Flexible Crossroads Columbias Forest Economy:

Flexible Crossroads Roger Hayter, 2011-11-01 British Columbia's forest economy is at a crucial crossroads. Its survival Roger Hayter argues rests on its ability to remain flexible and open to innovation a future by no means assured given recent policy initiatives and the current contested nature of British Columbia's forests. Flexible Crossroads looks at the contemporary restructuring of British Columbia's forest economy demonstrating how both resource dynamics the transition from old growth to managed forests and industrial dynamics changing technology and global market forces have shaped this transformation. Conceptually the restructuring is portrayed as a shift from a commodity based cost minimizing production system Fordism to a more product differentiated value maximizing production system informed by the imperative of flexibility. The first part of the book provides global and historical perspectives by situating British Columbia's forest economy within the wider context of global industrialization the history of resource dynamics and the current shift from Fordist to more flexible systems of production. In the second part Hayter assesses the extent to which British Columbia's forest economy is enacting this shift by focusing on factors such as foreign ownership the strategies and structure of MacMillan Bloedel the role of small firms trade relations employment and labour relations forest community development environmentalism and resource use and innovation policy. Flexible Crossroads will appeal to geographers political economists and forestry professionals as well as to students of British Columbia's economy and forest economies generally.

Property, Territory, Globalization William D. Coleman, 2011-05-10 In a world of flux and globalization when old territories are dissolving and new nations and political unions are coming together who controls ideas information and creativity? Who patrols the new frontiers? This volume opens a window to the dark side of globalization and the struggles for autonomy it has generated. The chapters focus on property regimes in crisis as sites where globalization autonomy and the political economy of international capitalism intersect. Sites of friction indigenous land claims BC forest disputes conflicts between farmers and the patent owners of genetically modified seeds demonstrate not only how property laws and intellectual property rights are supporting the expansion of private property regimes but also how local activists are using a politics of place to resist these forces. The work of Palestinian poets whose attachment to the land is explored in a powerful Coda at the end of the book shows that a politics of place can help local actors build new bases of autonomy to withstand the forces of globalization.

Setting the Standard Christopher Tollefson, Fred Gale, David Haley, 2009-05-01 Setting the Standard chronicles the emergence and implications of an ambitious experiment in civil society led global governance the Forest Stewardship Council. Drawing on a pioneering case study of this negotiation process this book explores the challenges associated with implementing the FSC's global vision on the ground. Indeed the establishment of an FSC standard for British Columbia was achieved only after difficult and protracted negotiations at the regional national and global levels. This important work also undertakes a detailed comparative analysis of FSC standards and standard setting processes elsewhere and grapples with the broader implications.

for global governance and regulatory theory The Punjabis in British Columbia Kamala Elizabeth Nayar,2012-10-01 In this richly detailed study Kamala Nayar documents the social and cultural transformation of the Punjabi community in British Columbia From their initial settlement in the rural Skeena region to the communities that later developed in larger urban centres The Punjabis in British Columbia illustrates the complex and diverse experiences of an immigrant community that merits greater attention Exploring themes of gender employment rural and urban migrant life and the relationships between the Punjabis and surrounding First Nations and other immigrant groups Nayar creates a portrait of a community in transition Shedding light on the ways in which economic circumstances affect immigrant communities Nayar presents findings from interviews conducted with over one hundred participants She details the relocation of Punjabi populations from the Skeena region to British Columbia's lower mainland during the decline of the forestry and fishery industries how their second migration changed their professional and personal lives and how their history continues to shape the identities and experiences of Punjabis in Canada today A nuanced look at the complexities of social and cultural adaptation The Punjabis in British Columbia adds an essential perspective to what it means to be Canadian Transformation of Resource Towns and Peripheries

Greg Halseth,2016-07-01 Most developed economies including single industry and resource dependent rural or small town regions are transforming rapidly as a result of social political and economic change Collectively they face a number of challenges as well as new opportunities This international collaboration describes a critical political economy framework that will be useful for understanding these transitions Transformation of Resource Towns and Peripheries describes the multi faceted process of transition and change in resource dependent rural and small town regions since the end of the Second World War The book incorporates international case studies from Australia Canada Finland and New Zealand with the express purpose of highlighting similarities and differences in patterns and practices in each country Chapters explore three main themes how corporate ties and trade linkages are changing and impacting rural communities and regions how resource industry employment is changing in these small communities and how local community capacity and leadership are working to mitigate challenges and take advantage of new opportunities This book will be of interest to students of regional studies geography and rural and industrial sociology It will also have a strong appeal to policy makers and local regional development practitioners International Business Geography Piet Pellenbarg,Egbert Wever,2007-10-04 Written by eminent scholars who are well known within their fields across Europe this book explores changes in the international economic environment their impacts on the strategy of firms and the spatial consequences of these changes in strategy The economic environment in which major companies operate is subject to rapid and important changes

Community Forestry in Canada Sara Teitelbaum,2016-07-28 In recent decades community forestry has taken root across Canada Locally run initiatives are lauded as welcome alternatives to large corporate and industrial logging practices yet little research has been done to document their tangible outcomes or draw connections between their ideals of local control community benefit ecological stewardship and economic diversification and the realities of community forestry practice This book brings together the work of over twenty five researchers to provide the first comparative and empirically rich portrait of community forestry policy and practice in Canada Tackling all of the forestry regions from Newfoundland to British Columbia it unearths the history of community forestry revealing surprising regional differences linked to patterns of policy making and cultural traditions Case studies celebrate innovative practices in governance and ecological management while uncovering challenges related to government support and market access The future of the sector is also considered including the role of institutional reform multiscale networks and adaptive management strategies

Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities Peter W. Daniels, Kong Chong Ho, Thomas A. Hutton, Tom Hutton, 2005-04 During the second half of the twentieth century development in the Asia Pacific region has been dominated by industrialization However at the beginning of the twenty first century services in particular finance information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of urban growth In Asia Pacific the rise of service industries has lead to national modernization programmes and globalization strategies Services are also driving change in the internal form of city regions and are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use changes These changes have created problems such as social polarization and the displacement of traditional industries and residential districts Also there are tensions between local and global processes in the development of service industries and between the imperatives of competitive advantage and sustainable development

Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities brings together a multi disciplinary team of experts to explore and illustrate the theoretical conceptual and practical issues arising from the transformation of Asia Pacific cities by service industries

B/ordering Space Henk van Houtum, 2017-03-02 In the wake of globalization numerous social scientists are turning to concepts of mobility fluidity and hybridity to characterize a presumed de territorialization and de bordering of contemporary social and economic relations This book brings together a select group of internationally renowned human geographers to explore the use of these concepts in relation to space place and territory In doing so they re situate the subject of borders as active socio spatial processes from a variety of theoretical perspectives The contributors link debates on borders to discussions within the wider sphere of cultural studies notably those addressing themes of migration post colonialism the formation of national regional identities and radical democratic practice The chapters focus on those discursive practices that constitute bordered geographical entities in the first instance through differentiated regimes of discourse The book thus transcends the narrower field of borderlands research by building bridges to other domains of enquiry within political and human geography

Renegotiating Community William D. Coleman, Diana Brydon, 2009-01-01 Both as a concept and a set of social relationships community is central to contemporary debates about globalization Faced with finding a livable response to globalization many communities are renegotiating their identities and functions and in some instances entirely new communities are being formed Yet there is no clear consensus on why community matters or on how globalization affects particular communities Renegotiating Community asks what happens to the autonomy of individuals and communities under the influence of globalization Original case studies show how a range of communities are renegotiating the meanings of community and autonomy while living with and sometimes challenging the processes of globalization By addressing the coercive and comforting dimensions of community as well as the need to reconcile conflicting claims to autonomy this book redraws the conceptual maps through which community globalization and autonomy are understood Reshaping Gender and Class in Rural Spaces Barbara Pini,Belinda Leach,2011 Leach and Pini bring together empirical and theoretical studies that consider the intersections of class gender and rurality Each chapter engages with current debates on these concepts to explore them in the context of contemporary social and economic transformations This book will appeal to scholars working in the fields of gender rurality identity and class studies

Capital and Labour in the British Columbia Forest Industry, 1934-74 Gordon Hak,2011-11-01 The history of British Columbia s economy in the twentieth century is inextricably bound to the development of the forest industry In this comprehensive study Gordon Hak approaches the forest industry from the perspectives of workers and employers examining the two main sets of institutions that structured the relationship during the Fordist era the companies and the unions Drawing on theories of the labour process Fordism and discursive subjectivity Hak relates daily routines of production and profit making to broader forces of unionism business ideology ecological protest technological change and corporate concentration The struggle of the small business sector to survive in the face of corporate growth the history of the industry on the Coast and in the Interior the transformations in capital labour relations during the period government forest policy and the forest industry s encounter with the emerging environmental movement are all considered in this eloquent analysis With its critical historical perspective Capital and Labour in the British Columbia Forest Industry will be essential reading for anyone interested in the business natural resource political social and labour history of the province Geography of British Columbia, 2nd ed. Brett McGillivray,2011-11 Why is British Columbia unique within Canada What physical processes have made this province so rugged and produced such remarkable variation in climate and vegetation Why did non Natives come to British Columbia and what impact did they have on First Nations Why did so many Asian immigrants come to this province and then leave for other parts of Canada How were resources developed in the past and how are those resources developed today Geography of British Columbia discusses these and many other aspects of the growth of this distinctive province Brett McGillivray focuses first on the combination of physical processes that produced a spectacular variety of mountains rivers lakes islands fjords forests and minerals explaining the forces that created the province and the natural hazards that can reshape it A concise examination of B C historical geography follows covering First Nations ways of life colonization Asian immigration and the sad history of institutionalized racism The second half of the book contains a detailed description of the economic geography of the province with chapters on forestry the salmon fishery metal mining energy supply and demand agriculture water and the tourism industry It addresses the present day issues of urbanization economic development and resource management providing a thorough background to these topics and suggesting what the future might hold This up to date and comprehensive exploration of the rich historical geography and development of British Columbia will be welcomed by teachers students scholars and everyone with an interest in the province

New Economic Spaces: New Economic Geographies James W. Harrington, Richard Le Heron, 2017-11-28 As a core volume in the Dynamics of Economic Space series contributors from North America Australasia Europe and the Middle East each address the constitutive processes of new economic and institutional spaces and the theoretical methodological and policy engaging practices of emerging economic geographies Together they provide a timely and important overview of the current debates about the geographies of economic change As national and regional economies change rapidly so the frameworks concepts and methods used to describe and analyse those processes also need to evolve This volume puts forward a comprehensive analysis of a range of different and innovative means currently available through which to view regional economic activities and interactions

Tracking the Great Bear Justin Page, 2014-01-01 Encompassing millions of hectares of globally rare coastal rainforest the Great Bear Rainforest in coastal British Columbia is home to ancient trees rich runs of salmon and abundant species The area also supports small human communities particularly First Nations Once slated for clearcut logging large areas were protected in 2006 by the signing of one of the world's most innovative conservation agreements This book provides a detailed account of the complex and contested process that resulted in the establishment of the GBR It also shows how environmentalists deployment of a powerful actor network saved the area from status quo industrial forestry while still respecting First Nations right to economic development

Jobs with Inequality John Peters, 2022-06-29 Income inequality has skyrocketed in Canada over the past few decades The rich have become richer while the average household income has deteriorated and job quality has plummeted Common explanations for these trends point to globalization technology or other forces largely beyond our control But as Jobs with Inequality shows there is nothing inevitable about inequality Rather runaway inequality is the result of politics and policies what governments have done to aid the rich and boost finance and what they have not done to uphold the interests of workers Drawing on new tax and income data John Peters tells the story of how inequality is unfolding in Canada today by examining post democracy financialization and labour market deregulation Timely and novel Jobs with Inequality explains how and why business and government have rewritten the rules of the economy to the advantage of the few and considers why progressive efforts to reverse these trends have so regularly run aground

In Search of Sustainability Benjamin Cashore, 2011-11-01 In recent years the forests of British Columbia have become a battleground for sustainable resource development The conflicts are ever present usually pitting environmentalists against the forest industry and forestry workers and communities In an effort to broker peace in the woods British Columbia's NDP government launched a number of promising new forest policy initiatives in the 1990s In Search of

Sustainability brings together a group of political scientists to examine this extraordinary burst of policy activism Focusing on how much change has occurred and why the authors examine seven components of BC forest policy land use forest practices tenure Aboriginal issues timber supply pricing and jobs

Ageing Resource Communities Mark Skinner, Neil Hanlon, 2015-09-16 Throughout the world's hinterland regions people are growing old in resource dependent communities that were neither originally designed nor presently equipped to support an ageing population This book provides cutting edge theoretical and empirical insights into the new phenomenon resource frontier ageing to understand the diverse experiences of and responses to rural population ageing in the early 21st century The book explores the resource hinterland as a new frontier of rural ageing and examines three central themes of rural population change community development and voluntarism that characterize ageing resource communities By investigating the links among these three themes the book provides the conceptual and empirical foundations for the future agenda of rural ageing research This timely contribution contains 15 original chapters by leading international experts from Australia New Zealand USA Canada UK Ireland and Norway

Social Transformation in Rural Canada John Parkins, Maureen Reed, 2012-10-20 The rapidly changing nature of life in Canadian rural communities is more than a simple response to economic conditions People living in rural places are part of a new social agenda characterized by transformation of livelihoods landscapes and social relations inviting us to reconsider the meanings of community culture and citizenship This volume presents the work of researchers from a variety of fields who explore social transformation in rural settlements across the country The essays collectively generate a nuanced portrait of how local forms of action adaptation identity and imagination are reshaping aboriginal and non aboriginal communities of rural Canada

Knock on Wood W. Scott Prudham, 2012-11-12 Scott Prudham investigates a region that has in recent years seen more environmental conflict than perhaps anywhere else in the country the old growth forests of the Pacific Northwest Prudham employs a political economic approach to explain the social and economic conflicts arising from the timber industry's presence in the region As well he provides a thorough accounting of the timber industry itself tracing its motivations practices and labor relations
