The Relationship Between Insurance Coverage and Cancer Care: A Literature Synthesis Nicole Marlow, Alex Pavluck, John Bian, Michael Halpern, 2009-04-30 This paper summarizes key literature on the relationship between health care insurance status and screening diagnosis and medical care patterns and outcomes for individuals with cancer All studies included for this literature synthesis were identified using the National Library of Medicine's Medline database only English language articles published in the past 10 years were considered Based on article titles and abstracts we selected the most relevant studies for full review and inclusion in this manuscript Although the summarized literature is mixed individuals who are uninsured or have insurance coverage through programs for low income persons e.g. Medicaid coverage are significantly less likely to use cancer screening services and significantly more likely to present with advanced stage cancer at diagnosis and to have significantly worse survival The relationship between insurance status and cancer treatment patterns is less clear as fewer studies have examined this relationship but the available evidence suggests that uninsured patients are less likely to receive optimal cancer care The research reviewed here suggests that the benefits of extending appropriate insurance coverage to uninsured and underinsured individuals could be substantial These benefits are likely to include reduced morbidity improved quality of life and increased survival for cancer patients as well as a positive impact on overall health care and societal costs
