Fass,Michael Grossberg,2011-11-29 In the Western world the modern view of childhood as a space protected from broader adult society first became a dominant social vision during the nineteenth century Many of the West s sharpest portrayals of children in literature and the arts emerged at that time in both Europe and the United States and continue to organize our perceptions and sensibilities to this day But that childhood is now being recreated Many social and political developments since the end of the World War II have fundamentally altered the lives children lead and are now beginning to transform conceptions of childhood Reinventing Childhood After World War II brings together seven prominent historians of modern childhood to identify precisely what has changed in children s lives and why Topics range from youth culture to children s rights from changing definitions of age to nontraditional families from parenting styles to how American experiences compare with those of the rest of the Western world Taken together the essays argue that children s experiences have changed in such dramatic and important ways since 1945 that parents other adults and girls and boys themselves have had to reinvent almost every aspect of childhood Reinventing Childhood After World War II presents a striking interpretation of the nature and status of childhood that will be essential to students and scholars of childhood as well as policy makers educators parents and all those concerned with the lives of children in the world today

Gender and Family Networks in Early Modern Italy Megan Moran,2025-10-01 Women from the Ricasoli and Spinelli families formed a wide variety of social networks within and beyond Florence through their letters as they negotiated interpersonal relationships and lineage concerns to actively contribute to their families in early modern Italy Women were located at the center of social networks through their work in bridging their natal and marital families cultivating commercial contacts negotiating family obligations and the demands of religious institutions facilitating introductions for family and friends and forming political patronage ties This book argues that a network model offers a framework of analysis in which to deconstruct patriarchy as a single system of institutionalized dominance in early modern Italy Networks account for female agency as an interactive force that shaped the kinships ties affective relationships material connections and political positions of these elite families as women constructed their own narratives and negotiated their own positions in family life
