Flemish Illuminated Manuscripts 1400 1550:

Flemish Illuminated Manuscripts, 1400-1550 Scot McKendrick, 2003 Flemish Illuminated Manuscripts, 1400-1550
Scot McKendrick, British Library, 2003 The remarkable and distinctive art of early Netherlandish painters such as Jan van Eyck and Rogier van der Weyden is well known to visitors of art galleries and museums Yet illuminated manuscripts rarely seen except by scholars and curators offer some of the best evidence for our understanding of early Netherlandish painting through a remarkable period of 150 years Unlike paintings which have been varnished cleaned repainted and exposed to light the illuminations kept secure within the bindings of a book retain their original colour and clarity of definition Book Flap

Flemish Manuscript Painting in Context Elizabeth Morrison, Thomas Kren, 2007-01-08 A companion to the Getty's prize winning exhibition catalogue Illuminating the Renaissance: The Triumph of Flemish Manuscript Painting in Europe this volume contains thirteen selected papers presented at two conferences held in conjunction with that exhibition The first was organized by the Getty Museum and the second was held at the Courtauld Institute of Art under the sponsorship of the Courtauld Institute and the Royal Academy of Arts Added here is an essay by Margaret Scott on the role of dress during the reign of Charles the Bold Texts include Lorne Campbell's research into Rogier van der Weyden's work as an illuminator Nancy Turner's investigation of materials and methods of painting in Flemish manuscripts and trenchant commentary by Jonathan Alexander and James Marrow on the state of current research on Flemish illumination A recurring theme is the structure of collaboration in manuscript production The essays also reveal an important new patron of manuscript illumination and address the role of illuminated manuscripts at the Burgundian court A series of biographies of Burgundian scribes is featured Flemish and Dutch Artists in Early Modern England Mary Bryan H. Curd, 2017-07-05 By examining their production practices in a variety of genres including manuscript illustration glass painting and staining tapestry manufacture portrait painting and engraving this book explores how Netherlandish artists migrating to England in the early modern period overcame difficulties raised by their outsider status This study examines for the first time in this context the challenges of alien status to artistic production and the effectiveness of cooperation as a countermeasure The author demonstrates that collaboration was chief among the strategies that these foreigners chose to secure a position in London's changing art market Curd's exploration of these collaborations primarily follows Pierre Bourdieu's model of establishment and challenger in which dominance in a field of cultural production depends upon how much cultural political and economic capital can be accumulated and the effectiveness of the strategies used to confront competition The analysis presented here challenges received opinion that a collaborative work is only a joint effort of artists working together on a single monument by demonstrating that the participation of patrons and middlemen can also shape the final appearance of a work of art Furthermore this book shows that the strategic use of collaboration served the goal of competition by helping to establish foreign artists in the London art market and suggests that their coping strategies have implications for the study of immigrant behaviors today The Grove Encyclopedia of Medieval Art and Architecture Colum Hourihane, 2012 This volume offers unparalleled coverage of all aspects of art and architecture from medieval Western Europe from the 6th century to the early 16th century Drawing upon the expansive scholarship in the celebrated Grove Dictionary of Art and adding hundreds of new entries it offers students researchers and the general public a reliable up to date and convenient resource covering this field of major importance in the development of Western history and international art and architecture

Flowers in Medieval Manuscripts Celia Fisher, 2004-01-01 Each section of Flowers in Medieval Manuscripts includes relevant details of the manuscripts from which the illustrations are taken and the concluding section discusses manuscript production in relation to these margins Piety in Pieces Kathryn M. Rudy, 2016-09-26 Medieval manuscripts resisted obsolescence Made by highly specialised craftspeople scribes illuminators book binders with labour intensive processes using exclusive and sometimes exotic materials parchment made from dozens or hundreds of skins inks and paints made from prized minerals animals and plants books were expensive and built to last They usually outlived their owners Rather than discard them when they were superseded book owners found ways to update amend and upcycle books or book parts These activities accelerated in the fifteenth century Most manuscripts made before 1390 were bespoke and made for a particular client but those made after 1390 especially books of hours were increasingly made for an open market in which the producer was not in direct contact with the buyer Increased efficiency led to more generic products which owners were motivated to personalise It also led to more blank parchment in the book for example the backs of inserted miniatures and the blank ends of textual components Book buyers of the late fourteenth and throughout the fifteenth century still held onto the old connotations of manuscripts that they were custom made luxury items even when the production had become impersonal Owners consequently purchased books made for an open market and then personalised them filling in the blank spaces and even adding more components later This would give them an affordable product but one that still smacked of luxury and met their individual needs They kept older books in circulation by amending them attached items to generic books to make them more relevant and valuable and added new prayers with escalating indulgences as the culture of salvation shifted Rudy considers ways in which book owners adjusted the contents of their books from the simplest add a marginal note sew in a curtain to the most complex take the book apart embellish the components with painted decoration add more quires of parchment By making sometimes extreme adjustments book owners kept their books fashionable and emotionally relevant This study explores the intersection of codicology and human desire Rudy shows how increased modularisation of book making led to more standardisation but also to more opportunities for personalisation She asks What properties did parchment manuscripts have that printed books lacked What are the interrelationships among technology efficiency skill loss and standardisation Pathos in Late-Medieval Religious Drama and Art Gabriella Mazzon, 2018-05-23 Pathos as Communicative Strategy in Late Medieval Religious Drama and Art explores the strategies employed to trigger emotional responses in late medieval dramatic texts from several Western European traditions and juxtaposes these texts with artistic productions from the same areas with an emphasis on Britain The aim is to unravel the mechanisms through which pathos was produced and employed mainly through the representation of pain and suffering with mainly religious but also political aims The novelty of the book resides in its specific linguistic perspective which highlights the recurrent use of words structures and dialogic patterns in drama to reinforce messages on the salvific value of suffering in synergy with visual messages produced in the same cultural milieu

Faces of Power & Piety Erik Inglis, 2008 Faces of Power and Piety is the second in the Medieval Imagination series of small affordable books that draw on manuscript illuminations in the collections of the J Paul Getty Museum and the British Library Each volume focuses on a particular theme to provide an accessible and delightful introduction to the imagination of the medieval world The vivid and charming faces featured in this volume include portraits of both illustrious historical figures and celebrated contemporaries They reveal that medieval artists often disregarded physical appearance in favor of emphasizing qualities such as power and piety capturing how their subjects wished to be remembered for the ages Faces of Power and Piety also looks at the development of portraiture in the modern sense during the Renaissance when likeness became an important component of portrait painting An exhibition of the same name will be on view at the J Paul Getty Museum from August 12 through October 26 2008

English Humanism and the Reception of Virgil C. 1400-1550 Matthew Day, 2022-12 Matthew Day reassesses how the spread of Renaissance humanism in England impacted the reception of Virgil In emphasizing the very gradual pace of humanist development and the continuous influence of medieval scholarship a more qualified view is reached of how humanism did and just as importantly did not affect Virgilian reading and translation
