Bond the the 60s Spy Craze will explore James Bond films and the number of movies and television shows of the 1960s inspired by Ian Fleming s character The book also delves into the production casting merchandise and music that helped to make James Bond a household name and a cultural touchstone The 1960s spy craze lasted seven years ostensibly from 1962 1969 peaking in 1966 1967 However in that time many secret agent films flooded theaters and drive ins and television shows filled station line ups in the United States throughout the 1960s All of which were directly inspired by the first James Bond adventure to hit the big screen Dr No 1962 This is the story from a historical perspective of those films and how they became a part of American pop culture The book explores the various other top agents of the time Matt Helm Dereck Flint and Harry Palmer and the many spy spoof imitators coming from the United States England Europe and Mexico and discusses the impact James Bond had on each of these films and the ways in which James Bond influenced media Also discussed are budgets casting production box office numbers ratings development merchandising and how these elements have contributed to the success and longevity of the popularity of James Bond films Encyclopedia of Television Series, Pilots and Specials

Vincent Terrace,1985 Prehistoric Humans in Film and Television Michael Klossner,2015-01-09 From the early days of the movies cavemen have been a popular subject for filmmakers not surprisingly since the birth of cinema occurred only a few decades after the earliest scientific studies of prehistoric man Filmmakers however were not constrained by the emerging science instead they most often took a comedic look at prehistory a trend that continued throughout the 20th century Prehistoric humans also populated adventure fantasy films with the original One Million B C 1940 leading the charge

Documentaries were also made but it was not until the 1970s that accurate film accounts of prehistoric humans finally emerged This exhaustive work provides detailed accounts of 581 film and television productions that feature depictions of human prehistory Included are dramas and comedies set in human prehistory documentaries and films and television shows in which prehistoric people somehow exist in historical periods from the advent of civilization up to the present or in extraterrestrial settings Each entry includes full filmographic data including year of release running time production personnel cast information and format A description of each film provides background on the prehistoric elements Contemporary critical commentary is included for many of the works Fred Flintstone's Adventures with Pulleys Mark
