of earlier ideas of natural gardens and their relationship to the rich model that nature offers

England's Magnificent Gardens Roderick Floud, 2021-06-15 An altogether different kind of book on English gardens the first of its kind a look at the history of England's magnificent gardens as a history of Britain itself from the seventeenth century gardens of Charles II to those of Prince Charles today In this rich revelatory history Sir Roderick Floud one of Britain's preeminent economic historians writes that gardens have been created in Britain since Roman times but that their true growth began in the seventeenth century by the eighteenth century nurseries in London took up 100 acres with ten million plants that were worth more than all of the nurseries in France combined Floud's book takes us through more than three centuries of English history as he writes of the kings queens and princes whose garden obsessions changed the landscape of England itself from Stuart Georgian and Victorian England to today's Windsors Here are William and Mary who brought Dutch gardens and bulbs to Britain William who twice had his entire garden lowered in order to see the river from his apartments and his successor Queen Anne who like many others since vowed to spend little on her gardens and instead spent millions Floud also writes of Frederick Prince of Wales the founder of Kew Gardens who spent more than 40 000 on a single twenty five foot tulip tree for Carlton House Queen Victoria who built the largest most advanced and most efficient kitchen garden in Britain and Prince Charles who created and designed the gardens of Highgrove inspired by his boyhood memories of his grandmother's gardens We see Sarah Duchess of Marlborough who created a magnificent garden at Blenheim Palace only to tear it apart and build a greater one Deborah Duchess of Devonshire the savior of Chatsworth's 100 acre garden in the midst of its 35 000 acres and the gardens of lesser mortals among them Gertrude Jekyll and Vita Sackville West both notable garden designers and writers We see the designers of royal estates among them Henry Wise William Kent Humphrey Repton and the greatest of all English gardeners Capability Brown who created the 150 acre lake of Blenheim Palace earned millions annually and designed more than 170 parks many still in existence today We learn how gardening became a major catalyst for innovation central heating came from experiments to heat greenhouses with hot water pipes how the new iron industry of industrializing Britain supplied a myriad of tools mowers pumps and the boilers that heated the greenhouses and finally Floud explores how gardening became an enormous industry as well as an art form in Britain and by the nineteenth century was unrivaled anywhere in the world

America's Romance with the English Garden Thomas J. Mickey, 2013-04-17 Named one of the year's best gardening books by The Spectator UK Nov 2014 The 1890s saw a revolution in advertising Cheap paper faster printing rural mail delivery railroad shipping and chromolithography combined to pave the way for the first modern mass produced catalogs The most prominent of these reaching American households by the thousands were seed and nursery catalogs with beautiful pictures of middle class homes surrounded by sprawling lawns exotic plants and the latest garden accessories in other words the quintessential English style garden America's Romance with the English Garden is the story of tastemakers and homemakers of savvy businessmen and a growing American middle class eager to buy their products It's also the story of the beginnings of the modern garden industry which seduced the masses with its images and fixed the English garden in the mind of the American consumer Seed and nursery catalogs delivered aspirational images to front doorsteps from California to Maine and the English garden became the look of America The Victorian Flower Garden Jennifer Davies,1992 This book is both a record of exciting botanical discoveries and new techniques of cultivation in the Victorian era and a fascinating practical experiment with Victorian vintage flower varieties techniques and equipment
