Floods Of The Future:

Floods of the Future Paul Stein, 2001 Looks at the causes of flooding climate changes and the effects of global warming and the possibility of floods in the future Extreme Floods and Droughts under Future Climate Scenarios Momcilo Markus, Ximing Cai, Ryan Sriver, 2019-11-28 Hydroclimatic extremes such as floods and droughts affect aspects of our lives and the environment including energy hydropower agriculture transportation urban life and human health and safety Climate studies indicate that the risk of increased flooding and or more severe droughts will be higher in the future than today causing increased fatalities environmental degradation and economic losses Using a suite of innovative approaches this book quantifies the changes in projected hydroclimatic extremes and illustrates their impacts in several locations in North America Asia and Europe Future Flooding and Coastal Erosion Risks Colin R Thorne, Edward Evans, E. Penning-Rowsell, 2007-01-10 Over 200 billion worth of assets are at risk around British rivers and coasts and those risks are likely to increase over the next 100 years due to changes in climate and in society Sir David King Government Chief Scientific Adviser This book presents a comprehensive insight into the flooding system spanning multiple disciplines across different sectors of the flood and flood management professions It forecasts the manner in which flooding and coastal erosion risks may increase during the 21st century due to climate change Estimating the Impacts of Urban Growth on Future Flood Risk Willem Veerbeek, 2017-12-01 The unprecedented growth of cities has a significant impact on future flood risk that might exceed the impacts of climate change in many metropolitan areas across the world Although the effects of urbanisation on flood risk are well understood assessments that include spatially explicit future growth projections are limited This comparative study provides insight in the long term development of future riverine and pluvial flood risk for 18 fast growing megacities The outcomes provide not only a baseline absent in current practise but also a strategic outlook that might better establish the role of urban planning in limiting future flood risk Future flood and water management legislation Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2010-12-22 Government must act to tackle the twin challenges of protecting over five million properties from flooding and maintaining clean reliable and affordable water supplies The Committee is concerned that the Government has cut flood defence funding and will in future require communities to pay a greater contribution towards the defences from which they benefit At a time of budgetary constraint the committee believes there is no certainty that this funding gap can be filled The report tells Ministers they must spell out how the Government will deliver its pledge to focus public money for flood defence on those communities at greatest risk and least able to protect themselves ensure adequate and stable funding for local authorities and other agencies given new responsibilities under the Flood and Water Management Act 2010 to plan for and respond to flood events The report calls on the Government to sharpen the regulatory framework for the water industry to ensure it places customers views at the heart of a future strategy that will deliver improved affordability and water efficiency Ministers should clarify the role for social tariffs in helping those who have difficulty paying their water bills implement a solution that brings down bills for customers in regions where water charges are at present disproportionately high due to the need for large scale capital investment in sewage systems publish a strategy to implement a wider programme of metering and variable tariffs designed to improve water efficiency while protecting those on low incomes from unaffordable price rises
