Schools in Crisis Carl Sommer, 1984 The national educational crisis can be solved by practical yet inexpensive methods according to Carl Sommer Shortly after becoming a high school teacher he found serious limitations with the education his students received He probed into the reasons why some schools were successful even among traditionally low achieving children while so many others failed to provide students with a proper education He interviewed parents students teachers assistant principals and principals For 10 years he researched to find solutions for the problems facing American education One basic reason for the massive educational decline Sommer believes is that many administrators have embraced progressive policies such as not encouraging reasonable educational standards for both students and teachers lack of concern over students deficiency in the basics and permitting unqualified children to advance automatically from grade to grade

The Education Crisis Norman John Graves, 1988 Higher education's response to the Covid-19 pandemic Sjur Bergan, Tony Gallagher, Ronaldo Munck, Hilligje van't Land, 2021-02-15 A particularly timely book given the high proportion of international students and staff in higher education Public health was the immediate concern when the Covid 19 pandemic struck in Asia then in Europe and other parts of the world The response of our education systems is no less vital Higher education has played a major role in responding to the pandemic and it must help shape a better more equitable and just post Covid 19 world This book explores the various responses of higher education to the pandemic across Europe and North America with contributions also from Africa Asia and South America The contributors write from the perspective of higher education leaders with institutional responsibility as well as from that of public authorities or specialists in specific aspects of higher education policy and practice Some contributions analyse how specific higher education institutions reacted while others reflect on the impact of Covid 19 on key issues such as internationalisation finance academic freedom and institutional autonomy inclusion and equality and public responsibility The book describes the various ways in which higher education is facing the Covid 19 pandemic It is designed to help universities specifically their staff and students as well as their partners contribute to a more sustainable and democratic future The Solution to America's Education Crisis Justin Crosby, 2020-08-11 In The Solution to America's Education Crisis Service Learning student and service learning entrepreneur Justin Crosby details his experiences with service Through reflections on his own journey he details the merits of the incorporation of service into our education system Service learning has the potential to significantly improve the education system and tap into the unlimited potentials of youth he argues because it can teach students lessons and skills that cannot be learned through the traditional classroom environment In turn these students will be better suited to positively impact their communities and lead successful lives Education is like putting together a puzzle Right now our high school graduates are leaving with missing pieces We have the opportunity not just to complete the puzzle but to reimagine it Academics professional world experience and civic engagement are three pillars of education in our society but unfortunately most graduates leave high school with only one academics We need to stop leaving entire communities and generations behind and it is essential that we start realizing what can and will happen once our youth partake in meaningful service experiences We can have a forward thinking society rooted in hope defined by empathy and full of good citizens Service learning allows students to gain qualities such as compassion confidence and resilience It enables them to obtain certain skill sets that are not directly taught in schools like how to communicate one's vision or build community Service learning prompts students to become more aware of societal issues especially those that they have not faced themselves and sparks discussions on the roots of inequity and how to end them We get lost in tradition in the curriculum and start coming up with every reason possible as to why we should not change In doing so we forget why we should We have the opportunity to significantly improve and strengthen our country and world as we know it Let's do it Education for All in Times of Crisis Marilyn Leask, Sarah Younie, 2021 This book is a response to the loss of learning experienced by children and young people during the Covid 19 crisis It examines the measures which were taken to fix the disruption of education and their limitations particularly in reaching marginalised groups Drawing on data and experiences from around the world the book examines education systems as ecosystems with interdependencies between many different components which need to be considered when change is contemplated Chapters explore the challenges involved ensuring continuity of education for all learners in times of crisis and disruption and set out practical solutions that are relevant when preparing for natural disasters and disasters caused by humans as well as for climate change challenges and future pandemics The focus throughout is on building the sustainability of learners education into education systems to ensure educational continuity for all learners in times of disruption and crisis Including tools for planning prompts for reflection and future possibilities to consider Education for All in Times of Crisis will be valuable reading for school leaders educators and policy makers Challenges and Issues facing
