Sourcebook begins with a section that sets the context for future family research The subsequent sections explore changing family patterns changing family interactions within and across generations and families and larger social forces A concluding section discusses issues of teaching family theories and research Key Features Focuses on the process rather than the outcomes of family theory and research methods Emphasizes the value of multi methods approaches in family research by integrating theory development with the development of research methods Differs from many other publications on family research by describing the development of new ideas rather than just summarizing existing findings The interactive Web site and the special feature boxes within the chapters engage readers with theory and methodology Boxed features include Case Studies Spotlights on Theory Spotlights on Methods and a Discussion and Extension sections Represents a Who's Who of family researchers with contributions from many of the best researchers in the family realm The Sourcebook will be an excellent addition to any academic library It is an authoritative reference for scholars and researchers in Human Development and Family Studies Sociology Social Work and Psychology In addition the Sourcebook can also be used in graduate courses on family theory and methodology

International Perspectives on Family Violence and Abuse Kathleen Malley-Morrison, 2012-12-06 In this book in which definitions and examples of abuse from men and women from every continent and a very diverse set of backgrounds are considered The volume provides information on the extent to which family violence is a recognized problem in each country research findings available on different forms of family violence and information on governmental responses to family violence Finally the value of an international human rights approach to abuse and violence in families is considered The book presents an unparalleled international coverage addressing all forms of family violence in Australia and at least two countries from every other continent Each chapter begins by describing the cultural context in which family violence and abuse take place These sections emphasize the role of women and children in the country Providing a multitude of voices each chapter includes fascinating and often dramatic definitions and examples of abuse from ordinary citizens of the country The concluding chapter elaborates on the appropriateness of a human rights approach in addressing family violence cross nationally and cross culturally and provides an excellent integration of much of the material from the previous chapters The book is intended for advanced undergraduates and graduate students in psychology and sociology as well as pre professionals and professionals in medicine law and social services It has strong relevance and value to individuals training in counseling counselor education and clinical psychology Because of its readable style and extensive use of quotations from citizens of the countries studied for the book it may also appeal to a much broader audience including a lay audience

Violence in Intimate Relationships Ximena B. Arriaga, Stuart Oskamp, 1999-06-10 What are the roots of violence between spouses What do we know about the precursors of wife battering Who are the victims of domestic abuse This book discusses causes and precursors of violence exploring the psychological characteristics of perpetrators of violence and describing and evaluating potential responses to it Each chapter contributes to the reader's understanding of violence in intimate relationships Part I establishes the what and the who of violence Part II examines the interpersonal and situational context that may contribute to violent interaction or the how and why that underlie violent interactions and Part III provides an account of what happens to victims as a result of physical and psychological abuse and how relationships change following violent interactions The book provides an up to date supplemental textbook for courses on a variety of disciplines that deal with violence between spouses and intimate spouses CONTRIBUTORS S Oskamp X B Arriaga M A Straus A Holtzworth Munroe J C Meehan K Herron G L Stuart D G Dutton S A Lloyd K E Leonard I Arias P W Sharps J Campbell T N Bradbury E Lawrence Communication in a Civil Society Shelley D. Women? Michele Harway, James M. O'Neil, 1999-09-09 Carefully organized and tightly edited this insightful book considers potential causes of men's violence against women utilizing a variety of theoretical perspectives It summarizes what is known about the multiple causes of men's violence against women and the importance of identifying men's risk factors in order to prevent future violence The editors approach is unique but systematic In chapter 2 the editors present a preliminary multivariate model that explains men's violence against women by identifying four content areas macrosocietal biological gender role socialization and relation factors Within these four areas the editors develop thirteen preliminary hypotheses about the causes of men s violence against women In the subsequent chapters the contributing authors critique or react to specific parts of the multivariate model and address one or more of the 13 hypotheses in the presentation of their own ideas about the causes of men s violence against women In the concluding chapter the editors summarize the contributors reactions to the original hypotheses by creating a revised multivariate model of risk factors for men s violence against women The final model includes biological socialization psychological psychosocial relational and macrosocietal factors Furthermore the model is explained through 13 theoretical propositions 40 research hypotheses and over 60 risk variables related to men s violence against women The book closes with a discussion of men s protective resiliency and vulnerability factors as well as future directions for theory development advocacy and the prevention of violence against women The Batterer as Parent Lundy Bancroft, Jay G. Silverman, Daniel Ritchie, 2012 Moving beyond the narrow clinical perspective this book offers a view that takes into account the complex ways in which a batterer s abusive and controlling behaviors are woven into the fabric of daily life Entrapment, Escape, and Elevation from Relationship Violence Wind Goodfriend, Pamela Lassiter Simcock, 2022-06-23 How does experiencing intimate partner violence IPV affect one s identity in terms of self concept and self esteem In this Element the authors propose a novel framework called the E3 Model in which relevant theory and research studies can be organized into three phases Entrapment Escape and Elevation Entrapment focuses on how people enter and commit to a relationship that later becomes abusive and how experiencing IPV affects the self Escape explores how victims become survivors as they slowly build the resources needed to leave safely including galvanizing self esteem Finally Elevation centers on how survivors psychologically rebuild from their experience and become stronger happier more hopeful selves This Element concludes with a discussion of applications of the E3 Model such as public and legal policy regarding how to best help and support survivors Seeking and Resisting Compliance Steven R Wilson, 2002-07-10 Why do individuals say what they do during everyday face to face influence interactions How do people seek or resist compliance in different relational institutional and cultural contexts Linking theory and research to salient real life examples and recent academic studies Steven Wilson introduces the reader to the theories systems of message analysis complexities and nuances of interpersonal persuasion Seeking and Resisting Compliance is the only single authored interdisciplinary text to explore compliance gaining and resistance from a message production perspective This incisive clearly written text is ideal for students scholars and anyone interested in interpersonal influence and persuasion in everyday interactions Recommended for graduate and upper level undergraduate courses in persuasion as well as special topics courses in interpersonal influence social psychology and sociolinguistics Features of this text Ground breaking specific focus on message production as opposed to only message effects Multiple theoretical perspectives are presented and the vast body of research from communication psychology linguistics philosophy and related fields is reviewed Student friendly pedagogy such as definitions examples and
