Elihu Yale:

Elihu Yale Benjamin Zucker, Diana Scarisbrick, 2014-06-17 Original research sheds light on the fascinating biography of one of Yale University's early supporters Elihu Yale's name is famous for the great educational institution Yale University of which he was an early benefactor He made his fortune in India mostly through trading in diamonds Arriving in Madras in 1672 through his outstanding abilities he rose through the hierarchy of the East India Company settlement from clerk to governor When he returned to London in 1699 he brought with him Indian gems furniture and textiles and proceeded to amass a collection of some ten thousand items dispersed at seven auction sales after his death in 1721 The catalogs of these sales survive providing information about the lively London art market Hitherto neglected by historians the Yale sales prove to be a landmark in the history both of collecting and of auctioning art in early 18th century England The authors explore Elihu Yale's life and interests and then turn to a study of Yale as a dealer particularly of gems and a collector of diamonds and jewelry works of art furniture books and other objects some of which are now at Yale University and some in national collections around Britain The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Volume 53, 1899 New England Historic Genealogical, 2015-11-25 The New England Historical and Genealogical Register Volume 53 1899 New England Historic Genealogical Society 1899 reprint index illus 522 pp Elihu Yale, the American Nabob of Queen Square Hiram Bingham, 1939 Cultures of United States Imperialism Amy Kaplan, Donald E. Pease, 1993 Cultures of United States Imperialism represents a major paradigm shift that will remap the field of American Studies Pointing to a glaring blind spot in the basic premises of the study of American culture leading critics and theorists in cultural studies history anthropology and literature reveal the denial of empire at the heart of American Studies Challenging traditional definitions and periodizations of imperialism this volume shows how international relations reciprocally shape a dominant imperial culture at home and how imperial relations are enacted and contested within the United States Drawing on a broad range of interpretive practices these essays range across American history from European representations of the New World to the mass media spectacle of the Persian Gulf War The volume breaks down the boundary between the study of foreign relations and American culture to examine imperialism as an internal process of cultural appropriation and as an external struggle over international power The contributors explore how the politics of continental and international expansion conquest and resistance have shaped the history of American culture just as much as the cultures of those it has dominated By uncovering the dialectical relationship between American cultures and international relations this collection demonstrates the necessity of analyzing imperialism as a political or economic process inseparable from the social relations and cultural representations of gender race ethnicity and class at home Contributors Lynda Boose Mary Yoko Brannen Bill Brown William Cain Eric Cheyfitz Vicente Diaz Frederick Errington Kevin Gaines Deborah Gewertz Donna Haraway Susan Jeffords Myra Jehlen Amy Kaplan Eric Lott Walter Benn Michaels Donald E Pease Vicente Rafael Michael Rogin Jos David Saldívar Richard Slotkin
