Can you tell a tomato from a grape? Lawn from an oak tree? Then congratulations, you are a botanist! Self-confessed bad birdwatcher Simon Barnes thought he knew nothing about plants. He didn't object to them; trees are interesting because birds perch in them; plants are useful as they create habitats and birds live in habitats. But while admiring the tenacity of some sea kale and yellow horned poppy to thrive on an inhospitable shingle beach, he was struck by a truth: it all begins with plants. In this funny and inspiring book, Simon Barnes tells the story of a lifelong relationship with plants and the realisation of the fact. Taking us from thinking ourselves ignorant about plants to gently starting to observe seasons, patterns and places, Barnes guides us on a journey to better observing the beauty and diversity of the natural world. Both a primer on how to appreciate the plants around us and an exploration on how they make our external and interior worlds. How to be a Bad Botanist opens our eyes to the wonders around us. Plants are everywhere in every part of your life and you know more than you think. Wonderland Brett Westwood, Stephen Moss, 2017-04-06 A SUNDAY TIMES BESTSELLER. British wildlife from two superb naturalists and writers. CHRIS PACKHAM. From blackbirds, beavers and beetles to tawny owls, natterjack toads and lemon slugs. Every day of the year, winter or summer, in every corner of the British Isles, there's plenty to see if you know where and how to look. From encounters with the curious black redstart which winters on our rocky coasts to the tiny green snowdrop shoots that are the first sign that spring might be round the corner. And from the blossom time and dawn choruses of April and May into the abundant noisiness of summer where days start with hawkers, dragonflies and drowsy bumblebees and end with glow worms and ghost moths to autumn when in the early morning mist of London's Richmond Park, male red deer lock horns in competition for a mate. Nature is always full of surprises, whether it's the strange behaviour of clothes moths or the gruesome larder of the strike. Distilling two lifetimes' knowledge, expert insight and enthusiasm, award-winning authors and passionate naturalists Brett Westwood and Stephen Moss take us through the year, day by day, sharing the unexpected delights that we can experience in our skies, beaches, rivers, fields, forests and back gardens.
