Elderly People And The Environment:

Elderly People and the Environment Irwin Altman, M. Powell Lawton, Joachim F. Wohlwill, 2013-06-29 The present volume in our series follows the format of the immediately preceding ones in dealing with a topical theme of considerable importance in the environment and behavior field. In view of current and projected demographic trends it is a certainty that a broad ranging set of issues concerned with the elderly and the physical environment will continue to be of focal pertinence if not of increasing importance in the remaining decades of this century. The present volume also follows in the tradition of earlier volumes in the series in being eclectic with respect to content, theory and methodology and in including contributions from a variety of disciplines such as anthropology, economics, psychology, geography and urban and regional planning. To have encompassed the whole array of disciplines and topics in this emerging field in a single volume would have been impossible. We trust that the sample of contributions that we have selected is provocative and that it will illustrate the range of problems and topics and point to promising areas of study and analysis. We are pleased to have M. Powell Lawton as a guest co-editor for this volume. His broad ranging expertise, perceptive judgment and fine editorial talents have contributed enormously to the volume.

Human Behavior and Environment: Elderly people and the environment Irwin Altman, 1976 Human Stress and the Environment Allen H. Rose, 1994-09-23 This compilation of papers represents a comprehensive study by scientists and professionals of the effects of stress on health and possible remedies to the problems arising from stress. The sources of stress considered here include work, transport, waste and general environmental factors. Mental and physical health aspects are considered in detail in addition to the effects of stress on ageing and well-being. The study of stress in animals which may well tell us more about stress in humans is also discussed here. In view of the fact that stress in modern life is one of the major factors affecting human health the volume represents a timely and valuable contribution to the current debate on community health.

The Many Faces of Health, Competence and Well-Being in Old Age Hans-Werner Wahl, Herrmann Brenner, Heidrun Mollenkopf, Dietrich Rothenbacher, Christoph Rott, 2006-01-09 The main aim of the book is to provide an interdisciplinary treatment of a set of key issues of current ageing research, i.e. health, competence and well-being. These key issues are addressed based on three converging research streams: social ecological research which assumes that major processes and outcomes of ageing such as day to day competence are shaped by social and physical spatial environments; geropsychology research which is driven by a life span developmental conception of ageing; and epidemiology which offers most fundamental disease function and prevention related data. Each of the three major research directions are outlined by a short introduction followed by three chapters treating in an empirical manner most recent key research questions. All chapters are then also discussed by renowned ageing experts. This volume links ageing research with policy considerations and implications and establishes a link between European research and the knowledge base of the international scientific community concerned with ageing. This book will be of great interest to scholars and graduate students in ageing research in the social and behavioural field as well as in epidemiology geriatrics geropsychiatry demography and biogerontology

Housing for Older People in Singapore: An Annotated Bibliography Belinda Yuen, Emily Soh, 2016-09-12 This bibliography offers valuable annotated references on housing for older population for those interested in these initiatives and discussions It begins with an overview piece on the state of policy practice and research on housing for the older population in Singapore This is followed by an annotated bibliography featuring published and unpublished work spanning recent decades pertaining to housing for the older population with emphasis on Singapore It encompasses theoretical and empirical research reported in journal articles and book chapters as well as grey literature like dissertations and theses conference proceedings working papers and newspaper articles The bibliography also contains additional citations covering global studies in particular in Asia North America and UK It is hoped that this bibliographic material will serve as a useful starting reference point for discussions on housing of older people in Singapore and also for key developments in other parts of the world The goal is to encourage additional scholarship

Handbook of Environmental Psychology and Quality of Life Research Ghazlane Fleury-Bahi, Enric Pol, Oscar Navarro, 2016-08-12 This Handbook presents a broad overview of the current research carried out in environmental psychology which puts into perspective quality of life and relationships with living spaces and shows how this original analytical framework can be used to understand different environmental and societal issues Adopting an original approach this Handbook focuses on the links with other specialties in psychology especially social and health psychology together with other disciplines such as geography architecture sociology anthropology urbanism and engineering Faced with the problems of society which involve the quality of life of individuals and communities it is fundamental to consider the relationships an individual has with his different living spaces This issue of the links between quality of life and environment is becoming increasingly significant with at a local level problems resulting from different types of annoyances such as pollution and noise while at a global level there is the central question of climate change with its harmful consequences for humans and the planet How can the impact on well being of environmental nuisances and threats for example natural risks pollution and noise be reduced How can the quality of life within daily living spaces home cities work environments be improved Why is it important to understand the psychological issues of our relationship with the global environment climatic warming ecological behaviours This Handbook is intended not only for students of various disciplines geography architecture psychology town planning etc but also for social decision makers and players who will find in it both theoretical and methodological perspectives so that psychological and environmental dimensions can be better taken into account in their working practices

Environmental Gerontology Rick Scheidt, Benjamin Schwarz, 2013-09-13

Environmental gerontology the research on aging and environment evolved during the late 1960s when the domain became a relevant topic due to societal concerns with the problems of housing for elderly people The field proliferated during the 1970s and 1980s and remains viable and active today on an international scale. However, in recent times the viability of the field and its future has been brought into question. In this volume, international experts across diverse areas reflect on the current progress of their respective disciplines, illustrating research grounded benefits emerging from their work and suggesting new agenda that can guide progress in the future. The contributors address a wide range of issues including evaluation of existing paradigms and new theories that might advance both research and training issues and applications in methods, measures, and empirically generated research agenda, innovative approaches to environmental transformations in home, community, and long-term care settings, and understudied populations and issues in environmental gerontology. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Housing for the Elderly. Environment, Cognition, and Action Tommy Garling, Gary W. Evans, 1992-01-16. How do human beings comprehend, evaluate, and utilize the physical environments they inhabit? In this edited volume, a distinguished group of international contributors examines in detail the interconnections between what we know, about, feel, and hope to accomplish in real-world environments. Psychologists, planners, architects, and geographers discuss the state of knowledge in environmental cognition, building, and landscape assessment, aesthetics, and decision making. Gaps in our thinking about environmental issues are also discussed. The authors present an analysis of how our knowledge can be utilized in the design and planning of settings better suited to human needs. Of interest to psychologists, geographers, and environmental designers, Environment, Cognition, and Action examines the dynamic interplay of assessment, knowledge, and action of people in all settings relevant to daily life: home, school, office, and industry. Human Rights and the Environment Sumudu Atapattu, Andrea Schapper, 2019-03-08. The field of human rights and the environment has grown phenomenally during the last few years, and this textbook will be one of the first to encourage students to think critically about how many environmental issues lead to a violation of existing rights. Taking a socio-legal approach, this book will provide a good understanding of both human rights and environmental issues, as well as the limitations of each regime, and will explore the ways in which human rights law and institutions can be used to obtain relief for the victims of environmental degradation or of adverse effects of environmental policies. In addition, it will place an emphasis on climate change and climate policies to highlight the pros and cons of using a human rights framework and to underscore its importance in the context of climate change. As well as identifying emerging issues and areas for further research, each chapter will be rich in pedagogical features, including web links to further research and discussion questions for beyond the classroom. Combining their specialisms in law and politics, Atapattu and Schapper have developed a truly interdisciplinary resource that will be essential for students of human rights, environmental studies, international law, international relations, politics, and philosophy. Handbook of the Psychology of Aging James E. Birren, K. Warner Schaie, 2001-08-02. The Handbook of the Psychology of Aging has become the definitive reference source for information on the psychology of adult development and aging. The Fifth Edition provides comprehensive reviews of research on biological and social influences on behavior and age related changes in psychological function In addition to covering environmental influences on behavior and aging and gender differences in aging new chapters in the Fifth Edition discuss wisdom creativity and technological change and the older worker This handbook is an essential reference for researchers in adult development and gerontology and suitable as an advanced textbook for courses on the psychology of aging

Environmental Gerontology in Europe and Latin America Diego Sánchez-González, Vicente Rodríguez-Rodríguez, 2015-11-03 This book looks at the relationships between the physical social environment and the elderly in Europe and Latin America from the Environmental Gerontology perspective and through geographical and psychosocial approaches It addresses the main environmental issues of population ageing based on an understanding of the complex relationships adjustments and adaptations between different environments home residence public spaces landscapes neighbourhoods urban and rural environment and the quality of life of the ageing population associated with residential strategies and other aspects related to health and dependency The different levels of socio spatial analysis are also explored macro urban and rural environments regions and landscapes meso neighbourhood public space and micro personal home and institution New theoretical and methodological approaches are proposed to analyse the attributes and functions of the physical social environment of the elderly as well as new ways of living the ageing process All will have to respond to the challenges of urbanisation globalisation and climate change in the 21st century Also the different experiences and challenges of public planning and management professionals involved with the growing ageing population are presented and will require greater association and collaboration with the academic and scientific fields of Environmental Gerontology

The Role of the Outdoors in Residential Environments for Aging Susan Rodiek, Benjamin Schwarz, 2006-09-11 The Role of the Outdoors in Residential Environments for Aging presents new insights on the positive role nature and the outdoors can play in the lives of older adults whether they live in the community in an assisted living environment or in a skilled nursing facility Current research suggests that increased contact and activity levels with the outdoors can be an important therapeutic resource for the elderly with significant mental and physical health benefits This unique book examines how to make the most of outdoor spaces in residential settings exploring attitudes and patterns of use the effect of plants the physical environment and health related outcomes from contact with nature and enhanced physical activity

SECTION I UNDERSTANDING QUALITY OF LIFE IN OLD AGE ALAN WALKER AND HEIDRUN MOLLENKOPF

1 INTERNATIONAL AND MULTIDISCIPLINARY PERSPECTIVES ON QUALITY OF LIFE IN OLD AGE

Conceptual issues Quality of life QoL is a multidimensional holistic construct assessed from many different perspectives and by many disciplines Moreover the concept of QoL can be applied to practically all important domains of life Thus QoL research has to include social environmental structural and health related aspects and be approached from an interdisciplinary perspective This holds even more when QoL in old age is the focus because ageing itself is a multidimensional process

Handbook of Japan-United States Environment-Behavior Research Jack Demick,T. Takahashi,Seymour Wapner,C. Takiji Yamamoto,2013-11-11 This volume is an outgrowth of research on the relations between human beings and their environments which has developed internationally This development is evident in environment behavior research studies conducted in countries other than the United States See Stokols and Altman 1987 for examples of such work in Australia Japan France Germany the Netherlands Sweden the United Kingdom the former Soviet Union and Latin and North America The international development of this research area is also evident in the establishment of professional organizations in different countries such as the Environment Behavior Design Research Association EDRA in the United States the Man Environment Research Association MERA in Japan the International Association for People Environment Studies IAPS in Great Britain and the People and Physical Environment Research Association PAPER in Australia This volume focuses on environment behavior research within Japan and the United States as well as cross cultural studies involving both countries As we note in detail in Chapter 1 the conference on which the work presented herein is based was preceded by three Japan United States conferences on environment behavior research the first of which took place in Tokyo in 1980 As currently conceived the present volume stands alone as a compendium of a significant proportion of cross cultural research on environment behavior relations in Japan and the United States that has been developing over the last 15 years As such we envision the volume as a basic interdisciplinary reference for anthropologists architects psychologists sociologists urban planners and environmental geographers

Handbook of Clinical Behavior Therapy with the Elderly Client

Patricia A. Wisocki,2013-11-21 Although we speak of the elderly as if there were one body of people with common characteristics older adults are more heterogeneous than any other population People over the age of 65 are also the fastest growing segment of the population in the United States currently numbering 25 million The majority of older adults reside in their communities a small fraction of them are cared for in institutions Most may expect to experience some kind of physical impairment Approximately a quarter of the population may expect to suffer mental health impairment While traditional therapies have not been especially effective for older adults behavior therapy has shown exceptional promise as a treatment modality This book presents a comprehensive explication of the relatively new field of behavioral gerontology It was written for the clinician interested in the interaction of medical environmental and psychological variables and their effects on treatment of elderly clients and for the researcher who will be looking to extend knowledge about interventions with this population It will be useful for the graduate student in clinical psychology as well as the experienced clinician who will want to include the elderly in his or her therapeutic population     Theoretical

Perspectives in Environment-Behavior Research Seymour Wapner, Jack Demick, C. Takiji Yamamoto, Hiroufmi

Minami, 2012-12-06 Following upon the Handbook of Japan United States Environment Behavior Research published by Plenum in 1997 leading experts review the interrelationships among theory problem and method in environment behavior research The chapters focus on the philosophical and theoretical assumptions underlying current research and practice in the area and link those assumptions to specific substantive questions and methodologies     Advances in Environment, Behavior and Design Erwin H. Zube, Gary T. Moore, 2013-11-11 This second volume in the Advances in Environment Behavior and Design series follows the pattern of Volume 1 It is organized into six sections user group research consisting of advances in theory place research sociobehavioral research research and design methods and research utilization The authors of the chapters in this volume represent a range of disciplines including architecture geography psychology social ecology and urban planning They also offer international perspectives Tommy Garling from Sweden Graeme Hardie from South Africa recently relocated to North Carolina Gerhard Kaminski from the Federal Republic of Germany and Roderick Lawrence from Switzerland formerly from Australia Although most chapters address topics or issues that are likely to be familiar to readers environmental perception and cognition facility programming and environmental evaluation four chapters address what the editors perceive to be new topics for environment behavior and design research Herbert Schroeder reports on advances in research on urban forestry For most of us the term forest probably conjures up visions of dense woodlands in rural or wild settings Nevertheless in many parts of the country urban areas have higher densities of tree coverage than can be found in surrounding rural landscapes Schroeder reviews research that addresses the perceived and actual benefits and costs associated with these urban forests
