Rebecca Beasley, 2020 Russomania is the first comprehensive account of the breadth and depth of the modernist fascination with Russian and early Soviet culture. It traces Russia's transformative effect on literary and intellectual life in Britain between 1881 and 1922 from the assassination of Alexander II to the formation of the Soviet Union. Studying canonical writers alongside a host of less well-known authors and translators, it provides an archive-rich study of institutions, disciplines and networks. Book jacket

The radical response to conservative heritage tours and banal day-tripper guides. Rebel Footprints brings to life the history of social movements in the capital. Self-directed walks pair with narratives that seamlessly blend history, politics and geography, and beautifully illustrated maps immerse the reader in the story of the city. Whether you are visiting it for the first time or born and raised in it, Rosenberg invites you to see London as you never have before: the nation's capital as its radical centre.

The International Faith Christine Collette, 2019-01-22. First published in 1998, illuminating the principles and practices which impelled British Labour's international attitudes, this book focuses on relationships between social democratic and communist organisations in the troubled scene of Europe between the wars. Peace and disarmament were the first priorities, giving way to the fight against fascism after 1933. The Spanish Civil War was the watershed when disarmament ceased to be a tenable option. Against this background, contacts made with the Labour and Socialist International and the International Federation of Trades Unions are considered, and the distinctive approaches of women and young people are discussed. The history of these formal organisations is balanced by an account of the wide-ranging contacts of the broad Labour Movement in fields such as sport, education, Esperanto, music and art. Its protagonists' belief in international socialism is seen to be a faith which survived.

fascism and war and continued to give hope for the future This book will be of interest to students of Labour history and politics as well as international and European studies 1888 Peter Stubley,2012-09-01 In 1888 Jack the Ripper made the headlines with a series of horrific murders that remain unsolved to this day But most killers are not shadowy figures stalking the streets with a lust for blood Many are ordinary citizens driven to the ultimate crime by circumstance a fit of anger or a desire for revenge Their crimes overshadowed by the few sensational cases are ignored forgotten or written off This book examines all the known murders in London in 1888 to build a picture of society Who were the victims How did they live and how did they die Why did a husband batter his wife to death after she failed to get him a cup of tea How many died under the wheels of a horse driven cab Just how dangerous was London in 1888 Memory, Place and Autobiography Jill Daniels,2019-01-03 There has been a significant growth in autobiographical documentary films in recent years This innovative book proposes that the filmmaker in her dual role as maker and subject may act as a cultural guide in an exploration of the social world It argues that in the cinematic mediation of memory the mimetic approach in the construction of documentary films may not be feasible and memory may instead be evoked elliptically through hybrid strategies such as critical realism and fictional enactment Recognizing that identity is formed by history and what goes on in the world the book charts the historical trajectory of the British independent filmmaking movement from the mid 1970s to the present growth of new online distribution outlets and new media through digital technologies and social media Retranslation Sharon Deane-Cox,2014-08-28 Retranslation is a phenomenon which gives rise to multiple translations of a particular work But theoretical engagement with the motivations and outcomes of retranslation often falls short of acknowledging the complex nature of this repetitive process and reasoning has so far been limited to considerations of progress updating and challenge there is even less in the way of empirical study This book seeks to redress the balance through its case studies on the initial translations and retranslations of Flaubert s Madame Bovary and Sand s pastoral tale La Mare au diable within the British literary context What emerges is a detailed exposition of how and why these works have been retold alongside a critical re evaluation of existing lines of enquiry into retranslation A flexible methodology for the study of retranslations is also proposed which draws on Systemic Functional Grammar narratology narrative theory and genetic criticism Imperialism, Labour and the New Woman Liz Stanley,2014-03-18 Olive Schreiner 1855 1920 was the best known feminist theorist and writer of her time Her writings spanned a number of conventionally separate genres including the novel short story allegory political essay polemic and theoretical treatise which she crafted to produce a highly distinctive feminist and analytical voice A feminist who was contemporaneously an internationally renowned social commentator Schreiner s developing political analysis was and still is highly original She developed a materially based socialist and feminist analysis of labour which led her to theorise social and economic change divisions of labour in society and between women and men capitalism and imperialism around innovative ideas about how and by whom economic and social value was produced She combined with this a keen attention to inter personal relations between women as literally or politically sisters between respectable and sexually outcast women between feminist women and the New Men and within the family Distinctively Schreiner s writings on economic and political life in South Africa criticised the policies and practice of Rhodes in the Cape Colony and British imperialism in southern Africa more widely She opposed the South African War of 1899 1902 promoted federation rather than union as the form the South African state should take and insisted on equal political rights for all Schreiner steadfastly opposed the development of apartheid segregationist policies and provided a radical analysis of the relationship between race and capital Imperialism Labour and the New Woman is based on primary archive research making particular use of Schreiner s unpublished letters and other major manuscript sources to provide a major reconceptualisation of the scope and importance of her writings and innovative and experimental ideas about genre and form It offers a major rethinking of Schreiner s political writings on South Africa and it emphasises the distinctiveness of Schreiner s contribution as the major feminist theorist of her age and that which followed The book will appeal particularly to readers interested in the development of social theory in influential feminist ideas and writing of the fin de siècle period in the contemporary critique of capitalism and imperialism and in the age of imperialism in Southern Africa as well as to Women s Studies scholars across the academic disciplines

Class, ethnicity and religion in the Bengali East End Sarah Glynn, 2016-05-16 This exploration of one of the most concentrated immigrant communities in Britain combines a fascinating narrative history an original theoretical analysis of the evolving relationship between progressive left politics and ethnic minorities and an incisive critique of political multiculturalism It recounts and analyses the experiences of many of those who took part in over six decades of political history that range over secular nationalism trade unionism black radicalism mainstream local politics Islamism and the rise and fall of the Respect Coalition Through this Bengali case study and examples from wider immigrant politics it traces the development and adoption of the concepts of popular frontism revolutionary stages theory and identity politics It demonstrates how these theories and tactics have cut across class based organisation and acted as an impediment to addressing socio economic inequality and it argues for a left materialist alternative It will appeal equally to sociologists political activists and local historians

Ethnicity, class and aspiration Tim Butler, Chris Hamnett, 2011-02-16 East London has undergone dramatic changes over the last 30 years primarily as a result of London s large scale de industrialisation and the rise in its financial sector Large parts of inner East London remain deprived but a once overwhelmingly white working class area is now home to a more complex and mobile class and ethnic mix This topical book focuses on the aspirations of these different groups and the strategies they have pursued about where to live driven in part by a concern to ensure a good education for their children The book will be essential reading for students and academics in sociology urban studies
