When Baby Boom Women Retire Nancy Dailey, 1998-02-18 Fewer than 20% of Baby Boom women will experience a secure retirement Marriage education occupation home ownership these variables predict their future Possession of all four indicates retirement security and absence of any increases risk of old age poverty This riveting sociological study also examines the social relations and structures that will determine the retirement experience options and decisions for more than 40 million Baby Boom women These women's material base and social status are examined through the use of empirical data and the key predictors of their retirement are identified The massive entry of Baby Boom women into the labor force increases the importance of retirement planning for working women It comes at a time when existing research models and data are outdated and inadequate to effectively predict their future retirement experience Over the past 30 years American men and their spouses have benefited from the linear undifferentiated model of the traditional male retirement For the Baby Boom generation however the nature of work has changed significantly The current retirement model may not serve Baby Boom men as well as in the past let alone Baby Boom women In contrast this book offers a new dynamic model that considers the social and work structures influencing women's lives and that accurately reflects the predictors and parameters of Baby Boom women's retirement Library Journal, 1990 Includes beginning Sept 15 1954 and on the 15th of each month Sept May a special section School library journal ISSN 0000 0035 called Junior libraries 1954 May 1961 Also issued separately Future Survey Annual, 1990

Mental Retardation in the Year 2000 Louis Rowitz, 2012-12-06 When you look at the advances in the field of mental retardation over the past 30 years it is hard to imagine that more change is inevitable Yet I think back to the time when early in his presidency President Kennedy called together the brightest scientists researchers doctors and educators to develop a comprehensive plan for the nation to effectively care for treat educate and house persons with mental retardation In the early 1960s the call for new research into the causes and the amelioration of mental retardation the development of community based programs and the development of family care for appropriate education vocational training and jobs were seen as revolutionary But in the 30 years since then we have seen time and time again that it is persons with mental retardation themselves who have led the way When the schools were opened to them they learned more than any one ever thought possible when vocational training was provided they learned skills that led to jobs when employment became available they proved to be good steady workers who earned money and paid taxes When the playing fields were made available to them through programs such as Special Olympics they showed the world they could train and compete and WIN in the sports of the Olympics When communities welcomed them they became our neighbors They have earned the right to play on any field to study in any school to hold a paying job and to be anyone s neighbor
