Ethical Issues in the Care of the Dying and Bereaved Aged Morgan John, 2018-02-06 Our problems seemingly develop faster than our ability to cope with those problems. The blessing of longer life has brought with it a host of new issues faced by the elderly, their families, and their caregivers. Ethical Issues in the Care of the Dying and Bereaved Aged contains twenty-three essays by some of the most eminent thinkers in the field of death and bereavement, addressing some of these problems. Victor Marshall, Miriam and Sidney Moss, Colin M. Parkes, Dennis Klass, Margaret Somerville, and Elizabeth Latimer, as well as other clinicians, have written new material for this book.

Music Therapy in Palliative Care David Aldridge, 1999 Within the last decade, music therapists have developed their work with people who have life-threatening illnesses and with those who are dying. This book presents some of that work from music therapists working in different approaches in different countries, showing how valuable the inclusion of music therapy in palliative care has already proved to be. It is important for the dying or those with terminal illness that approaches are used which integrate the physical, psychological, social, and spiritual dimensions of their being. The contributors to this book emphasize the importance of working not only with the patient but with the ward situation, friends, and family members. By offering patients the chance to be creative, they become something other than patients; they become expressive beings, and there is an intimacy in music therapy that is important for those who are suffering. Many of the contributors write in their own personal voice, providing a particular insight which will be valuable not only to other music therapists seeking to enrich their own ways of working but to all those involved in caring for the sick and the dying. Contributors describe their work with both children and adults living with HIV/AIDS, cancer, and other chronic degenerative diseases.
