Elections and Distributive Politics in Mubarak's Egypt Lisa Blaydes, 2010-11-22 Despite its authoritarian political structure Egypt's government has held competitive multi party parliamentary elections for more than 30 years This book argues that rather than undermining the durability of the Mubarak regime competitive parliamentary elections ease important forms of distributional conflict particularly conflict over access to spoils In a comprehensive examination of the distributive consequences of authoritarian elections in Egypt Lisa Blaydes examines the triadic relationship between Egypt's ruling regime the rent seeking elite that supports the regime and the ordinary citizens who participate in these elections She describes why parliamentary candidates finance campaigns to win seats in a legislature that lacks policymaking power as well as why citizens engage in the costly act of voting in such a context

Pacted Democracy in the Middle East Hicham Alaoui, 2022-05-17 This book provides a new theory for how democracy can materialize in the Middle East and the broader Muslim world It shows that one pathway to democratization lays not in resolving important but often irreconcilable debates about the role of religion in politics Rather it requires that Islamists and their secular opponents focus on the concerns of pragmatic survival that is compromise through pacting rather than battling through difficult philosophical issues about faith This is the only book length treatment of this topic and one that aims to redefine the boundaries of an urgent problem that continues to haunt struggles for democracy in the aftermath of the Arab Spring

Electoral Politics in the Middle East Jacob M. Landau, Ergun Özbudun, Frank Tachau, 2015-07-24 Comparative political study of the Middle East got off to a late start Unlike any previous studies in comparative politics this book first published in 1980 represents an important methodological advance in that it proceeds by themes rather than by countries and uniquely focuses on three major aspects of electoral politics in three contemporary Middle Eastern states The three countries Turkey Lebanon and Israel are chosen because they are the only Middle Eastern countries with a tradition of free elections On the other hand they also display certain characteristics found in other non competitive Middle Eastern political systems such as the role and prominence of religion The study is based on extensive original research and presents the first comparative treatment of electoral issues voting behaviour and parliamentary elites emphasising the context of rapid socio economic change a theme particularly pertinent to those countries with their tradition of free elections The variety of political behaviour within the countries concerned coupled with the prevailing complexities resulting from disparities in language and cultural inheritance makes the comparative approach particularly revealing The attitudes and behaviour of the voters can be seen to be at least as important as the laws and mechanisms involved
