stockings take on grotesque shapes and hang gaping with treasures for early marauders on Christmas morning and hosts of men and women keep the day in their hearts in all peace and piety The festival dear to the heart of sixty generations has survived the commercial uses which it has been compelled to serve the weariness of buying and selling in the vast bazaar of nations stocked with all manner of things which stimulate the offerings of friendship the wide spread sense of irony which success without happiness breeds the indifference of feeling and satiety of emotion fostered by great prosperity without that grace of culture which subdues wealth to the finer uses of life It has survived the cynical spirit that distrusts sentiment and sneers at emotion as weaknesses which have no place in a scientific age and among men and women who know life It has survived that preoccupation with affairs which leaves little time for feelings and that resolute determination to make men good which leaves scant room for efforts to make them happy

Swartz, 1929 Crackers for Christmas: More Stories Edward Hugessen Brabourne, 2025-10-03 Reprint of the original first published in 1883 The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage

Enjoying the Beat of Phrase: An Emotional Symphony within Flip Flap Christmas

In some sort of taken by displays and the ceaseless chatter of fast transmission, the melodic elegance and emotional symphony produced by the prepared term frequently disappear in to the back ground, eclipsed by the constant sound and disturbances that permeate our lives. Nevertheless, set within the pages of Flip Flap Christmas an enchanting literary value brimming with organic feelings, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced.
