A Schoolmaster's War Jonathan Rée, 2020-03-03 The wartime adventures of the legendary SOE agent Harry Rée told in his own words A school teacher at the start of the war Harry Rée renounced his former pacifism with the fall of France in 1940 He was deployed into a secret branch of the British army and parachuted into central France in April 1943 Harry showed a particular talent for winning the confidence of local resisters and guided them in a series of dramatic sabotage operations before getting into a hand to hand fight with an armed German officer from which he was lucky to escape This might seem like a romantic story of heroism and derring do but Harry Rée's own war writings superbly edited and contextualized by his son the philosopher Jonathan Rée are far more nuanced shot through with doubts regrets and grief

Ann Arbor in the 19th Century Grace Shackman, 2001 Ann Arbor has never been a typical college town typical industrial town or typical agricultural center The city was founded in 1824 by John Allen and Elisha Rumsey Settlers from the Eastern U S of British origin were soon followed by Germans who brought with them many practical skills With the opening of the University of Michigan campus in 1841 still more people came from across the country to teach and learn Ann Arbor in the 19th Century A Photographic History details the growth of the city when residents built houses and businesses organized a government and established churches schools a university and newspapers in over 190 photographs Early residents would recognize the photograph of Okemos nephew of Pontiac Chief of the Ottawa who made regular visits to Ann Arbor before the Native Americans were banished to Kansas by the federal government

Another fascinating photo shows Henry Otto's Band whose family was responsible for much of the music at official events. However, much of 19th century Ann Arbor would still be recognizable to today's residents.

Maxine Peake Cyclist Beryl Burton dominated her sport much as her male contemporary Eddy Merckx with a longevity that surpasses sporting legends like Muhammad Ali and Serena Williams. Practically invincible in time trials, Burton also known as BB finished as Best All Rounder for 25 years and broke the record for the 12 hour endurance race, an achievement unrivalled to this day. She won multiple world titles but her achievements were limited by discrimination from the cycling authorities. Yet she carried on winning, beating men and infamously competing against her own daughter whilst working full time on a Yorkshire farm and running a household. With previously unseen material and through extensive interviews with family, friends, rivals and fellow sporting giants, Jeremy Wilson peels back the layers to reveal one of the most overlooked yet compelling characters in cycling history.

Heritage US Coin Auction Final Session #1108 , Searching for Mary Schäffer Colleen Skidmore, 2017-10-13 Mary Schäffer was a photographer, writer, botanical painter and mapmaker from Philadelphia, well known for her travels in the Canadian Rockies and Japan at the turn of the twentieth century. In Searching for Mary Schäffer, Colleen Skidmore takes up Schäffer's own resonant themes: women and wilderness, travel and science, to ask new questions, tell new stories and reassess the persona of Mary Schäffer imagined in more recent times. Public and private archival collections in the United States and Canada set the stage for this engrossing exploration of Schäffer's creative, collaborative and competitive enterprise amid the cultural complexities of Philadelphia's science and photography communities and the scientific tourist and Indigenous societies of the Rocky Mountains of Canada. In this impressive book, Colleen Skidmore uses her considerable skills as a social historian of photography to shed new light on the remarkable life of Mary Schäffer. She knows the stories, the characters and presents a social history that is fresh and convincing. Skidmore's conclusion is brilliant and will certainly serve as a catalyst for further research and study of Mary Schäffer. Donna Livingstone, President and CEO, Glenbow Museum.

Elusive Dreams Ronnie Miller, 2023-08-11 In the 1920s, faced with the dire consequences of the Bolshevik takeover of their country, many Georgian Jews made the life-altering decision to leave their homeland looking for a safe place to live and raise a family. This is a story of Jewish emigration from Georgia to Palestine. How did this flight take place? What conditions did they face in Palestine? Why were so many visa petitioners left behind in Georgia until the 1970s? The book Elusive Dreams: Letters to Zion will answer these questions by investigating powerful personal letters that were only recently found. These missives allow us a glimpse into their lives to better understand the Georgian Jewish immigration to Palestine prior to the establishment of the State of Israel. This is also the tale of a Georgian Zionist.

leader Nathan Eliashvilli who was inspired by the Zionist dream of becoming a free and sovereign people in an ancient homeland He was simultaneously misled by the Zionist propaganda machine and led unprepared members of his community to settle in the appallingly harsh conditions of Palestine in the 1920s The challenges and disappointments this group faced while pursuing the vision of a better life are starkly revealed throughout this book through an in depth analysis of documents that are only now being shared with the public The anguish of the persecuted Jews left behind and the terrible dilemma to encourage further immigration or not is concurrently studied through the examination of potent communications between Eliashvilli and Jewish friends and family languishing in Georgia and seeking escape from their unrelenting hardships

Dangerous Guests Ken Miller, 2014-09-19 In Dangerous Guests Ken Miller reveals how wartime pressures nurtured a budding patriotism in the ethnically diverse revolutionary community of Lancaster Pennsylvania During the War for Independence American revolutionaries held more than thirteen thousand prisoners both British regulars and their so called Hessian auxiliaries in makeshift detention camps far from the fighting As the Americans principal site for incarcerating enemy prisoners of war Lancaster stood at the nexus of two vastly different revolutionary worlds one national the other intensely local Captives came under the control of local officials loosely supervised by state and national authorities Concentrating the prisoners in the heart of their communities brought the revolutionaries enemies to their doorstep with residents now facing a daily war at home Many prisoners openly defied their hosts fleeing plotting and rebelling often with the clandestine support of local loyalists By early 1779 General George Washington furious over the captives ongoing attempts to subvert the American war effort branded them dangerous guests in the bowels of our Country The challenge of creating an autonomous national identity in the newly emerging United States was nowhere more evident than in Lancaster where the establishment of a detention camp served as a flashpoint for new conflict in a community already unsettled by stark ethnic linguistic and religious differences Many Lancaster residents soon sympathized with the Hessians detained in their town while the loyalist population considered the British detainees to be the true patriots of the war Miller demonstrates that in Lancaster the notably local character of the war reinforced not only preoccupations with internal security but also novel commitments to cause and country
