Replications Whitney Davis, 2010-11-01 The twelve interdisciplinary essays collected here explore what Whitney Davis calls replication in archaeology art history and psychoanalysis the sequential production of similar artifacts or images substitutable for one another in specific contexts of use Davis suggests that while archaeology deals with the physics of replication its material conditions and constraints psychoanalysis deals with the psychics of replication its mental conditions and constraints Because art history is equally interested in the material properties and in the personal and cultural meaning of artifacts and images it can mediate the interests of archaeology and psychoanalysis Thus Replications explores not only the differences between but also the common ground shared by archaeology art history and psychoanalysis focusing for example on their mutual interest in the style of artifacts or image making their need to treat the nonintentional or nonmeaningful element in production and their models of the subjective and social transmission of replications in the life history of persons and communities Replications is an original contribution to an emerging field of study in domains as diverse as philosophy cognitive science connoisseurship and cultural studies the intersection of the material and the meaningful in the human production of artifacts Davis develops formal models for and theories about this relationship exploring the ideas of a number of philosophers historians and critics and presenting his own distinctive conceptual analysis

Galenson, 2011-06-27 When in their lives do great artists produce their greatest art Do they strive for creative perfection throughout decades of painstaking and frustrating experimentation or do they achieve it confidently and decisively through meticulous planning that yields masterpieces early in their lives By examining the careers not only of great painters but also of important sculptors poets novelists and movie directors Old Masters and Young Geniuses offers a profound new understanding of artistic creativity Using a wide range of evidence David Galenson demonstrates that there are two fundamentally different approaches to innovation and that each is associated with a distinct pattern of discovery over a lifetime Experimental innovators work by trial and error and arrive at their major contributions gradually late in life In contrast conceptual innovators make sudden breakthroughs by formulating new ideas usually at an early age Galenson shows why such artists as Michelangelo Rembrandt C zanne Jackson Pollock Virginia Woolf Robert Frost and Alfred Hitchcock were experimental old masters and why Vermeer van Gogh Picasso Herman Melville James Joyce Sylvia Plath and Orson Welles were conceptual young geniuses He also explains how this changes our understanding of art and its past Experimental innovators seek and conceptual innovators find By illuminating the differences between them this pioneering book provides vivid new insights into the mysterious processes of human creativity String Explorer, Book 1 Andrew H. Claiming the Courageous Middle Shirley A. Mullen, 2024-04-16 Today's political and cultural polarization has led to suspicion and animosity in our churches our workplaces and even our families It has also led to a false sense that our options are limited to choosing a side But there is a better way Shirley Mullen invites readers to claim the powerful redemptive potential of the courageous middle Far from being a place of bland averaging moral cowardice wobbling indecisiveness or lazy indifference the courageous middle is a place where thoughtful individuals work with urgency to foster attentive rather than dismissive listening in order to garner what is true and praiseworthy even from those with whom they disagree Their Christian faith which makes it impossible for them to align themselves fully with one side or the other uniquely equips them to call their communities to imagine a more hopeful grace filled future This book offers a Christian theological framework for the work of middle space drawn from the Old and New Testaments It also includes practical advice on how to prepare for this work examples of those who have called their communities to alternatives beyond binary options and discussion questions
