Family Voices A Montreal Story:

Family Voices Rita J. Beron, 2004-01-25 There is no available information at this time      Changing Women, Changing History Diana Lynn Pedersen, 1996 Changing Women Changing History is a bibliographic guide to the scholarship both English and French on Canadian s women s history Organized under broad subject headings and accompanied by author and subject indices it is accessible and comprehensive      The Voice of the Past Paul Thompson, Joanna Bornat, 2017 Oral history gives history back to the people in their own words And in giving a past it also helps them towards a future of their own making Oral history and life stories help to create a truer picture of the past and the changing present documenting the lives and feelings of all kinds of people many otherwise hidden from history It explores personal and family relationships and uncovers the secret cultures of work It connects public and private experience and it highlights the experiences of migrating between cultures At the same time it can bring courage to the old meaning to communities and contact between generations Sometimes it can offer a path for healing divided communities and those with traumatic memories Without it the history and sociology of our time would be poor and narrow In this fourth edition of his pioneering work fully revised with Joanna Bornat Paul Thompson challenges the accepted myths of historical scholarship He discusses the reliability of oral evidence in comparison with other sources and considers the social context of its development He looks at the relationship between memory the self and identity He traces oral history through its own past and weighs up the recent achievements of a movement which has become international with notably strong developments in North America Europe Australia Latin America South Africa and the Far East despite resistance from more conservative academics This new edition combines the classic text of The Voice of the Past with many new sections including especially the worldwide development of different forms of oral history and the parallel memory boom as well as discussions of theory in oral history and of memory trauma and reconciliation It offers a deep social and historical interpretation along with succinct practical advice on designing and carrying out a project The Voice of the Past remains an invaluable tool for anyone setting out to use oral history and life stories to construct a more authentic and balanced record of the past and the present      Film and the City George Melnyk, 2014-05-01 Most Canadians are city dwellers a fact often unacknowledged by twentieth century Canadian films with their preference for themes of wilderness survival or rural life Modernist Canadian films tend to support what film scholar Jim Leach calls the nationalist realist project a documentary style that emphasizes the exoticism and mythos of the land Over the past several decades however the hegemony of Anglo centrism has been challenged by francophone and First Nations perspectives and the character of cities altered by a continued influx of immigrants and the development of cities as economic and technological centers No longer primarily defined through the lens of rural nostalgia Canadian urban identity is instead polyphonic diverse constructed through multiple discourses and mediums an exchange rather than a strict orientation Taking on the urban as setting and subject filmmakers are ideally poised to create and reflect multiple versions of a single city Examining fourteen Canadian films produced from 1989 to 2007 including Denys Arcand's Jus de Montréal 1989 Jean Claude Lauzon's Lolo 1992 Mina Shum's Double Happiness 1994 Clement Virgo's Rude 1995 and Guy Maddin's My Winnipeg 2007 Film and the City is the first comprehensive study of Canadian film and urbanity the totality of urban culture and life Drawing on film and urban studies and building upon issues of identity formation in Canadian studies Melnyk considers how filmmakers films and urban audiences experience represent and interpret urban spatiality visuality and orality In this way Film and the City argues that Canadian narrative film of the postmodern period has aided in articulating a new national identity

The Found Voice Denis Sampson, 2016-05-12 The Found Voice Writers Beginnings uses the means of literary biography and criticism to do something rarely attempted to understand how a key creative period establishes the authoritative voice of a unique artist The essays which explore this hidden process of the writer writing focus on some of the major writers of recent times V S Naipaul J M Coetzee Alice Munro William Trevor and Mavis Gallant The focus of investigation is a single work by each author and many of them identify the book in which this turning point was reached The writers have a somewhat different sense of what the voice is a true voice the voice in the mind the writing voice etc yet all of them accept the phrase finding a voice as a decisive and necessary process towards a unique style and vision their raison d'être as artists These essays allow each one to define his or her sense of the process of writing and their style is exploratory Nevertheless certain patterns emerge of migration and cultural displacement of linguistic self consciousness of memory and a reimagining of the first home of absorbing and rejecting mentors and models Crucially the essays rely not just on what led up to the moment of creation but on a sense of the career that emerged from it Most of the writers have written retrospectively in memoirs interviews or essays about the pivotal work and its foundational significance They are the best witnesses to the process although their silence or their commentary is understood in terms of the many strands of the narrative that each essay presents
