sound overview of the critical issues of gender in lifelong learning Asking pertinent questions relating to discourses on policy the authors offer the reader a rare view of lifelong learning from a gender focused perspective filling a gap in the literature and moving current debate on into new areas Questions addressed include To what extent can the policy discourses and institutional contexts of lifelong learning be seen as masculinised and or feminised What are the gender implications of lifelong learning policy In what ways are learners identities constructed through lifelong learning Does lifelong learning provide opportunities to challenge or transgress gender binaries What are the implications for practice supply, skill demand and skill match-mismatch Richard Desjardins, 2014-03-28 This book is a collection of three independent but closely related studies The focus is on the potential causes of skill mismatch the extent of skill mismatch the socio demographic make up of skill mismatch and the consequences of skill mismatch in terms of earnings as well as employer sponsored adult education training A distinction is made between skill mismatch and education mismatch All three studies use data from the Adult Literacy and Lifeskills Survey ALLS to investigate the relationships between select outcomes and skill supply demand characteristics as well as their interactions which materialize into skill match mismatch situations The dataset contains direct measures of literacy skills as well as measures of the use of these skills at work which allow for a direct measure of literacy match mismatch The analysis points to the complex ways in which mismatch is generated and the need for an accurate and up to date measure of mismatch one that reflects the possibilities for skill gain and skill loss over the lifespan and reflects differences in the quality of qualifications It also emphasizes that addressing mismatch requires a careful consideration of both the demand and supply sides of the labour market so as to understand better the variety of factors which may have a negative impact on the effectiveness of skill formation skill maintenance and also skill use Among the key findings Skill demand characteristics appear to be as important as skill supply characteristics in explaining observed variation in earnings There is a substantive association between the requirement to read at work and earnings which is independent of whether individuals have high or low levels of literacy proficiency Premiums associated with literacy skills are strongest in occupation types where they are most relevant but premiums associated with the requirement to use those skills are nevertheless found to be strong within all occupational groups. The requirement to read at work seems to have a strong association with the incidence of participation in employer supported adult education training This has important implications for understanding better the relationship between how work is organized and the decision to further invest in Babies and Bosses - Reconciling Work and Family Life (Volume 4) Canada, Finland, Sweden and human capital the United Kingdom OECD, 2005-05-27 This study part of a series on OECD countries considers how a tax benefit and childcare policies and workplace practices help determine parental labour market outcomes and may impinge on family formation in Canada Finland Sweden and the UK What does Good Education Research Look Like? Lyn Yates, 2004-03-16 a powerful well informed argument for the importance of pluralism This book will tell young researchers what they need to know about doing educational research it will encourage experienced researchers to see their own practice in context It is a profound book that everyone should read Professor Jane Gaskell Dean OISE University of Toronto This brilliant guide to judging educational research examines the most basic questions about research practice that most people think are settled and reveals them as problematic Humorous sharp and thoughtful this readable inquisition explores from differing perspectives what does good education research look like in multiple forms including dissertations journal articles and grant proposals Sari Knopp Biklen Laura and Douglas Meredith Professor Syracuse University USA This book explains and critically examines some key debates about the quality and value of education research and shows how it must meet different demands in different places times and conditions A major part of the book provides detailed analyses and guidance to different areas in which education research is judged from academic theses to the press from highest level competition for prestigious grants to collaborative work with practitioners Lyn Yates asks probing questions in six education research arenas the thesis the research grant application the journal article the consultancy application book publishing and the press Who are the judges here What expectations and networks do they bring to the task What are the explicit and implicit criteria for good research in that area What are the common failings What does good research look like The book is an indispensable companion to existing textbooks on research methodology.
