Geoarchaeology is traditionally concerned with reconstructing the environmental aspects of past societies using the methods of the earth sciences The field has been steadily enriched by scholars from a diversity of disciplines and much has happened as the importance of global perspectives on environmental change has emerged Carlos Cordova provides a fully up to date account of geoarchaeology that reflects the important changes that have occurred in the past four decades Innovative features include the development of the human ecological approach and the impact of technology on this approach how the diversity of disciplines contributes to archaeological questions frontiers of archaeology in the deep past particularly the Anthropocene the geoarchaeology of the contemporary past the emerging field of ethno geoarchaeology the role of geoarchaeology in global environmental crises and climate change Anthropology and Climate Change Susan A Crate, Mark Nuttall, 2016-06-03

The first book to comprehensively assess anthropology's engagement with climate change this pioneering volume both maps out exciting trajectories for research and issues a call to action Chapters in part one are systematic research reviews covering the relationship between culture and climate from prehistoric times to the present changing anthropological discourse on climate and environment the diversity of environmental and sociocultural changes currently occurring around the globe and the unique methodological and epistemological tools anthropologists bring to bear on climate research Part two includes a series of case studies that highlights leading edge research including some unexpected and provocative findings Part three challenges scholars to be proactive on the front lines of climate change providing instruction on how to work in with research communities with innovative forms of communication in higher education in policy environments as individuals and in other critical arenas Linking sophisticated knowledge to effective actions Anthropology and Climate Change is essential for students and scholars in anthropology and environmental studies

The Great Warming Brian Fagan, 2010-08-01 In this New York Times bestseller Brian Fagan shows how climate transformed and sometimes destroyed human societies during the earth's last global warming phase From the 10th to 15th centuries the earth experienced a rise in surface temperature that changed climate worldwide a preview of today's global warming In some areas including much of Western Europe longer summers brought bountiful crops and population growth that led to cultural flowering In others drought shook long established societies such as the Maya and the Indians of the American Southwest whose monumental buildings were left deserted as elaborate social structures collapsed Brian Fagan examines how subtle changes in the environment had far reaching effects on human life in a narrative that sweeps from the Arctic ice cap to the Sahara to the Indian Ocean The lessons of history suggest we may be yet be underestimating the power of climate change to disrupt our lives today Sustainability or Collapse? Robert Costanza, Lisa J. Graumlich, Will Steffen, 2011-01-21 Scholars from a range of disciplines develop an integrated human and environmental history over millennial centennial and decadal time scales and make projections for the future Human history as written traditionally leaves out the important ecological and climate context of historical events But the capability to integrate the history of human beings with the natural history of the Earth now exists and we are finding that human environmental systems are intimately linked in ways we are only beginning to appreciate In Sustainability or Collapse researchers from a range of scholarly disciplines develop an integrated human and environmental history over millennial centennial and decadal time scales and make projections for the future The contributors focus on the human environment interactions that have shaped historical forces since ancient times and discuss such key methodological issues as data quality Topics highlighted include the political ecology of the Mayans the effect of climate on the Roman Empire the revolutionary weather of El Niño from 1788 to 1795 twentieth century social economic and political forces in environmental change scenarios for the future and the accuracy of such past forecasts as The Limits to Growth Irrigation and Society in the Peruvian Desert Katharina Jeanne Schreiber, Josue Lancho Rojas, 2003-01-01 Nasca once home to a sophisticated ancient culture is an improbable paradise a verdant landscape in the middle of the Peruvian coastal desert one of the driest places on the face of the Earth Irrigation and Society The Puquios of Nasca looks at the legendary puquios of Nasca the underground aqueduct system built by Incans which is arguably responsible for this strange abundance of water Authors Katharina Schreiber and Josue Rojas explore the puquios their probable means of construction their function in ancient society and how they are used today Few ancient cultures were as knowledgeable about water or as technologically adept at accessing it and Schreiber and Rojas provide a fascinating glimpse of an ancient society through the seemingly mundane act of transporting water Irrigation and Society is much more than a simple treatise on water distribution it is a detailed examination of the role of large scale irrigation in the emergence of sociopolitical complexity Mapping Water in Dominica Mark W. Hauser, 2021-05-11 How sugarcane monoculture decimated an island's water supply and people Open access edition DOI 10.6069/9780295748733 Dominica a place once described as Nature's Island was rich in biodiversity and seemingly abundant water but in the eighteenth century a brief failed attempt by colonial administrators to replace cultivation of varied plant species with sugarcane caused widespread ecological and social disruption Illustrating how deeply intertwined plantation slavery was with the environmental devastation it caused Mapping Water in Dominica situates the social lives of eighteenth century enslaved laborers in the natural history of two Dominican enclaves Mark Hauser draws on archaeological and archival history from Dominica to reconstruct the changing ways that enslaved people interacted with water and exposes crucial pieces of Dominica's colonial history that have been omitted from official documents The archaeological record which preserves traces of slave households waterways boiling houses mills and vessels for storing water reveals changes in political authority and in how social relations were mediated through the environment Plantation monoculture which depended on both slavery and an abundant supply of water worked through the environment to create predicaments around scarcity mobility and belonging whose resolution was a matter of life and death In following the vestiges of these struggles this investigation documents a valuable example of an environmental challenge centered around insufficient water Mapping Water in Dominica is available in an open access edition through the Sustainable History Monograph Pilot thanks to the generous support of the Andrew W Mellon Foundation and Northwestern University Libraries Objects and Materials Penny Harvey,Eleanor Conlin Casella,Gillian Evans,Hannah Knox,Christine McLean,Elizabeth B. Silva,Nicholas Thoburn,Kath Woodward,2014-07-16 There is broad acceptance across the Humanities and Social Sciences that our deliberations on the social need to take place through attention to practice to object mediated relations to non human agency and to the affective dimensions of human sociality This Companion focuses on the objects and materials found at centre stage and asks what matters about objects Objects and Materials explores the field providing succinct summary accounts of contemporary scholarship along with a wealth of new research investigating the capacity of objects to shape unsettle and exceed expectations Original chapters from over forty international interdisciplinary contributors address an array of objects and materials to ask what the terms of collaborations with objects and materials are and to consider how these collaborations become integral to our understandings of the complex relational dynamics that fashion social worlds Objects and Materials will be of interest to students and scholars across the social sciences and humanities including in sociology social theory science and technology studies history anthropology archaeology gender studies women s studies geography cultural studies politics and international relations and philosophy Global Perspectives on Long Term Community Resource Management Ludomir R. Lozny,Thomas H. McGovern,2019-06-21 Communal level resource management successes and failures comprise complex interactions that involve local regional and increasingly global scale political economic and environmental changes shown to have recurring patterns and trajectories The human past provides examples of long term millennial and century scale successes followed by undesired transitions collapse and rapid failure of collaborative management cooperation on the decadal scale Management of scarce resources and common properties presents a critical challenge for planners attempting to avoid the tragedy of the commons in this century Here anthropologists human ecologists archaeologists and environmental scientists discuss strategies for social well being in the context of diminishing resources and increasing competition The contributors in this volume revisit tragedy of the commons also referred to as drama or comedy of the commons and examine new data and theories to mitigate pressures and devise models for sustainable communal welfare and development They present twelve archaeological historic and ethnographic cases of user managed resources to demonstrate that very basic community level participatory governance can be a successful strategy to manage short term risk and benefits The book connects past present future by presenting geographically and chronologically

spaced out examples of communal level governance strategies and overviews of the current cutting edge research The lesson we learn from studying past responses to various ecological stresses is that we must not wait for a disaster to happen to react but must react to mitigate conditions for emerging disasters
