Handbook on Moving Corrections and Sentencing Forward Pamela K. Lattimore, Beth M. Huebner, Faye S. Taxman, 2020-11-10 This volume addresses major issues and research in corrections and sentencing with the goal of using previous research and findings as a platform for recommendations about future research evaluation and policy The last several decades witnessed major policy changes in sentencing and corrections in the United States as well as considerable research to identify the most effective strategies for addressing criminal behavior These efforts included changes in sentencing that eliminated parole and imposed draconian sentences for violent and drug crimes The federal government followed by most states implemented sentencing guidelines that greatly reduced the discretion of the courts to impose sentences The results were a multifold increase in the numbers of individuals in jails and prisons and on community supervision increases that have only recently crested There were also efforts to engage prosecutors and the courts in diversion and oversight including the development of prosecutorial diversion programs as well as a variety of specialty courts Penal reform has included efforts to understand the transitions from prison to the community including federal led efforts focused on reentry programming Community corrections reforms have ranged from increased surveillance through drug testing electronic monitoring and in some cases judicial oversight to rehabilitative efforts driven by risk and needs assessment More recently the focus has included pretrial reform to reduce the number of people held in jail pending trial efforts that have brought attention to the use of bail and its disproportionate impact on people of color and the poor This collection of chapters from leading researchers addresses a wide array of the latest research in the field A unique approach featuring responses to the original essays by active researchers spurs discussion and provides a foundation for developing directions for future research and policymaking

Moving Through and Passing On Yaa P.A. Oppong, 2017-12-02 The Fulani are one of West Africa's most populous and geographically dispersed ethnic groups Commonly thought of as a pastoral people primarily engaged in cattle herding Fulani peoples are in reality highly differentiated in livelihood and patterns of mobility Despite having a long history of residence in Ghana Fulani are considered aliens in the eyes of the state and strangers by the various ethnic groups among whom they reside Among Fulani themselves differences of place circumstance and experience have generated parallel ambiguities on matters of identity and survival In Moving Through and Passing On Yaa P A Oppong focuses on the Fulani of the Greater Accra region to offer the first detailed account of the lives of this transnational community in Ghana Based on eighteen months of ethnographic fieldwork Oppong develops detailed case studies and draws upon over two hundred in depth life histories to explore issues of mobility survival and identity among this spatially dispersed and diverse group Using perspectives and insights gained from oral life histories private and public ceremonies and ethnic associations she examines the sites and circumstances in which people profess to be the same or different from one another The markers of Fulani identity as recognized by Fulani and non Fulani alike are examined Oppong also explores the factors that allow them as a distinct ethnic category to maintain and perpetuate this identity and viability in Greater Accra The metaphoric analogy of construction sites is employed to define the explicit and implicit events and recurring processes through which people conceive of themselves as Fulani These locations and contexts of action include ethnic associations public gatherings and common rites of passage The recurring processes include genealogical reckoning of kinship and endogamous marriage transactions and the ways in which ties of descent and filiation are used to enhance

Moving On Allison Orphan, 2016-11-25 First Published in 2004 In 1999 the Department of Health estimated that there were 549 800 children with special needs under the age of 18 in the UK Department of Health 1999 Each of those children will have been seen by various professionals assessed discussed and have reports written about them But at the end of the day when the reports are filed away most of the children go home to parents and carers This book is written with those parents and carers in mind Families in this situation face many issues that are way beyond what other parents have to deal with A Continent Moving West? Richard Black, Godfried Engbersen, Marek Okólski, 2010 Dit boek beschrijft de toename van migratie uit Oost Europese landen in de periode van 2004-2007 na toetreding tot de EU Het bevat nieuwe empirische casestudies van migratiepatronen zowel gebaseerd op veldwerk als op de analyse van bestaande statistieken The Personnel Administrator, 1984 Moving Beyond Individualism in Pastoral Care and Counseling Barbara J McClure, 2011-10-27 Despite astute critiques and available resources for alternative modes of thinking and practicing individualism continues to be a dominating and constraining ideology in the field of pastoral psychotherapy and counseling Philip Rieff was one of the first to highlight the negative implications of individualism in psychotherapeutic theories and practices As heirs and often enthusiasts of the Freudian tradition of which Rieff and others are critical pastoral theologians have felt the sting of his charge and yet the empirical research that McClure presents shows that pastoral counseling practitioners resist change Their attempts to overcome an individualistic perspective have been limited and ineffective because individualism is embedded in the field's dominant theological and theoretical resources practices and organizational arrangements Only a radical reappraisal of these will make possible pastoral counseling practices in a post individualistic mode McClure proposes several critical transformations broadening and deepening the operative theologies used to guide the healing practice expanding the role of the pastoral counselor reimagining the operative anthropology reclaiming sin and judgment nuancing the particular against the individual rethinking the ideal outcome of the practices and reimagining the organizational structures that support the practices Only this level of revisioning will enable this ministry of the church to move beyond its individualistic limitations and offer healing in more complex effective and socially adequate ways
