Ego and Soul John Carroll, 2010-03-02 The crisis of meaning is the issue of our time The old beliefs that guided the West have faded without credible replacement Who lives well What characterizes the good life More particularly what may we in the modern West claim about ourselves And ultimately does how we live and what we do make any sense Concerned for today's society and its problems as they relate to meaning faith belief morale moral attachment and social direction John Carroll surveys these questions in Ego and Soul He examines how people in their ordinary and everyday lives grope unconsciously for direction casting lines into the transcendent in the hope of a catch He focuses on the main areas of modern life work sport popular culture family friendship intimacy shopping tourism computers cars do it yourself renovation our democratic temper and the retreat into nature He also examines high culture the upper middle class elites and the universities tracing why they have lost their way and failed to provide a language that might help modern people understand their condition Ego and Soul offers a surprising and compelling new look at the way we live today and the way we try to make sense of our lives

Tourism and Innovation Williams Allan, 2008-02-19 Tourism is often described as an industry with high growth rates and it is subject to radical change in how it is produced and consumed However there is still a relatively poor understanding of how such changes are brought about that is through innovation This book is the first to provide a comprehensive review of innovation in tourism while also considering how tourism itself contributes to innovative local regional and national development strategies This timely book places tourism innovation in the context of current academic and policy concerns relating to knowledge competition and the management of change A substantial introductory chapter provides an overview of what makes innovation in tourism both distinctive from and similar to innovation in other economic sectors This is followed by three general scene setting chapters which explore how competition and the search for competitiveness drive tourism innovation how knowledge transfers and knowledge creation lead the process and how institutions shape innovation These provide a coherent theoretical framework for understanding the roles of different agencies in innovation ranging from the state to the firm to the consumer The next four chapters analyze innovation at different scales Two chapters review the territorial dimensions of innovation through the fresh perspectives of the national and regional innovation systems followed by reviews of the determinants of innovation in the firm and the contested and complex role of entrepreneurship The final chapter summarises the importance of understanding tourism innovation This is a groundbreaking volume which provides an accessible introduction to a key but neglected topic It provides a readable account of the multidisciplinary research on innovation and relates the emerging theoretical framework to tourism A clear conceptual framework is complemented by fifty boxes which provide a range of illustrative international case studies This book will be a useful guide for researchers and students of tourism studies management and business and geography
