Family Letter - Parent Correspondence

Invite families to share pictures about their jobs for show and tell.

Hello Kindergarten Families,

We'd love for each student to share about one of their parent/caregiver's jobs as part of learning about the community in which we live and the different roles community members have. Could you please send us a picture of one of you or your parent or sibling in your work clothes, or with your work tools/items, so that your child can share about what you do? (e.g., a teacher holding a book or holding a stethoscope, a police officer in uniform, or an IT specialist with their computer)

It would be great if you could send the photos through email (there we can show it on the website to your other classes, but if it is easier for you to send a printed photo that is also fine). We know not everyone may want to or even take a photo with someone at work, so even just a photo of you with something you use for work is fine. Just let your child know you're glad for your occupation. We will read stories of the pictures to help us understand what types of occupations you have. Please talk with your child about things they might want to tell us about your job. Please let us know what your job is so sometimes students might need help with explaining it.

Thank you so much for your help with this. We're sure the students will be excited to get to share on their special day.

Thank you!

Family Letters Parents And Children:

Family Letters Jan Fielden, 1995-03-01 A collection of letters between well known parents and children through the centuries The Transnational History of a Chinese Family Haiming Liu, 2005 Family and home are one word jia in the Chinese language Family can be separated and home may be relocated but jia remains intact It signifies a system of mutual obligation lasting responsibility and cultural values This strong yet flexible sense of kinship has enabled many Chinese immigrant families to endure long physical separation and accommodate continuities and discontinuities in the process of social mobility Based on an analysis of over three thousand family letters and other primary sources including recently released immigration files from the National Archives and Records Administration Haiming Liu presents a remarkable transnational history of a Chinese family from the late nineteenth century to the 1970s For three generations the family lived between the two worlds While the immigrant generation worked hard in an herbalist business and asparagus farming the younger generation crossed back and forth between China and America pursuing proper education good careers and a meaningful life during a difficult period of time for Chinese Americans When social instability in China and hostile racial environment in America prevented the family from being rooted in either side of the Pacific transnational family life became a focal point of their social existence This well documented and illustrated family history makes it clear that for many Chinese immigrant families migration does not mean a break from the past but the beginning of a new life that incorporates and transcends dual national boundaries It convincingly shows how transnationalism has become a way of life for Chinese American families The Medicine Wheel for Step Parents Mary Jane Grange, 2008 Secrets isolation manipulation and stonewalling occur in blended families This book describes the stages of blending families the players the problems and some solutions for all members of blended families Parents and Children Communicating with Society Thomas J. Parenting in England 1760-1830 Joanne Bailey,2012-04-05 Parenting in England is the first study of the world of parenting in late Georgian England The author Joanne Bailey traces ideas about parenthood in a Christian society that was responding to new cultural trends of sensibility romanticism and domesticity along with Enlightenment ideas about childhood and self All these shaped how people from the poor to the genteel thought about themselves as parents and remembered their own parents With meticulous attention to detail Bailey illuminates the range of intense emotions provoked by parenthood by investigating a rich array of sources from memoirs and correspondence to advice literature fiction and court records to prints engravings and ballads Parenting was also a profoundly embodied experience and the book captures the effort labour and hard work it entailed Such parental investment meant that the experience was fundamental to the forging of national familial and personal identities It also needed more than two parents and this book uncovers the hitherto hidden world of shared parenting At all levels of society household and kinship ties were drawn upon to lighten the labours of parenting By revealing these emotional and material parental worlds what emerges is the centrality of parenthood to mental and physical well being reputation public and personal identities and to transmitting prized values across generations Yet being a parent was a contingent experience adapting from hour to hour year to year and child to child It was at once precarious as children and parents succumbed to fatal diseases and accidents yet it was also enduring because parent child relationships were not ended by death lost children and parents lived on in memory
