Life Forms in the Thinking of the Long Eighteenth Century Keith Baker, Jenna Gibbs, 2016-06-16 For many years scholars have been moving away from the idea of a singular secular rationalistic and mechanistic Enlightenment project Historian Peter Reill has been one of those at the forefront of this development demonstrating the need for a broader and more varied understanding of eighteenth century conceptions of nature Life Forms in the Thinking of the Long Eighteenth Century is a unique reappraisal of Enlightenment thought on nature biology and the organic world that responds to Reill's work The ten essays included in the collection analyse the place of historicism vitalism and esotericism in the eighteenth century three strands of thought rarely connected but all of which are central to Reill's innovative work Working across national and regional boundaries they engage not only French and English but also Italian Swiss and German writers

Scientific Instruments, 1500-1900 Gerard L'Estrange Turner, 1998 The impulse to collect is universal Collections containing natural curiosities date from the 16th century and it was this type of collection in which scientific instruments found a home This book traces the historical origins and development of instruments as they spread across the globe explaining their manufacture use and adaptations 91 color and 20 b w plates

The Cambridge History of Science: Volume 4, Eighteenth-Century Science David C. Lindberg, Roy Porter, Ronald L. Numbers, 2003-03-17 The fullest and most complete survey of the development of science in the eighteenth century

Instruments and the Imagination Thomas L. Hankins, Robert J. Silverman, 2014-07-14 Thomas Hankins and Robert Silverman investigate an array of instruments from the seventeenth through the nineteenth century that seem at first to be marginal to science magnetic clocks that were said to operate by the movements of sunflower seeds magic lanterns ocular harpsichords machines that played different colored lights in harmonious mixtures Aeolian harps a form of wind chime and other instruments of natural magic designed to produce wondrous effects By looking at these and the first recording instruments the stereoscope and speaking machines the authors show that scientific instruments first made their appearance as devices used to evoke wonder in the beholder as in works of magic and the theater The authors also demonstrate that these instruments even though they were often tricks were seen by their inventors as more than trickery In the view of Athanasius Kircher for instance the sunflower clock was not merely a hoax but an effort to demonstrate however fraudulently his truly held belief that the ability of a flower to follow the sun was due to the same cosmic magnetic influence as that which moved the planets and caused the rotation of the earth The marvels revealed in this work raise and answer questions about the connections between natural science and natural magic the meaning of demonstration the role of language and the senses in science and the connections among art music literature and natural science Originally published in 1995 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Arsenal of Eighteenth-Century Chemistry Marco Beretta, Paolo Brenni, 2022-06-08 The substantial collection of Antoine Laurent Lavoisier's apparatus is not the only surviving collection of eighteenth century chemical apparatus and instrumentation but it is without question the most important The present study provides the first scientific catalogue of Lavoisier's surviving apparatus This collection of instruments is remarkable not only for the quality of many of them but above all for the number of items that have survived ca 600 items Given such a wealth and variety of instruments this study also offers the first comprehensive attempt to reconstruct the cultural and social context of Lavoisier's experimental activities

The History of Cartography, Volume 4 Matthew H. Edney, Mary Sponberg Pedley, 2020-05-15 Since its launch in 1987 the History of Cartography series has garnered critical acclaim and sparked a new generation of interdisciplinary scholarship Cartography in the European Enlightenment the highly anticipated fourth volume offers a comprehensive overview of the cartographic practices of Europeans Russians and the Ottomans both at home and in overseas territories from 1650 to 1800 The social and intellectual changes that swept Enlightenment Europe also transformed many of its mapmaking practices A new emphasis on geometric principles gave rise to improved tools for measuring and mapping the world even as large scale cartographic projects became possible under the aegis of powerful states Yet older mapping practices persisted Enlightenment cartography encompassed a wide variety of processes for making circulating and using maps of different types The volume's more than four hundred encyclopedic articles explore the era's mapping covering topics both detailed such as geodetic surveying thematic mapping and map collecting and broad such as women and cartography cartography and the economy and the art and design of maps Copious bibliographical references and nearly one thousand full color illustrations complement the detailed entries
