advocating for children 3 the organizational development of the UN Development Fund for Women and how it has come to securitize women and 4 the activity of the UN Peacebuilding Commission and its challenges in gendering its security approach The work will be of interest to students of critical security gender studies international organizations and international relations in general Natalie Florea Hudson received her PhD in Political Science from the University of Connecticut and is an Assistant Professor at the University of Dayton She specializes in gender and international relations human rights international security studies and international law and organization

The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements Daniel Beland, Christopher Howard, Kimberly J. Morgan, 2015-02-25 The American welfare state has long been a source of political contention and academic debate This Oxford Handbook pulls together much of our current knowledge about the origins development functions and challenges of American social policy After the Introduction the first substantive part of the handbook offers an historical overview of U S social policy from the colonial era to the present This is followed by a set of chapters on different theoretical perspectives available for understanding and explaining the development of U S social policy The three following parts of the volume focus on concrete social programs for the elderly the poor and near poor the disabled and workers and families Policy areas covered include health care pensions food assistance housing unemployment benefits disability benefits workers compensation family support and programs for soldiers and veterans The final part of the book focuses on some of the consequences of the U S welfare state for poverty inequality and citizenship Many of the chapters comprising this handbook emphasize the disjointed patterns of policy making inherent to U S policymaking and the public private mix of social provision in which the government helps certain groups of citizens directly e g social insurance or indirectly e g tax expenditures regulations The contributing authors are experts from political science sociology history economics and other social sciences

The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements Rawwida Baksh, Wendy Harcourt, 2015-03-25 The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements explores the historical political and economic context in which transnational feminist movements have emerged and spread and the contributions these movements have made to global knowledge policy and social change from the 1970s to the present As it includes contributions from scholars and practitioners from around the globe particularly from the Southern Hemisphere the chapters consider the interplay between the lived experience of transnational feminist movements and the way that women s rights and gender equality have been theorized in different locations and contexts

Agricultural Commercialization, Gender Equality and the Right to Food Joanna Bourke Martignoni, Christophe Gironde, Christophe Golay, Elisabeth Prügl, Dzodzi Tsikata, 2022-09-22 This volume explores agricultural commercialization from a gender equality and right to food perspective Agricultural commercialization involving not only the shift to selling crops and buying inputs but also the commodification of land and labour has always been controversial Strategies for commercialization have often reinforced and exacerbated inequalities been blind to gender differences and given rise to violations of the human rights to food land work and social security While there is a body of evidence to trace these developments globally impacts vary considerably in local contexts This book systematically considers these dynamics in two countries Cambodia and Ghana Profoundly different in terms of their history and location they provide the basis for fruitful comparisons because they both transitioned to democracy in the early 1990s made agricultural development a priority and adopted orthodox policies of commercialization to develop the sector Chapters illustrate how commercialization processes are gendered highlighting distinctive gender ethnic and class dynamics in rural Ghana and Cambodia and the different outcomes these generate They also show the ways in which food cultures are changing and the often problematic impact of these changes on the safety and quality of food Specific policies and legal norms are examined with chapters addressing the development and implementation of frameworks on the right to food and land administration Overall the volume brings into relief multiple dimensions shaping the outcomes of processes of commercialization including gender orders food cultures policy translation national and sub national policies corporate investments and programmes and formal and informal legal norms In doing so it offers insight not only on our case countries but also provides proposals to advance rights based research on food security This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of food security agricultural development and economics gender human rights and sustainable development

Diverting the Flow Margreet Zwarteveen, Sara Ahmed, Suman Rimal Gautam, 2014-03-11 Across the South Asian region water determines livelihoods and in some cases even survival However water also creates exclusions Access to water and its social organisation are intimately tied up with power relations This book provides an overview of gender equity and water issues relevant to South Asia The essays empirically illustrate and theoretically argue how gender intersects with other axes of social difference such as class caste ethnicity age and religion to shape water access use and management practices Divided into six thematic sections each of which starts with an introduction of relevant concepts debates and theories the book looks at laws and rights policies technologies and intervention strategies In all the book clearly shows how understanding and changing the use distribution and management of water is conditional upon understanding and accommodating gender relations Published by Zubaan
