Elon College Its History And Traditions:

Elon College, Its History and Traditions Durward T. Stokes, 1982 Rhetoric, Public Memory, and Campus History Rhondda Thomas, 2022-05-13 This essay collection explores the inextricable link between rhetoric public memory and campus history projects Since the early twentieth century after Brown University appointed its Steering Committee on Slavery and Justice higher education institutions around the globe have launched initiatives to research document and share their connections to slavery and its legacies Many of these explorations have led to investigations about the rhetorical nature of campus history projects including the names of buildings the installation of monuments the publication of books the production of resolutions and the hosting of public programs The essays in this collection examine the rhetorical nature of a range of initiatives including the creation of land acknowledgement statements the memorialization of universities historic financial ties to the slave trade the installation and removal of monuments or historical markers the development of curriculum for campus history projects The book takes a chronological approach beginning with the examination of a project at a university that was built on the site of a historic Native American town moving through a series of essays about initiatives that grew out of universities associations with slavery and its legacies in the United Kingdom and America and ending with a critique of several pedagogical approaches in campus history courses designed for undergraduate students

The Diary of Mary Elizabeth Auman, Seagrove, North Carolina, 1928-1930 Mary Elizabeth Auman, 2010 Mary Elizabeth Auman was a teenager living in the rural south during the waning years of the Jazz Age when electricity the radio talking movies and the 1928 Presidential election were the talk of her community After rescuing her diary from being discarded by his father in the late 1950s her nephew William Auman held on to the written memories for years until recently when as a tribute to her memory he decided to share both Mary s insight into the social and academic life she experienced as well as his own historical clarifications Through her journal entries Mary presents a portrait of life in a rural southern village describing many trips with friends to parties movies and fairs While providing vivid accounts of life in the dormitories at coed Elon College and social activities at parties ball games and other collegiate events she also details how she and her classmates rebelled against the taboos of dating dancing and smoking often finding themselves on probation or suspended from school as punishment The Diary of Mary Elizabeth Auman Seagrove North Carolina 1928 1930 Provides a fascinating glimpse into southern history and into the development of a rebellious attitude by young females against the gender conventions of the day in a rapidly changing world Sallie Stockard and the Adversities of an Educated Woman of the New South

Judging in the Islamic, Jewish and Zoroastrian Legal Traditions Janos Jany,2016-05-06 This book presents a comparative analysis of the judiciary in the Islamic Jewish and Zoroastrian legal systems It compares postulations of legal theory to legal practice in order to show that social practice can diverge significantly from religious and legal principles It thus provides a greater understanding of the real functions of religion in these legal systems regardless of the dogmatic positions of the religions themselves The judiciary is the focus of the study as it is the judge who is obliged to administer to legal texts while having to consider social realities being sometimes at variance with religious ethics and legal rules deriving from them This book fills a gap in the literature examining Islamic Jewish and Zoroastrian law and as such will open new possibilities for further studies in the field of comparative law It will be a valuable resource for those working in the areas of comparative law law and religion law and society and legal anthropology Representations of Pain in Art and Visual Culture Maria Pia Di Bella,James Elkins,2013-06-26 The presentation of bodies in pain has been a major concern in Western art since the time of the Greeks The Christian tradition is closely entwined with such themes from the central images of the Passion to the representations of bloody martyrdoms The remnants of this tradition are evident in contemporary images from Abu Ghraib In the last forty years the body in pain has also emerged as a recurring theme in performance art Recently authors such as Elaine Scarry Susan Sontag and Giorgio Agamben have written about these themes The scholars in this volume add to the discussion analyzing representations of pain in art and the media Their essays are firmly anchored on consideration of the images not on whatever actual pain the subjects suffered At issue is representation before and often apart from events in the world Part One concerns practices in which the appearance of pain is understood as expressive Topics discussed include the strange dynamics of faked pain and real pain contemporary performance art international photojournalism surrealism and Renaissance and Baroque art Part Two concerns representations that cannot be readily assigned to that genealogy the Chinese form of execution known as lingchi popularly the death of a thousand cuts whippings in the Belgian Congo American lynching photographs Boer War concentration camp photographs and recent American capital punishment These examples do not comprise a single alternate genealogy but are united by the absence of an intention to represent pain The book concludes with a roundtable discussion where the authors discuss the ethical implications of viewing such images The
